Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a lime," mays Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering, from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework.

The least amount of work fired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

I am sound and wen or an my account and the cardin goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, firitable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn—out systems.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womani-trouble, take Cardui. If will help you At all druggish.

costly sacrifice which Petersburg had given to the south. Many hands were reached out to greet General Pickett, and from the lips of many a black robed mother came the words: "My son was with you at Gettysburg. God bless you!" A salute of 100 guns announced the marriage, cheers followed the party, and chimes and bands and bugles played as the couple left for their wedding reception in Richmond.

FAREWELL OF PICKETT AND HIS STAFF.

LaSalle Corbell Pickett in telling of the close of the war between the states and the parting of her husband, Gen-eral George E. Pickett of the Confed-eracy, and his staff says:

He gave his staff a farewell breakfast at our home. They did not once Sast at our home. They did not once order to the past, but each wore a blue strip, thed like is usb, around his walst. It was the old headquarters dag, which they had saved from the surrender and torn into strine that each might keep one in sad re-mory. After breakfast he went to the door and from a white rosebush which his mother had planted cut a bust for each.
