As a rule the mental and nervous systems are the first to change, a little later the cutaneous lesions show improvement, increase in bodily weight comes, and in short the whole condition of the patient improves.

whole condition of the patient improves.

"All this is exactly in line with the conclusions which Dr. Albert S. Gray, of Chicago, who is writing a series of articles for the News & Observer, has reached. It is difficult to place too great an estimate on the importance of the diet in maintaining health. Resistance to disease is a matter of strength and strength is grounded on the proper quality and quantity of food. It is strange that scientists have been so slow in coming round to the obvious conclusions in this respect."

THE HARDEST FOUGHT BATTLE OF THE WORLD NOW BEING FOUGHT IN NORTHERN FRANCE — TROOPS FIGHTING IN TRENCHES FILLED WITH WATER.

MONDAY

One of the fiercest battles of all times, which has been raging across Northern France for a week past, with first a slight advantage on one side and then on the other, remains unde-

The two great armies which have

The two great armies which have been fighting for a month, with few, if any intermissions, have dug themselves into entrenchments on rivers and mountain ranges on a front reaching from the Oise to the Meuse, and thence southeastward along the Franco-German frontier.

Artillery duels such as never before have been seen are being carried on with the hope of compelling the evacuation of the strongly held positions, with occasional successes to the opposing sides, while the infantry in the face of a galling fire have charged right up to the guns, only to make their opponents give way slightly, or be regulated with great losses.

Fighting has been fiercest on the allies' left which lies on the right bank of the river Oise, in the vicinity of Rheims, the famous cathedral of which has been set afire by German shells and between that town and the Argonne ridge, it has been give and take all the time.

French official reports again claim slight progress on the French left and that the allies again have repulsed strong frontal attacks between Craonne and Rheims.

that the allies again have repulsed strong frontal attacks between Craonne and Rheims.

Around Rheims itself matters have been about equalized as the Germans have recaptured the heights of Brimont, while the French have taken the defenses of La Pompelle.

The French have also scored a success between Rheims and the Argonne where they have taken the village of Souain, and have captured numerous prisoners.

In addition the French report progress on the western slopes of the Ar-prisoners.

In addition the French report progress on the western slopes of the Argonne, where the Crown Prince's army opposes them, while the Germans have retired beyond the frontier in Lorraine, evacuating Avricourt.

In all cases these are separate attacks and counter attacks by the armies lying in the trenches waiting for their artillery to compel the other side to slacken its fire. The losses in these attacks must be enormous for the men cannot move a foot without being made targets of the heavy guns posted on the hills above them.

TUESDAY

The unparalleled struggle on the river Aisne which commenced a week ago. Saturday, has developed into siege operations. The two armies, strongly entrenched, are carrying on an artillery duel, while the infantry makes attacks and counter attacks which are in the nature of sorties from a besiged fortress.

from a besiged fortress.

Occasionally one or the other gains a little ground, but it is so little that the opposing forces remain in their trenches or take up positions in new entrenchments immediately behind those from which they are driven. It is now becoming the conviction of military men that nothing but outflanking movements can have any serious effect to either army. The Germans, according to their own official report, have been strongly reinforced both on their right, where General Von Kluck is making such a stubborn stand in almost impregnable positions on the bills north of Aisne, and in the center, where the Germans are making almost suserhuman efforts to recapture Rheims.

This bombardment has been of the

This bombardment has been of the most severe kind is being directed from Brimont, which the French recaptured but lest again, and from other hills around the town, and is of deadly character. The French have brought up additional heavy artillery in an attempt to drive the Germans out of these hills, for until this is done, the attuation in the town must be difficult.

On the allies' left the French claim another advance on the right bank of the river Olse as far as the heights of an any vest of Noyon, which has been the center of heavy fighting for week past.

The plateau of Crayonne is of limestone formation with the sides almost as perpendicular as walls, the valleys n wet weather becoming quagmires. It was on this plateau just a century ago that Blucher failed to check Napoleon.

The allies apparently have scaled the wails of the plateau and now hold the heights, but ahead of them they have found Von Kluck in great strength and now are awaiting strength and now are awaiting the outcome of the attempt to turn his flank, which would clear the rond for them. The French army, which is trying to work around the German right, is pushing its way slowly. Starting from Compeigne, it reached Noyon, and today is on the heights of Lassigny. Its next objective point is Tergnier, nineteen miles from Laon, an important railway junction which the Germans are using to provision their forces.

The French have made some head The French have made some head-way in Champagne and on the west slope of the Argonne, and have "3," cupied Mesnil-Les-Hurlus and Mes-siges, but elsewhere the situation re-mains as it was. WHEN THE WAR IS OVER

The South should now heed the advice which Lord Benconstield in parliament gave to Greece:

"Learn to be patient." In our case patience will be followed by prosperity.

Just at present, with her mainstay crop demoralized, the South has grave reasons to feel distressed an anxious. However, even now there is a rift in the cloud, and the situation caused by the crisis in the cotton market is measurably improving each day.

In the meantime American trade will locate openings in South American countries, formerly dominated by the enterprising commercialists of Great Britain and France.

By the time the war is over we will not only be supplying South America with millions of dollars of exports, but we will have Europe on our hands as well.

Who can say that this will not insure the greatest era of prosperity in the history of the United States? The South in particular will share in this bountiful affluence.

BUYING HORSES FOR THE BRITISH

If the price of horsefiesh continues to increase as other things affected by the war, there will probably be a big ersor boost in the price of horses if the war across the pond continues. Thus far the demand has not made any noticeable increase in the price, but an indefinite continuance of the struggle is expected to eventually materially increase the cost in the local markets—especially of the saddle horse type.

In many sections of the United States dealers are going quietly through the country and buying up horses and shipping them to Colorado and thence to Great Britain where they are to be used in the French and English armies.

A FEW REMINDERS

A Correspondent Writes About The County Candidates—The Republi-Cans are Reminded of Few Things.

Cans are Reminded of Few Things.

Dear Editor:—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words about the men that will control our county government for the next two years. I am personally acquainted with almost every man that will appear on the Democratic ticket. They are men of the progressive type, and when the votes are counted in the night of November third, the Republican—Bull Moose crowd will be covered up by at least 1,000 majority. And yet the boys have the nerve to say they are going to "hog" it across us. They don't have the slightest idea of electing a man, but they are ashamed to own it.

gotten this, so I think it our duty to remind you of it.

I notice the Republicans of this community and surrounding neighborshold are howling panic. We all know the war raging in the European countries, is making things a little dull here, but when the war scare is over, an era of prosperity will again reign over this country.

Why is it that the Republican party is so forgetful? They have forgotten the panic of their only chieftian. "Teddy" Roosevelt, seven years ago. The panic of 1907 was the worst money panic in half a century.

I fally believe the Republicans of North Carolina would be willing to live on bread and water for the next two years just to see a panic.

If half the public work was to close in this county, times would be twenty-five per cent. better than ever has been under Republican rule.

If the people would stop hanging around the corner howling "Hard Times," and go to work they would soon forget that word panic.

The people of this country are fortunate in having a man at the head of the government at this critical hour. If Mr. Roosevelt was President, every young man in the country would be down in Mexico fighting for their country, and yet you want to put him in the President's chair.

It will be time thrown away to nominate a man against Woodrow Wilson in 1916. The people are waking up, and have put up with broken promises until they will tolerate it no longer. When the election parses away, so will the opposition party pass out of existence for two years.
