Mrs. Isaac Brown, who has been seriously ill at the home of her son, Mr. John Brown, in East Asheboro, for some time, is much improved, and hopes to be able to return to her home in the country soon.

Sheriff J. W. Birkhead went to Raleigh last Tuesday to take Ernest Kime to the State Penitentiary to begin his sentence of thirty years for the murder of Frank Garner on March 7. Messrs. O. R. Fox and Duncan Steed also went down to Raleigh, the same day to take Mr. Allen Coltrane, a citizen of this county who lost his mind some time ago, to the State Hospital for the Insane.

Misses Mary Lamb and Kate Phillips, of the graded school faculty, Miss Alice Phillips, and Mr. John Plummer went to Elon College last Friday for the debater's and declaimer's contest. Miss Alice Phillips and Mr. John Plummer were the representatives of the Asheboro school, and both did creditably, though the medals went to other schools. Miss Phillips was given first place among those selected at the preliminary contest in the morning; but at night, the vote of the judges stood 2 to 1 in favor of Miss Lucy Vickory, of Jamestown, and the boy's medal went to Mr. Edmond J. Burdick, of Asheville.

Mr. G. Elwood Stanton, of Level Cross, was in town last Monday, and exhibited at the Courier office a gold coin of the date 1757, which has an interesting story connected with it. Mr. Stanton says the coin was first brought to Randolph county from the Island of Nantucket by his great-grandfather, Samuel Stanton, and it has ever since been the custom that the youngest son of the family inherited it. Thus the coin passed to his grandfather, David Stanton; then to George Stanton, his father; lastly to himself, G. Elwood Stanton, and will, in turn, pass to his youngest son. Mr. Stanton does not know the nationality of the coin, but says it has been considered worth about twenty dollars. It bears the following inscription: "Josephus L. D. G. Port et Alg. Rex." The Courier force got busy and tried to recall the name of a country that has ever had a king named Josephus; and failing, one of the neighboring lawyers was called upon to know if he could solve the nationality of the ancient piece of money, but he, too, gave it up. The coin is as bright and shining as if it had just come from the mint.

Mr. W. R. Ashworth was a business visitor on our streets yesterday.

Mrs. L. C. Phillips attended the commencement at Trinity Tuesday.

Mr. J. D. McVean, manager of the pig clubs in this State was in Asheboro last Monday.

Esq. D. G. McMasters, of Farmer, was a welcome visitor to our town, one day last week.

Edgar Foust, a colored citizen, of Asheboro, was taken to the colored hospital in High Point Tuesday for an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. J. W. Steed was in the city between trains Tuesday. Mrs. Steed was returning home after a month's visit to relatives in Raleigh, Mebane and Burlington.

Asheboro should be the cleanest town in the State. If every one will clean up their premises and plant flowers it will add greatly toward beautifying the entire town.

Mr. A. B. Beasley, of Randleman, was in town one day last week. Mr. Beasley is cashier of the Peoples Bank at Randleman and is one of the most popular, wide-awake and up-to-date young business men in that town.

Messrs. James Cooper and James Hammond, of Mechanic, were guests of Mrs. Fannie Crawford, at her home in West Asheboro last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Clatus Burgess, of the Asheboro graded school faculty, went to High Point last Friday to spend a few days and attend the marriage of her sister, Miss Lillie Feutress, also, went to High Point yesterday to be present at the marriage.

Dr. W. J. Staley, of Liberty; and Mr. R. W. Staley, of Julian, were in town last Saturday. Dr. Staley called at the Courier office, and paid his subscription a year in advance, saying that he cannot do without the county paper.

Mr. D. A. Cornelison, of Seagrave, was in town last Monday. Mr. Cornelison says he has begun the work of rebuilding his store, which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, and will again conduct a general mercantile business.

Gordon Lemuel, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Davis, of High Point, formerly of Asheboro, died one day last week after an illness of several days from pneumonia. Friends in Asheboro will sympathize with the bereaved family in the loss of this bright little boy.

Owing to the County Commencement, Superior Court, and other things, The Courier columns are crowded this week, and considerable matter was left over till next week. Among this, Miss Adelaide Arnfield's essay on good roads, which took a prize at County Commencement.

Mr. Cone Ridge has some beautiful snow scenes which he took during the last snow here. They are of some of the residences with snow on the shrubbery. The best ones he took are of the parade of school children on County Commencement day. These views are on post cards, nicely finished.

Mr. John Bray, of Central Falls, was in Asheboro last Friday, exhibiting a carp, which he had caught with hook and line in the Central Falls Pond, that weighed 24 pounds. The fish was a handsome specimen of the finny tribe; and after being admired by hundreds on the streets, it was finally sold for $2.50.

Misses Mary and Grace Smitherman, of Troy; and Frances Stanback, of Mt. Gilend; passed through Asheboro one day last week on the way to their homes for the Easter holidays. These young ladies are students of Greensboro College for Women, and the Misses Smitherman had as their guest, their schoolmate, Miss Sarah Claywell, of Morganton.

Mrs. J. S. Lewis gives Easter Party—MEMBERS OF FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY AND OTHER LADIES PRESENT.

One of the most elaborate parties of the season was given by Mrs. J. S. Lewis at her beautiful home on Sugar avenue, Thursday afternoon. The guests were received by Mesdames Lewis and Neely, who ushered them to the dining room, where punch was served by Mesdames E. L. Hedrick and M. L. Lovett. For some time the guests made the needles fly, much of the work being done for the white sale which is being given today under the auspices of the Missionary Society of which Mrs. Lewis has been president for a number of years, until recently when she was succeeded by Mrs. R. R. Ross.

There were about fifty ladies, who partook of the hostess' hospitality. Delicious chicken salad, pickled eggs, wafers, coffee and mints were served. On the side of each plate a tiny yellow chick was perched beside the Easter egg. Each guest was presented with a miniature market baskets filled with mints. The party was one of the most enjoyable social events of the season.

DIED AT WHITE OAK

Mrs. M. E. Ledwell died at her home, White Oak, last Sunday morning. She was 70 years of age, and death was caused by pneumonia. She is survived by five daughters—Mrs. Lee Wood, of Randleman; Mrs. L. D. McLaughlin, of Kings Mountain; Mrs. Della Ransom, of Greensboro; and Miss Lee Ledwell, of Greensboro—and one son, H. M. Ledwell.

She was a devoted member of the Quaker church, and funeral services were held at Randleman Tuesday afternoon.

American dollars have never before been worth as much as at present. It now takes only $4.76 in United States money to buy an English sovereign, while the ordinary price is about $4.85.

MRS. T. J. REDDING DEAD

Just before we go to press, news comes that Mrs. T. J. Redding died at her home, Caraway, last night. Mrs. Redding had been in feeble health for some time, but had only been confined by a short illness, and news of her death will be a shock to her many friends throughout the county. The family is one of the most prominent in Randolph, and Mrs. Redding herself was a most lovable woman. An obituary will be published next week. The burial will be at old Union, Friday, at 12 o'clock.

DEATH OF LITTLE CHILD

Rilla Jane, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Mayness, was born January 30, 1915, and died March 27. This dear little child only lived eight weeks and seven hours, but this was long enough to endear it to its parents and other relatives. The little body was laid to rest at Suggs' Church, March 25th, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

MISSES PRESNELL ENTERTAIN

Misses Enolia and Clarice Presnell were hostesses to the Baraca Class of the M. F. church, who were entertaining the members of the Philathea and Junior Philathea classes, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Presnell, last Monday evening.

After the business meeting of the classes, came a most enjoyable social hour, during which various old-fashioned games, including charades, "Gossip" and others were played. The hostesses served delicious cream and cake and the hour for leaving came all too soon. A full representation of the classes enjoyed the hospitality of the Misses Presnell on this occasion.

MISSES COV ENTERTAIN

Misses Blanche and Bertha Cox entertained several of the young people of the town at their home Friday night in honor of their house guests, Misses Ray and DeVane. Card games and music furnished the entertainment for the evening. Green and white cream and cake were served.

DEATH IN LEXINGTON

Mr. Thomas C. Loflin, who died at his home in Lexington, Wednesday last week, was the father of Mr. C. T. Loflin, of this town. The deceased was 72 years of age. He was a member of the First Reformed church, of Lexington, and the funeral was conducted by Dr. J. C. Leonard, of Holly Grove church. Mr. Loflin was a Confederate veteran and was a highly respected citizen. His wife died nearly five years ago. Two sons and three daughters survive.
