INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR MARCH 8

WATCHFULNESS.

(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—"Luke 12:35-48. GOLDEN TEXT—"Be ye as those servants whom the Lord when he cometh shall find watching."—Luke 12:37.

The words of Jesus are the greatest authority the believer has upon which to found his belief in the Second Coming. Some refuse to have much to do with this important theme because others have perverted it or else "overly emphasized it" yet in the 260 chapters in the New Testament there are 318 distinct references to this theme, a far greater proportion than is placed upon some of the doctrines upon which whole denominations have been founded.

Relative Value.

I. The exhortation to watch, vv. 35-40. This is the beginning of a new paragraph. Jesus has been showing the relative value of material possessions and the Kingdom of God and epitomizes his teaching in v. 34. He now sets before his disciples what shall their attitude towards him during his absence (II. Pet. 3:11, 12 R. V., Titus 2:13; II. Tim. 4:8). Thus to be watchful seems to contradict his suggestions about anxiety. We need to remember, however, that the child of the Kingdom is in entirely new relationship with the world. His desire is not for self enrichment but rather to be in such relations with God as his rights demand and thus to bring to others their highest good. This parable epitomizes opportunity. Rightly to make use of none's opportunities spells happiness for the disciple when he the king shall appear. The evidence that we are watching for his appearing consists of the readiness of the individual who is or is not watching, v. 35; I. Pet. 1:13. Jesus knocks at the individual heart (Rev. 3:20) but when he comes 'twill be to be present at a feast, v. 36. We cannot contract this time and there is no call to service tomorrow. Lions girt, ready for the battle or for the race, and lamps burning, (light is always the result of something being consumed), are today's visible evidence of continuous service.

Peter's Question.

II. The explanation to Peter, vv. 41-48. Between this parable and the one which follows, Peter interrupts by asking the question, "Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even unto all?" That which follows is his answer to that question but it is also a continuance of the teaching just given. In this part Jesus refers to stewards (bond-servants) that it is their supreme business to seek the Kingdom by selling in order to give. The one work of a servant is to give to the members of an household, each in due season his portion of the father's bountiful grace. John 21:15-17; I. Pet. 5:2; Jer. 3:15. There are many deceitful servants who first feed themselves, or feed only a portion of the household, or who feed chaff rather than bread, even the true bread of life, I. Pet. 2:2; 4:10, 11. Jesus teaches us that each bond-servant shall likewise be judged and that suddenly.

III. The exhortation. Jesus Christ here presents to us the fact that we shall all be judged. That the measure of our reward or of our punishment is dependent upon the measure of our knowledge and of our opportunity, James 4:17. To him to whom much is given, of him shall much be required. Our present responsibility is that of being ready for the coming of the King and of his Kingdom. The expression of that readiness is evidenced by our lives of service. There are of course many other phases of service not included in this parable, but our Lord is emphasizing opportunity, stewardship, service, watchfulness. In order to fulfill our service we must enter into fellowship with the king in his reign, and those who enter into that fellowship, who are faithful, he will reward vv. 37, 43. The measure of our punishment is conditioned upon the measure of our knowledge (v. 48) and our knowledge can be enlarged as we use our opportunities.

IV. The Golden Text, (v. 37). Is intended to fix our attention upon the acts of our Lord when he shall return. It seems astonishing that he shall compel those whom he finds watching to seat themselves that he may gird himself and serve them. Here we gird ourselves that we may serve him by serving others (Matt. 25:40). But in that tomorrow the day of his victory, he will gird himself and serve those who have been watchfulness and obedient servants. This is a suggestion of the exceeding grace mentioned by the Apostle Paul, Rom. 11:33.

V. The Temperance Lesson is suggested by the conduct of those who are not watching for the King's appearing (v. 45). They were indulging in the animal pleasures of the moment. The Kingdom of God is not in eating and drinking but consists of righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit, Rom. 14:17. The effect of intemperance on the death rates, on the next generation, from an economic standpoint or viewed from any angle, is only the result of the most criminal shortsightedness. A clear apprehension of the fact of the imminence of his return would change all lives.

LIVE STOCK

SILAGE TO THE BEEF CATTLE

Results Given of Careful Tests Made With Corn at Missouri Station—Excellent Finisher.

The Missouri experiment station has recently published the results of some careful tests of corn silage as feed for beef cattle.

It was found that a ton of silage was approximately equal to one-half ton of clover hay when fed in connection with shelled corn and linseed oil meal, or with shelled corn and clover hay, or with shelled corn, linseed oil meal and clover hay.

Estimated on the basis of net profit per steer, a ton of dry matter in the form of corn silage yielded 50.3 per cent. greater value than a ton of dry matter in the form of shock corn.

A ration in which silage and clover hay were used was much more profitable than a ration in which silage constituted the only roughage.

One of the most conspicuous features of the test was the notable superiority of the ration in which linseed oil meal was used and those in charge of the tests concluded that "it is desirable to feed some high protein concentrate in the ration, if the most extensive use is to be made of corn silage in fattening cattle."

The results indicate that fattening cattle which receive corn silage as the only roughage do not continue to do well for longer than about ninety days. A superior finish is obtained on fattening cattle which are marketed in the spring when silage composes a part of the ration.

The lot of steers which received a ration of shelled corn, linseed oil meal, corn silage and clover hay made the

SORE SHOULDERS OF HORSES

Young Animals Are Especially Prone to Collar Bruises—Prevention Is Best Solution.

(By K. T. BAKER, Veterinarian, Idaho Experiment Station.)

With the advent of spring work comes shoulder and foot troubles in horses. Young animals, especially, are prone to collar bruises, on account of jumping around, uneven pulling and jerking, which offsets the effect of the best setting collar.

First of all, remember prevention is the easiest solution of the problem. The old-fashioned method of bathing the shoulders with an oak bark solution, alternating with cold water, several weeks prior to working, thereby hardening and "tanning" the skin, was a good one. This, of course, is a tedious job on a big ranch with many horses, but will repay on colts.

A large collar is just as bad as a tight one, and be careful that it is not lumpy. A firm, snug-fitting collar with good pads, of course, is best. As a substitute for the oak bark, try tannic acid in alcohol or glycerine, in a 10 to 20 per cent. solution. Rub well several times a day, and alternate with a salt water solution. Begin work gradually, and should the shoulders get raw and infected, the advice of your veterinarian may prove valuable.

SHEEP WILL KILL WOODTICK

Grazing of Animals on Infected Grounds Would Rid Them of Plague, Says Government Expert.

That sheep are sure death to the woodtick, cause of the dreaded spotted fever, seems to be borne out by an experiment conducted by Dr. L. D. Frick, a government expert. Doctor Frick placed about 150 woodticks on six sheep, dividing them equally among the animals. Of the ticks placed on the sheep all but six were found dead 48 hours later, and the six are believed to have dropped to the ground. The grazing of sheep on infected grounds, it is suggested, would rid them of this plague.—Twentieth Century Farmer.

Feed Pigs Separately.

It is always a good plan to feed pigs in a separate pen. This can easily be accomplished by making the one adjoining the sow with an opening just large enough for the youngsters to get through.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

INCREASED VALUE OF LANDS

Advance Is Due Essentially to Decreased Cost of Hauling Different Farm Products to Market.

It is a matter of common observation that, when any community has passed from a condition dominated by bad roads to a condition which is characterized by good roads, land values in that community advance. It is plain that no system of good roads can directly improve the soil fertility or the quality of farms. It is equally true that good roads can and do directly improve the site value, or the value which accrues to the farm by virtue of its situation with respect to markets, schools, and towns, and the accessibility of these.

In dealing with this matter of increased farm values from a strictly economic standpoint, it has been pointed out and it is worth remembering, that where farms have advanced in value the advance is due essentially to decreased hauling costs. The advance in farm values, in other words, measures partly the increased value of the farm as a plant for the business of farming. That increment of value which is due to those things that are described as social advantages or improved social conditions has no numerical measure.

When his road is improved the landowner appreciates the improvement and frequently sets an increased value upon his land. It is difficult, however, to analyze the entire increment of value which follows good roads. There is no doubt that the cost of good roads is met by some form of taxation, which, in many instances, causes the land owners to add to the selling price of their land that amount which they estimate the good road has cost them in taxes.

This process is more distinctly observed in city property transfers, where direct assessments for sewers, sidewalks, and pavements are invariably added to the original cost of the property. The important point that is becoming more and more understood by land owners is that good roads require a considerable investment of capital, and furthermore that such an investment is a paying one. Here are a few instances of actual conditions which have been observed in various parts of the country.

In Lee county, Virginia, a farmer owned 100 acres between Bee Hur and Jonesville, which he offered to sell for $1,800. Two or three years ago this road was improved, and although that farmer fought the improvement, he has since refused $3,000 for his farm. Along this same road a tract of 188 acres was supposed to have been sold for $6,000. The purchaser refused the contract and the owner threatened to sue him. After the road improvement, and without any improvements upon the land the same farm was sold to the original purchaser for $9,000.

In Jackson county, Alabama, the people voted a bond issue of $250,000, for road improvement and improved 24 per cent. of the roads. The 1900 census gave the value of all farm lands in Jackson county as $4.90 per acre. The selling price at that time was from $6 to $15 per acre. The last census gives the value of Jackson county farm lands as $9.79, and the selling price is now from $15 to $25 per acre.

The price of farm land, like that of any other commodity, is ruled by the relation between supply and demand. When the price of farm land advances it measures a readjustment between the supply and the demand. This readjustment, in some cases, is sharp and immediate. One distinct item of increased values is becoming more evident from year to year; that is, immigration into the rural districts where road conditions are favorable especially is this true with regard to owners of automobiles. There are reported instances of this kind in New England and those states which have been active in improving their roads.

Favors Immigration.

Immigration is particularly marked where road conditions are favorable; in fact, the figures of the department seem to indicate that good roads indirectly increase the demand for rural property; and the price of farm land, like that of any commodity, is ruled by the relations between demand and supply.

Edgar Williams Dead

Edgar Williams was born February the 27th, 1889; died February 12th, 1914.

He had a severe attack of fever last August, from which he never recovered, his strength has been on the decline ever since. He died of lung trouble. He bore his affliction without murmuring or complaining. He appreciated very much any kindness shown to him. He leaves a bereaved wife and three little children, a kind father and mother, one brother and one sister to mourn their loss.

In early life he professed religion but he said he had wandered off and lost his hold on God. He was an industrious, steady-minded man but he lacked the one thing needful to a perfect life and he expressed it, he got hungry for righteousness and asked that a prayer-meeting be held at his home about two weeks before he died. During that service he was wonderfully blessed and found the Savior precious to his never-dying soul.

He was ever glad to tell those who visited him of his blessing and his trust in God. The pastors of the different churches visited him and he was always glad to have them pray with him. He often remarked: "I'm weak in body but strong in the Lord."

The funeral service was held at his home in Ramseur. After singing some of the songs he sang in his last days his funeral was preached by Rev. G. H. Buttner. Telling of Bro. Edgar's hungering for salvation and how in his visits to him he found him thirsting in Christ to the end. He wished to live for the good of his beloved family, but was submissive to God's will and said that he was ready to go when the call came, that his way was bright and clear.

May we all live nearer to God after witnessing His great power in making a dying bed as soft as downy pillows are.

It behooves us to be ready for death for we may not be blessed with the privilege of a clear mind and the humble faith with which to grasp the blessings in our last days that our departed friend had.

We extend to the bereaved ones a heartfelt sympathy.

A BIRTHDAY DINNER.

On Feb. 22, the friends and relatives of Mr. Laban Slack met to celebrate his 88th birthday.

A dinner was set in the yard and after a short talk by Rev. W. H. Brown, All partook of a feast fit for a king.

In the afternoon an able sermon was preached by Rev. Stedman of Farmer. All present enjoyed themselves and seemed to feel that it was good to be there.

We wish for Uncle Laban many more happy birthdays.

Retired Georgia Planter's Advice to Kidney Sufferers

Regarding the wonderful curative merits of your Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys, I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed six or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much relief that I purchased a one dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains had left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter 79 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I am in the best of health and feel like a boy. I am always glad to recommend Swamp-Root to those who are in need of it.

Sincerely yours,
