DR. RAPER SUGGESTS NEW METHOD OF TAXATION

In a recent address on the subject of taxation in this State, Dr. Chas. Lee Raper, professor of economics in the University of North Carolina, suggests a new method of taxation to take the place of the present one, which he considers defective. Among the defects which he named are: That the same kind of property is now on the assessment books at valuations varying from 3 per cent to 1 per cent of fair cash value; that considerable property is not on the books at all; that one township pays more than it should and another less than it should to the same county; that one county bears a larger proportionate share of the State's burdens than another; that a good many of the now famous "pauper" counties are really well-to-do.
 Dr. Raper believes the only way to reform this system is through effective machinery of assessments, both State and local. He would have the legislature of North Carolina create a state tax commission which would have charge of the assessment of the citizen's taxable property. This commission should have ample power and authority to supervise the whole system of assessment and taxation; to appoint the local assessors, and prescribe rules for them; to require all information available in the hands of public officials as to the valuation of property; to assess the taxables of corporations; to equalize the assessed valuations as between the counties of the State.

This commission, Dr. Raper believes should be composed of three men, who are non-partisan and who are skilled in matters of taxation. They should give all their time to their official tasks. He thinks these tasks are those of careful business men rather than those of politicians. We should also have an efficient and permanent local office of assessment, manned by a capable man, who should devote all his time to this work of assessment. This local assessor should be appointed by the State Tax Commission and should be responsible to it.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes It and the Cough will Stop Itself.
 A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely "stop" the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heat the inflamed membrane. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.
 Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex.
 It heats the inflamed membrane so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.
 Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membrane.
 To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Distance Traveled by Flies

One of the problems that has arisen in connection with the part played by insects as carriers of disease concerns the distance which they may be able to travel from one locality to another. Until recently very little had been known with regard to the migration of the common house fly. A series of studies conducted in Cambridge, England, on the range of the flight of flies has thrown some light upon the subject. Upward of 25,000 flies were liberated from the medical buildings at Cambridge. Of these insects, colored for identification, 191 were recovered. The result showed that house flies tend to travel either against or across the wind. The actual direction followed may be determined by the action of the wind or by the flies being attracted by the odor of food. The maximum flight observed in the thickly housed localities in Cambridge was about a quarter of a mile. In the open country the distance would probably be greater. However, almost any reasonable distance may be covered by the fly under compulsion to reach food and shelter.
