by 18, but to necommodate certain apples a special box is used which is longer and a triffe nurrower, being 10 by 14 by 20. These are all inode measurements. Experience has shown that as regards thickness of material the three-chaints for sides and one-quarter for top and battom.

In speaking of the styles of pack the trade in general malerstands the packs only when decignated as straight or diagonal. Many people prefer to designate the packs as three, three and one-half, four, four and one-half or five fier.

In the straight pack the rows run straight across the box, parallel to the chees, This pack includes all the three, four and five ther apples. The straight pack is very next in appearance, but it is rather selvere on the fruit as each apple tonds to be pressed firmly against surrounding apples rather than into the spaces. Some packers place the apple on its side others pack with the stems up, while some have the cally up. The lesst packs should always have the bottom and top layers with stems toward the outside. In this way the apples do not tend to bruise as badly.

The four ther consists of four rows across the top and four deep, including the but eight there long; the 125 (eight there long; and the 112 (seven there should not adopt the straight pack, although in some cases we had that the diagonal contains the same number of apples as certain.

The diagonal pack con-tains the fulfitiers such as three and one-harf and four and one-half. One of the advantages of the diagonal pack is that it allows the appies to adjust themselves more resulty to the space

In the three and one half tier we am find that more than three full rows and yet not four fell rows are needed to fill the lox. One can readily see that a good many apples would come in this class, and more different packs are being used with the three and a half than with any other.

Though little known to fame, the humble monladen yields oil and fertilizer worth $1,000,000 a year, giving epployment to 1800 fishermen and 1,000 employees of fifty factories. The people who are so producibly engaged in stangitering 700,000,000 of these fishes every year naturally defin that they were created providentially for the express purpose, since they are not fit for food, and yet the supply seems inexhaustible. No one known whence they come or whither they go, all we know is that every spring vart schools of them appear in the galf of Meigles, houlding north in closely pucked masses, near the surface, utterly incapable of either defense or scape. All that is needed is simply to scoop them up with hig seines.—Brooklyn Eggle.
