WOMEN CANNOT BE NOTARIES PUBLIC

The State Supreme Court on last Tuesday declared the law passed by the last Legislature, granting women the right to serve as notaries public, to be unconstitutional, and that such a right could only be granted by an amendment to the State Constitution. Chief Justice Clark and Associate Justice Brown dissented.

The decision was rendered on an appeal of Mrs. Noland Knight, of Asheville, who was the first woman to be appointed notary public under the new law.

FRANKLINVILLE NEWS

Revival Meeting Closed—Other Interesting Items.

Perhaps the greatest revival that has ever been held in this place, has been in progress since May 10th, came to a close Sunday night, and while it was held at the M. E. church by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Rogers, who did most of the preaching, yet the Baptist and other denominations united and did noble work for the salvation of the unsaved. Rev. Mr. White, Rameur, pastor of the Christian church, spent two evenings with us and preached two able and appropriate sermons for the occasion. Nearly one hundred conversions, and over fifty accessions to the M. E. church; while quite a number will join other denominations. A number of parents were among the conversions and not a few were bending with age; for which every follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene should be filled with joy and gratitude and press forward, not deeming the work done, till Satan has been displaced and love Divine reigns supreme in every heart.

Prof. D. M. Weatherly and Hugh Parks attended a meeting of the executive committee of Randolph county Sunday school association at Asheboro Saturday.

Several of our people attended quarterly meeting at Holly Springs Sunday, and some attended Memorial services at Gray's Chapel.

Mr. C. B. Dove, of High Point, is spending a few days in the city with his father, Mr. D. Dove.

Miss Eula Causey, of Greensboro, is visiting in town this week.

Franklinville and Worthville crossed bats on the local diamond Saturday evening with a score of 11 to 1, in favor of Worthville.

Robert Maness, of near Salisbury, was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Bettie Maness last week.

Mrs. R. R. Grimes and Master Robert, of Glenwood, Miss., arrived in town Saturday and will spend some time with her father, Mr. D. Dove and other relatives.

Mr. Paul Maness, left last week for Sampson county, where he will spend a few weeks with his brother.

C. H. Teague and Master Sam, of Hazlet, are visiting in the community.

Mrs. Martha York died suddenly Thursday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wiley Burrow, and was buried Saturday morning at York's burying ground. Mrs. York formerly lived here and had many friends here. We extend to the bereaved ones our sincere sympathy.

FARMERS' COLUMN

MORE HOGS SHOULD BE RAISED

While we are building roads, swatting the fly, organizing corn and tomato clubs in our State, we have been neglecting the raising of hogs. Mr. D. Fagle, of the Bechtel County Club, furnished a bit of tabulated information bearing upon the gains and losses of pork production in North Carolina. The first day of last January, the State had 338,000 fewer hogs than in 1890, while our population increased two and a third times over these 25 years. Twenty-eight counties show gains while losses are recorded in 69. The gains were mostly in the tide-water or coastal plain counties. Moore, one of our adjoining counties, showed a decrease of 55 per cent. It is strange to note that the greater losses were in the middle and western sections of the state, our grain growing, hay and forage region. This is enough in itself without urging our farmers to "get busy." And while we are raising let's raise a good breed of hogs. It doesn't cost any more to feed them than it does a "Razor back."

SPRAYING HOGS

Mr. A. L. Miller, of Tennessee, had an article in the Southern Agriculturist suggesting the spraying of hogs. Parties having few hogs can best use a small sprayer, but where there are many it will pay to have a dipping tank and drive the hogs through once a month.

Another article in the same magazine says:

"I mix black oil and kerosene, equal parts, and pour the mixture all along their backs and necks. The heat of their bodies and the nature of the oil causes the dope to spread, and as they bed together soon gets all over them. This should be repeated every ten days or two weeks until they are free from lice and mites. Sometimes I use a sprinker with the outer end of the spout taken off to apply it, but the best thing to put it on with is a large oil can with a spout about two feet long, having a valve a few inches from the point. This valve is worked by a spring lever from the handle of the can, so if the hog moves the oil can be stopped at once without waste."

SOUTHERNERS GREAT CONSUMERS OF PORK

The Southern people while producing a cotton crop are neglecting hog raising, and are spending millions of dollars annually for pork. Hogs may be raised with very little expense in this section where corn and other feed crops are so easily raised.

The cause of the greatest loss of hogs in the South is worms. One of the best preventive measures is to keep a mixture of ashes, lime, charcoal, sulphur and copper where the hog can eat it at will. The proportions are as follows:

- Charcoal, bushel, 1.
- Ashes, bushel, 1.
- Salt, pounds, 8.
- Lime, pounds, 8.
- Sulphur, pounds, 4.
- Coppers, pounds, 2.

If the hogs are already wormy, a small quantity of turpentine may be given in the slop, one teaspoonful for each eighty pounds of live weight, for three successive mornings.

Lice

Lice cause unthriftiness among hogs and often death among pigs. A very effective method during the summer months is to pour some crude oil on the water in the wallows. This will kill the lice without injury to the hog.

(The Farmer's Column editor will be glad of any article of interest to farmers. Address "Farm Department of The Courier." Let's give each other our ideas, farmers. Maybe yours are better than your neighbor's. Anyway, let's "talk over matters" in this column.)

IN HONOR OF CAPTAIN CRAIG

Mrs. J. S. Lewis was hostess to a number of Asheboro's young people last Saturday evening in honor of her son's guest, Senior Captain Herbert Craig, of the Bingham School, Asheville.

The ever popular game of rook was the feature of the evening's entertainment, the prize for the highest score going to Miss Ina Auman, while Mr. Carl Page and Miss Edna Laughlin tied for the "booby" the cut giving it to Miss Laughlin.

A delicious course of ices was served, and the guests entertained with vocal selections by Miss Ina Auman, and Messrs. Clarence Rush and Ernest Wiles.

A CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to Rev. Lester Lucas our many thanks for his kindness during our misfortune to get our house and all we had burned. May God bless him in all his undertakings. Mr. and Mrs. Harris Eggsdale.
