STOMACH TROUBLES

Mr. Ragland Writes Interesting Letter on This Subject.

Madison Heights, Va.—Mr. Chas. A. Ragland, of this place, writes: "I have been taking Theford's Black-Draught for indigestion, and other stomach troubles, also colds, and find it to be the very best medicine I have ever used. After taking Black-Draught for a few days, I always feel like a new man." Nervousness, nausea, heartburn, pain in pit of stomach, and a feeling of fullness after eating, are sure symptoms of stomach trouble, and should be given the proper treatment, as your strength and health depend very largely upon your food and its digestion. To get quick and permanent relief from these ailments, you should take a medicine of known curative merit. Its 75 years of splendid success, in the treatment of just such troubles, proves the real merit of Theford's Black-Draught. Safe, pleasant, gentle in action, and without bad after-effects, it is sure to benefit both young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25c. N. C. 12.

CAUSE OF GOLD MOVEMENT

I desire to say a word about the outflow of gold. The movement of gold is a very delicate matter that is governed entirely by rate of exchange. When any foreign country is willing to pay a small fraction of 1 per cent for the use of gold, they can draw it from us. The reason that is ascribed by the best economists for the present outflow of gold is that foreign investors and security holders have become so frightened at the disclosures regarding the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and at the frauds that were perpetrated in the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad deal, that they are dumping over our securities and are sending them back to this country. We therefore have to send the gold abroad to pay for them.—From remarks by Senator Hollis, of New Hampshire, in U. S. Senate.

NOTICE

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Commissioners for Randolph county at their regular meeting on the first Monday in September next, to-wit: September 7, 1914, to alter the boundaries of Asheboro, Randleman and Back Creek Townships and the territories embraced within the said several townships as follows: take from Back Creek all that part of same situated between the center of the railroad track of the High Point, Randleman, Asheboro and Southern Railway Company and the dividing line between Back Creek and Franklinsville townships as it now exists and add the same to Randleman and Asheboro townships in the following manner, that is to say: all said territory taken or to be taken from Back Creek Township as above to be divided by a line running east and west through the center of the bridge across Hasket Creek on the public road now in general use between the towns of Asheboro and Randleman and add all that part of the territory lying north of said line to Randleman township and all that part lying south of said line to Asheboro township; and that the boundaries of the aforesaid townships be each and all altered so as to correspond with the subtraction and addition of the territory as hereinbefore specified. This notice is given as required by statute, and all persons are required to take notice hereof and govern themselves accordingly. This the 31st day of July, 1914. N. N. NEWLIN, D. B. McCRARY, W. R. POOL.

HEALTHY ECONOMIC CONDITION

Big Sales at Low Prices Have Characterized the Most Prosperous Years. Along with the very encouraging showing in the Iron Trade Review, of more than 150,000 tons of pig iron from Buffalo furnaces in the last three weeks, comes a note of depression from some of the local iron industries, in the complaint that while the sales are admittedly larger than at corresponding periods in former years—the prices were low. And from that one is led to infer that the big sales are counterbalanced by below-average price. Let us look this matter from the wide standpoint. Let us study it—not as a mere intrinsic phenomenon, with no bearing, no significance, beyond what is contained in its bare facts—but as measured by universal rules of the law of supply and demand, by business experience confirmed for a whole generation, and what it signifies in its relation to what the Buffalo iron furnaces are likely to do in the near future, and in relation to the entire significance of the national industry they locally represent. Loked at in this way—which is the only real way to look at it—this statement of big sales and low prices appears to us a highly cheering sign—an unmistakable advance agent of prosperity. Big sales at low prices have constituted the slogan, the shibboleth, and the axiom, of practically all the notable successes which have been won in modern business. Increasing application of the principle of big sales at low prices, marks every stage of the evolution, from the primitive trader, who chattered at barter about the limited commodity he had on hand, to the great modern establishment which never dickers nor chatters, but makes its profits from the large numbers of its moderate priced sales.—Buffalo Times.

FACTORY OWNERS NOT HURT

Commerce Figures Show Well Sustained Competing Power in Manufacture. Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Secretary Redfield, of the Department of Commerce, states that foreign manufacturers sent into the United States during the first eight months of the new tariff system just 8.8 per cent more of their finished product than they did under the old law. This, Secretary Redfield said, was ample demonstration that there was no ground for the fears of American factory owners that they would be driven from business by the Democratic tariff.

Importations of foodstuffs showed a large percentage of increase in the eight months which ended with May, while foodstuff exports fell off substantially. There was a relatively small reduction in the amount of completed manufactures exported. "The figures," said Secretary Redfield, "show, as it is natural they should, the results of the world-wide depression in commerce as modified by our own shortage of foodstuffs, arising from the inadequate crops of last year, which condition is rapidly passing away. They indicate also that our competitive power in manufacturing is well sustained, because at a time when our commercial rivals are eager to sell and unwilling to buy, the item of exports of fully finished manufactures is depressed relatively little, and the item of imports of finished manufactures increases relatively little.

The Fourteenth Annual Session of the North Carolina Conference of Seventh Day Adventists was held the latter part of last week in Greensboro. Almost a little city of tents had been erected for the accommodation of the delegates and other visitors.

Who Can Doubt Sworn Testimony of Honest Citizens?

Some time ago I began the use of your Swamp Root with the most remarkable results. For years I was almost a total wreck and was a great sufferer. The doctors who treated me made me believe that my great sufferings were due to female trouble. I was so bad at times I would faint away and had sickness spells. Finally a new doctor was called in and he said that I had kidney trouble and gave me medicine, of which I took several bottles. I obtained some relief from this, but I was getting weaker all the time. I could not sleep and suffered so much pain that my husband and children had to lift me in and out of bed. After this two friends sent me word to try Swamp Root which I did, and I am glad to state that the first dose gave me great relief. After taking the third dose I was helped into bed and slept half of the night. I took several bottles of Swamp Root and I feel that I owe my life to this wonderful remedy. The two family doctors said that I could not live three months. I would have to be helped in and out of bed ten to twenty times every night. After taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root for two days I was entirely free from getting up and could sleep soundly. MRS. D. E. HILEMAN, Tunnerton, W. Va. Personally appeared before me, this 11th of September, 1909, Mrs. D. E. Hileman, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true true in substance and in fact. JOSEPH A. MILLER, Notary Public.

A FEW GOOD LAUGHS

These Useless Questions
"Billy, did you ever pick up a live trolley wire with your bare hands?"
"Many a time."
"Didn't it give you a shock?"
"Give me a shock?" "It killed me dead every time."—Chicago Tribune.

Her Poetic Idea
"Mama," said small Sadie one evening, "I know what the stars in the sky are for."
"Well, dear," responded he mother, "what are they for?"
"They are little holes to let the rain through the day time and the glory through at night."

Young Man (nervously)—There's something about —er—you—daughter—
"Crusty Pa—Yes, there is; I had noticed it myself. It comes every night about eight o'clock and doesn't get away until about eleven. One of these nights I'm going to kick it into the street and see what it is made of."

A Good Reason.
"Why did Katie give up her job in the city?"
"Because they had too good eating."
"What was her reason?"
"Yes, because she had to cook it."—Meggendorf Blaetter.

Destined.
"I believe," declared the Irishman, "that me youngest son's born t' be a surgeon."
"Phwat leads ye to say that," asked his friends.
"O! caught him usin' th' scissors on a book O! lately bought, and before O! e'd stop him, he cut out th' appendix." * * *

What's in a Name.
"What is the name of your automobile?"
"I don't know."
"You don't know? What do your folks call it?"
"Oh, as to that, father always says 'The Mortgage'; brother Tom calls it 'The Fake'; mother 'My Limousine'; sister, 'Our Car'; grandma, 'That Peril'; the chauffeur, 'Some Freak'; and our neighbors, 'The Limit.'—Life.

An aviator descended in a field and said to a rinder well dressed individual, "Here, mind my machine a minute will you?"
"What?", the well dressed individual snarled. "Me mind your machine? Why, I'm a United States Senator."
"Well, what of it?" asked the aviator, "I'll trust you."—Argonaut.

"Gentlemen, I can't lie about the horse; he's blind in one eye," said the auctioneer.
The horse was soon knocked down to a citizen who had been greatly struck by the auctioneer's honesty, and after paying for the horse he said:
"You were honest enough to tell me that this animal was blind in one eye. Is there any other defect?"
"Yes, sir, there is. He is also blind in the other eye," was the prompt reply.—Tit Bits.

Finding a Verdict.
A trial took place recently in Texas before a colored jury, says the National Monthly. The gentlemen of color were found by the judge to retire and find a verdict.
They departed for the jury room. They began the opening and shutting of drawers, the slamming of doors, and other sounds of unusual commotion. Every one wondered what the trouble was.
At last the jury came back into the court, and the foreman arose and said:
"We hab looked everywhar, in the drawers and behind the do' an' can't find no verdict. It warn't in de room."
A man arrested for murder, bribed Flannigan on the jury with $100 to hang out for a verdict of manslaughter. The jury was out a long time and finally came in with a verdict of manslaughter. The man rushed up to Flannigan and said: "I'm obligate to you, my friend. Did you have a hard time?"
"Yes," said Flannigan, "an aw' hard hard time. The other eleven wanted to acquit yez." * * *

Uncle Wash had been a servant in the Carroll family for many years, and so when young Charlie Carroll ran for Congress, he naturally expected the old man to support him. Charlie was a good deal disappointed therefore when, the day after his defeat, he heard that Wash had voted against him.
"Uncle Wash," he said, "is it true that you voted against me yesterday?"
"Yas, Mars' Charlie, I done voted de Republican ticket," Uncle Wash admitted.
"Well," said the defeated candidate, "I like frankness, afwyway, so here's a dollar for your candor."
Uncle Wash picked up the dollar. Then he scratched his head, chuckled, and said:
"Mars' Charlie, if you's buyin' candor, you owes me fo' dollahs mo' kase I voted agin yo' five times."—Detroit Free Press.
