DEATH OF MR. W. J. TEAGUE

End Came Sunday Night as the Re-sult of an Attack of Paralyisis-Was Seventy-two Years Old. Mr. W. J. Teague, whose life hung in the balance for nearly two weeks, passed quietly away at his home on North Fayetteville Street Sunday night. Death was due to an attack of paralysis from which he never rallied, but gradually sunk until the end came.

of paralysis from which he never rallied, but gradually sunk until the end came. Mr. Teague had for syears made Asheboro his home, having moved here in 1882 after having been elected register of deeda. He held this office for six years and at the expiration of his term of office he moved to Greens-boro and engaged in business. About the year 1900 he returned to Ashe-boro where he has since made his home. Mr. Teague maried Miss Eliz-abeth Coe, and by this union there were five children, one of whom is dead. The living are: Mr. Oscar R. Teague, a prominent citizen of Tampa, Fla.; Erneat W. Teague, of Greens-boro; Sam Teague, a prominent bank-er of Appalachicola, Fla., and one daughter, Mrs. Bess Underwood, of Richmond, Va., all of whom were with him at the end. Mr. Teague was a prominent mem-ber of the Methodist Protestant church and community. He was a good citizen and an upright man. The funeral service was held from the home at four o'clock Monday after which interment was made in the cometery at the M. E. church. The foral tribute was one of the pretitest seen at a funeral in Asheboro for some time
