THE MIGHTY COURT OF THE UNIVERSE, THE HUB OF THE ARCHITECTURAL SCHEME AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

All visitors to the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco at some time during their stay at the exposition make their pilgrimage through the Court of the Universe. This is the largest court on the grounds and is the central radiating unit of the architectural and ground plans. Noble sculptured groups embellish it, the two Homeric groups—the Nations of the East and the Nations of the West—surmounting the giant arches at the east and west portals. By night the beauty of the court is enhanced by the flood lighting effects.

THE "ZONE," THE PLAYGROUND OF THE PEOPLE OF THE WORLD

AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

Through the center of the Zone, the amusement section at the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco, runs a broad avenue three thousand feet in length. It is not unusual for this entire avenue to be jammed with entertainment seekers who are busy patronizing the one hundred concessions on the Zone. An exact reproduction of the Panama canal is one of the popular and instructive features, there being a constant line both day and night of people eager to see the workings of the miniature canal. The premier showmen of America have assembled here their finest offerings of amusement, education and instruction.

A COUNTRY WITHOUT FLIES

House Flies Unknown—A Health Resort for Babies

It should be refreshing and a bit encouraging to the fatigued, hopeless fly-fighters to know that there is in the world a country in which there are no flies. The place is the British West Indies. Dr. B. E. Washburn, who has recently gone to these islands in the interest of the International Health Commission and who has taken up his first work in Port of Spain, Trinidad, says, in writing friends in North Carolina: "You will be interested to know that there are no house flies here. I did not see any of these on any of the ten islands on which we stopped. The people know nothing of the house fly, and in this way, if in no other, are singularly blessed." Dr. Washburn says further: "To my surprise, I find that all the islands, especially British Guiana, are health resorts for babies and are so used by the people from England. It has certainly been true in our case, too, for the baby has grown very much."

This interesting fact—that there are no flies in British West Indies—starts up a number of questions and curious answers. Why is it they have no flies? Is it that they have lost the seed? Or is it that they have some active parasite or animal that feeds on flies, like the South American ant-eater, for instance? Certainly, it is not that they have no filth. They have heat and moisture, and if rumor has it true, they have all the filth that is necessary. With these three conditions we have more flies than we can manage, and that they have more favorable conditions without any flies is what we do not understand.

We are not surprised to know, however, to know, since there are no flies there, that it is a health resort for babies. England is fortunate in having such a place, but babies will do well at almost any place where there are no flies, provided they are properly fed and are kept clean.

Were Dr. Washburn to do nothing more for international health than find out the cause for their freedom from flies by which our fly problem could be solved, he would have rendered a blessing to mankind and his name would deserve a place along with Jenner's and Pasteur's.

MONTGOMERY SCHOOLS

School progress in Montgomery county is being studied by Mr. B. B. Holder at the State University. The figures he has worked out dealing with the growth in high school work from 1907-08 to 1911-12 are encouraging.

For the first year the average length of the high school year for the county was 9.1 weeks longer than was the average for the state as a whole; in 1911-12 it was 2.1 weeks longer. This is due to the fact that the state increase had been large and also that during the period a new high school had been established in the county with only a 32 weeks term.

The enrollment in the high school during the period has increased more than twice as fast in Montgomery as in the state. Of course some increase is to be expected, but the amount in this county is unusual.

Financially, the relative amount of support derived from local taxation for three schools has increased about four times as fast as the amount received from state funds. Montgomery county is doing exactly right in supporting its own schools with its own local funds.—University News Letter.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN

Written for The State Journal by Wm. Laurie Hill.

All crafts and callings have their brotherhood,

With signs and tokens, clad in mystery

'Tis well; for while none claimeth all the good,

These social mystic ties of brotherhood

Bring heart to heart; a true consistency.

Why should not these great brotherhoods of man,

Forever banish war in history?

Put greed and hate forever under ban.

The pledges men here make, most surely can;

That they do not, is still a mystery.

Behold in arms millers on earth today,

Amid the roar of guns and battle strife.

"The order of the day" is "wound and slay;"

Men once fraternal, now in mad array,

With no regard for homes or human life.

Did men but pause, bid greed and passion cease,

Silence the guns with words of brotherhood,

Ah, then! the world would see a glad release

From war's alarm, and universal peace;

Then we would have indeed a brotherhood.

DAUGHTER OF HUGO DEAD

Adele Hugo, youngest daughter of Victor Hugo, the famous author of Les Miserables and other books, died recently at her residence in a suburb of Paris, aged 85 years.

The tragic life story of Adele Hugo many years ago aroused the sympathy of the entire world. As a girl she was kidnapped at Guernsey by an English officer. All Europe was searched by her parents, but they obtained no trace of her whereabouts. Several months later a girl was found wandering alone in the streets of New York, apparently demented, declaring: "I am the daughter of Victor Hugo." This was the only statement she ever made. She was sent back to France to her parents, but her lips remained sealed until the end and the tragic story of her life never was revealed. She failed to entirely recover her reason and after the death of her father she lived a solitary existence in her villa, seldom speaking. When she did consent to speak it never was of the past.

MISS RHODA WORTH DEAD

Miss Rhoda Worth, a prominent woman of the Friends church, died at her home in Greensboro last Friday, at the age of 78 years, and was buried in the cemetery at Guilford College.

Miss Worth was a daughter of Hiram and Phoebe Worth and was a sister of former State Treasurer William Worth, with whom she made her home in Greensboro. She was educated at the old Greensboro Seminary and New Garden Boarding School, was for 25 or 30 years an elder in the Friends church, and a teacher in the schools of Guilford county for fifty years.

LESSONS TAUGHT BY CORN CLUBS

Some idea as to the valuable lessons being taught by the corn club work is seen in the case of Roby Church in Wilkes county who won the fifth prize in the eighth district with a yield of 92.2 bushels. This boy entered the club against his father's wishes and on this account was given some of the poorest land on the farm on which to grow his corn. The acre used had been allowed to lay out several years on account of the puddled and sour condition of the soil. Today, this boy is supplying his neighbors with seed corn and his father is an enthusiastic advocate of modern corn growing.
