Send Name and Address Today. You Can
Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

We have in our possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—just what every man who wishes to regain his manly powers and vitality, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So we have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain envelope will write us for it—simply sealed envelope to any man.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and we are convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

We think we owe it to our fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may at a drug store secure what we believe to be the quickest-acting restorative, rebuilding SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised and so cure himself at home quickly and quietly. Just drop us a line like this: "Butterfield Remedy Co., 4226 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and we will send you a copy of this splendid recipe free of charge. A great many doctors would charge three to five dollars for merely writing out a prescription like this—but we send it entirely free."

Cottonseed Meal for Horses

A reader says he has seen mentioned as stating that "I would rather have two pounds of cottonseed meal than four pounds of corn" for feeding horses and wants to know if this is correct and also how to teach horses to eat cottonseed meal. He states he has failed in his efforts to get horses to eat cottonseed meal.

The question is not exactly correct, because it does not include the statement made. I would rather have two pounds of cottonseed meal than four pounds of corn if the balance of the grain ration is corn and the roughness corn fodder or grass hay. There is a great difference in the two statements. If the roughage is some legume hay and the balance of the grain ration oats, then I would as soon have two pounds of corn as two pounds of cottonseed meal.

Another way to state my view is that with grass hay or corn fodder for roughage I would rather have ten pounds of corn and two pounds of cottonseed meal than 44 pounds of corn, for a hard-working horse.

Our neglect to balance the usual corn and fodder ration, or corn and grass hay ration with cottonseed meal, is a criminal waste of feed and an injustice to the horses and mules of the South. Habit and the fact that it is easier to feed one kind of grain, like ear corn, than to feed ear corn and cottonseed meal are the cause of our failure to obtain the advantages which cheap cottonseed meal might give us in bettering and cheapening our horse feed.

Some offer as an excuse for their failure to feed cottonseed meal, the danger of overfeeding by careless negro feeders. This is not well founded. We know the negro well enough to know that under certain conditions he may overfeed if the opportunity to do so is easy, but we also know him well enough to know that if he is given a measure which will not hold more than the quantity to be given at one feed he will not go back for a second measure full in order to overfeed. This objection, like many others, is merely an attempt to excuse ourselves for not doing as well as we know and is without force.—Tait Butler, in The Progressive Farmer.

The Poorest Paid Worker.

The salaries of school teachers are coming in for much discussion at present. The fact is, that a good teacher, one who is capable and is doing everything possible for the real development of the minds of the children in the schools and also training them to live correct lives, is the poorest paid worker in the community. They receive smaller salaries than untrained hands in almost every other vocation, and when the people realize the true importance of real education, they will have their salaries doubled. That day is not far off, either. But on the other hand, the teacher who fails to teach obedience in the school-room, who cannot control the students while in the school and simply uses the salary to pay board while enjoying a gay life, is receiving two prices for what is done. The salaries of real teachers should be doubled; those of the other kind should be withdrawn.—Wadesboro Argus.

Education a Popular Thing.

Education was never so popular nor ever had such a vigorous hold on the people of this country as at present. A college-bred man was formerly an exception. He is now the rule. Education is translating our civilization. It is giving society a new code of ethics. It is at once making us more practical in our conceptions and more proficient in our professions. It has not been many years ago when the boy or girl went to college came from some favored family, somebody who lived in the only big white house in the neighborhood. Now the boys and girls are trooping to the higher institutions from the humblest cabins, and from almost every family. Giving their children an education is an ideal now cultivated by every parent when formerly it was held only by those who wanted to expend some money on their boys and girls. It is a fine sign, an encouragement to those who are laboring for the uplift of the world morally and socially as well as mentally.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Red Cross Items.

Quite a merry party spent the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Brower in the Red Cross neighborhood. Those visiting were Rev. A. S. Hammack, D. D. and daughter, Mary Shouts of Dayton, Va., father and sister of Mrs. Brower; Miss Bessie Flick and Mr. J. B. Kellogg, teachers in the Monticello high school of Guilford county.

Despite the inclement weather two days were spent in lively rabbit chasing.

Miss Della Allred of High Point spent the week-end with her brother at Lineberry.

Mr. F. F. Brower and wife of Greensboro spent the holidays with friends and relatives near Red Cross.

Mrs. P. F. Fields, who has been on the sick list for some time, is improving.

Mr. John Underwood is ill with pneumonia at the home of his uncle, Mr. O. H. Bowman.

Forest Notes.

The so-called Scotch pine is the principal tree in the Prussian forests. Its wood is much like that of the western yellow pine of the United States.

In general it may be stated that the most dangerous forest fire periods in the West are in middle and late summer; in the East they are in the spring and fall.

It has been suggested that guayacan, a very hard wood of Central America, may furnish huddle blocks to supplement dogwood and persimmon, now most used, and in danger of becoming exhausted.

EVERYTHING IN THE PLANTING

Trees Designed to Cross Streets Must Be Put Down With the Utmost Attention to Detail.

Now that street planting season is at hand it is pertinent to put forth our annual warning about hasty and careless planting of street trees. Owing to the narrowness of the parkway, street trees do not have one-fourth the chance of growth and development found in the open field, and therefore most excellent preparations should be made. Dig all holes for trees both large and deep—it matters little how large—all trees will thrive better with increased size of hole. Nature has been compacting the soil for millions of years; after being dug up it will take many years to again become as hard as before even though soil fertilizer or other subject is mixed with the soil before replacing in the hole. Well-rotted stable manure is always a good material to mix with the soil whether the latter be light or heavy in texture. The nearer either extreme it comes, the greater such need. Refill the hole, settle with water and in a few days or a week plant your tree. During a street tree convention the veteran J. H. Reed said: "If I had a dollar to spend for a tree, I would rather put a 10 cent tree in a 90-cent hole than a 90-cent tree in a 10-cent hole."

NEED FOR INDIVIDUAL WORK

Civic Organizations Have a Great Part to Perform in Creating a City Beautiful.

A great part of the task of bringing back the country into the town must necessarily be done by local public authority. To influence them to do the work courageously needs the formation of a strong and sound public opinion. We have to create an enlightened sentiment, which will give full weight to the value of human health and happiness. After all, a man is worth more than a bank vault. The making of good and healthy men and women is the first consideration of all.

But public authorities alone must not be relied upon to do the work. The machinery of governments is too slow, complicated, and heavy to do all that is required in the best way. We need also the inspiring effect of individual work in voluntary organizations. These pioneer the way long ahead of the possible action of public authorities. They find out what is wanted to be done and how to do it. They educate all of us who take any part in the work, however small the part may be. They create the very public opinion we need in order to bring about in our cities a full reunion of country delights with town advantages.

VINE ALWAYS A BEAUTIFIER

Harshness of Architecture Relieved by Soft Folds and Twirlings Designed by Nature.

A house very often reminds one of a huge box set down in the midst of a landscape with which it is wholly out of harmony. To overcome the effect of its rising too abruptly from the site, one should plant shrubs about the foundation, to fill in the hard angle between ground and walls. To tie the house to the ground, in effect, to cover the corners and other straight lines, thereby relieving the architecture of its harshness, softening and harmonizing all, this is the mission of the vine—nature's mantle of perfection hiding the huge piles of ugliness reared by man, and which he has deluged himself into believing are masterpieces of art. Very few are, however, masterpieces in the eyes of those who know, and the vine, like the mantle of charity, covers a multitude of sins.

Danger in Town Wells.

At Towson, Md., a strenuous campaign is being waged against typhoid, with the result that of 134 wells in the town only four are to be left open by the board of health. It is wonderful when such shocking conditions can develop that the United States ranks far below other civilized countries in its typhoid record?

Some of the condemned wells may still be used for cattle provided the pumps are kept locked when the trough is full. Violation of this rule will be punished by "fencing" the water with coal oil. Water is the best of drinks, but it can be as dangerous as any and it seems an almost impossible thing to persuade the public to take the simple precaution of boiling all drinking water or else sticking to tea and coffee.—Springfield Republican.

Garden Windings.

Do you desire a long season of lilacs of the valley? Then, plant shrubs on each of the four sides of the house and your desire will be gratified in a very simple fashion. Trees on the south side will bloom first. The others will come along in succession as the e-cather warms up, those on the north side flowering last. Magnificent makes an excellent house plant. It grows so well in pots late in the summer.—Exchange.
