

TELLS HOW TO MIX IT.

Directions To Prepare Simple, Yet Remarkable Home Mixture.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

Legal Regulated Monopoly.

In connection with the President's St. Louis speech, relating to the creation of Federal corporations, we should not forget Judge Farrar's letter, published last May. Judge Farrar contended that under the power "to establish post offices and post roads" the Federal Government "can create railway corporations, and give them such power as Congress may think best; and, in so doing, protect the railroads from all state, county and municipal taxation, except such as Congress may authorize". This view has been adopted by the President in the interest of the railroad corporations. It is not a sound view. It has been directly controverted by the opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Thomson vs. the Pacific Railroad, reported in 9th Wallace at page 579, so far as it relates to taxation; and also by the opinion of the same court in vs. Virginia, 6 Wheaton, 264, so far as it relates to the power of Congress to authorize a corporation created by itself or any other power, to transact business in any state whose laws interdict its operation. So, that neither under the post roads clause nor under the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution has Congress the right to create corporations, or to license corporations to do interstate business. The position of the National Association of State Railroad Commissioners, which, at its meeting in Washington, October 9, expressed its hostility to the President's plan, is well sustained by judicial authority. Neither the bank case on which the President relies for his scheme of Federal incorporation, nor the lottery case, on which Mr. Bryan relies for his scheme of Federal license for existing corporations, supports the contention of those who seek by such means to destroy the rights of the states, and to bring in an era of "legal regulated monopoly" such as that recommended by the Civic Federation's Committee on Municipal Ownership, whose report seems to have been paid for by certain New York bankers and capitalists interested in railway and traction corporations. This scheme of legal, regulated monopoly, to which the President and Mr. Bryan have lent the weight of their influence, is precisely what the railroads, insurance companies, and trusts of all sorts desire. They are willing that the President should render them odious to the public, if he will serve them to the extent of releasing them by such means, or any means, from their responsibility to state governments. Their managers are all as practical as Mr. Harrison or Mr. Roosevelt himself. They had rather contribute to a Roosevelt corruption fund than to pay state, county and municipal taxes and obey state laws. Mr. Roosevelt's position puts him in the light of being the ally of the corporations.

The greatest premium offer ever made by any newspaper

We take pleasure in laying before our readers what is undoubtedly the greatest subscription offer ever made by any newspaper. It is the result of an immense amount of work and investigation covering almost the entire summer months. In the United States there are published about 250 magazines. We have examined every one of these magazines from every point of view, taking into account not only their subscription price, but the character of the reading matter, their typographical appearance, and the financial standing of their publishers. After the most exhaustive scrutiny, we have selected three magazines which we believe we can endorse and recommend to our readers. These magazines are SPARE MOMENTS, MOTHER'S MAGAZINE and DRESSMAKING AT HOME. These publications are Magazines and not cheap mail order papers. Each of these magazines sells on the newsstand for either 5 or 10 cents each and have a subscription price of 50 cents a year. Each one of the magazines is ably edited, well illustrated, and has a separate cover printed in colors. They are clean representative standard magazines fit to place on the library table of any home. These magazines have been most carefully selected with the idea of not only getting literary quality and excellence in typographical appearance but with the idea of appealing to every member of the household. The SPARE MOMENTS magazine is in a class by itself. "Printers Ink" "It is one of the most readable and progressive magazines in the field today." Every issue contains something of interest to men, women and children. As the names indicate both the MOTHER'S MAGAZINE and DRESSMAKING AT HOME appeal particularly to women, and these magazines are also in a class by themselves. The magazines are all the equal of any dollar magazine published. We offer these three magazines in connection with a new or renewal subscription to this paper on such favorable terms that we do not see how a single reader of this paper can afford to neglect the remarkable offer we make. We want you to read every word of this advertisement. Read the description below of the three magazines. Read the terms of our offer and then accept AT ONCE.

The Mother's Magazine

THE MOTHER'S MAGAZINE is the only magazine exclusively for mothers. It fills a long felt want and positively meets the needs of the most important class of people in the world. It is cheerful, entertaining, helpful and instructive. It treats of everything of interest to mothers and nothing else. It carries the news of the day, and articles and interviews from the most noted men and women of the country, all bearing on the mother's problems. Its stories and articles are written expressly for mothers and deal with real life. Everything in the MOTHER'S MAGAZINE is practical, and common sense. Its good humor and cheerfulness has won immense popularity. Over 100,000 new subscriptions were received within six months. David's fascinating stories, special interviews and features, it contains over 20 regular departments to help the mother in every possible way with her children and her home. All readers have the privilege of personal advice and help from the editors, a veritable correspondence school for mothers. The magazine contains from 48 to 64 pages, beautifully printed and profusely illustrated in color. For 1908 THE MOTHER'S MAGAZINE promises more than ever before, especially along the lines of Physical Culture, Beauty articles, Child study, Kindergarten methods in the home, Health, Finance, the Servant Problem, Food Products, and Preparation for the future. It is a great variety of matter for the mother's entertainment and pleasure. Remember there is no substitute for the Mother's Magazine. There is nothing like it published in the country.

Spare Moments

Every year or so one magazine comes to the front and stands out as a leader. This year it is SPARE MOMENTS. The magazine has had a meteoric career and made a record in the publishing world. In less than three years, it has obtained a subscription of 200,000 copies, a mark covering the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Florida border to the Gulf of Mexico. Started in November 1905 as a 12 page paper with a subscription price of 10 cents a year, it increased by gradual stages to a 24 page magazine, with a cover in colors, and a subscription price of 50 cents a year. There is absolutely no other magazine like Spare Moments published at the price. It is printed with great care and clear type on a high quality of paper. It contains articles by the same writers who are regulars in the "Saturday Evening Post," "The Saturday Evening Globe," and other magazines which sell for 10 or 15 cents a copy. SPARE MOMENTS pays as much for one article as our best magazines pay for all the matter they use in a whole year. It is a high class magazine in every respect. During 1908 this magazine will include a great serial story, a dozen or more short stories, by the best writers of the day, and a special feature, "Ladies' Longtime," devoted to Cooking, Dress-making, Beauty, Physical Culture, the Children, etc.

Dressmaking at Home.

This magazine is one of the Ladies' Home Journal and contains 30 to 40 pages devoted to the study of fashion. It not only has a handsome cover but also contains a DOUBLE PAGE FASHION COLLECTOR. It tells women how to dress what they can buy to make their own garments and how to have them made for them. The special and elegant designs, patterns, and materials are being and will be worn indicate what could be done at home with the difficulty, health and beauty. There is also a lot of interesting articles on home ornamentation, modern fashion matter, and more practical hints on dressmaking than any other fashion magazine. It makes a modern, up-to-date pattern. The every design it gives suggestions for making over clothes, and offers individual advice on alterations and in fact, has a host of ideas and helps for the woman of the home.
