

It is to be hoped that a large number of Randolph county's school teachers will be in town next week for Chautauqua. Last year, Chautauqua came during the Institute, and it was quite an easy matter for the teachers to attend; while it will require a little more effort to attend this year, every teacher who does come will be more than repaid for the trouble. Chautauqua not only provides a week of genuine pleasure, but also furnishes an excellent opportunity for self-education of a valuable kind. No one who listens to the splendid music and other attractions presented by famous artists and gives attention to the lectures of the educational and gifted men and women who come to us can fail to have life broadened and to find inspiration for greater efforts in his work.

BRYAN SILENCES JINGOES

Colonel Bryan could not engage in a better work, now that he is out of a job, than that of promoting world-peace. His statement published a few days ago rings true and is bound to do good. Bryan has certainly succeeded in silencing the jingo editors. They have been so busy abusing him for the last week that they haven't had a moment to spare for their usual warlike utterances. Lately they are abusing the President for not dealing more firmly with the belligerents and now they are "cussing" Bryan for even suggesting the possibility of this Nation's going to war and are running over themselves to laud the President for being so lenient with Germany.—Winston-Salem Journal.

ALPHA DELTA CLUB

The Alpha Delta Club met with Misses Blanche and Bertha Cox last Friday afternoon at four o'clock at their home in honor of their house guest, Miss Florence Bingham, of Florida. After a very interesting business meeting of the club the members as well as the visiting young ladies spent a very pleasant hour playing progressive rook. Miss Lucile Rush receiving the prize, a box of Symphony Linen. The house guest was presented with a pair of white silk hose. Block cream, cake and mints were in the club colors, green and gold, were served. Those present beside the club members were: Misses Virginia Henley, Lillie Richardson, Catherine Burns, Lillie Parrish, Kate and Lizzie Phillips, Harriette Hammer, Alice Ingold, Annie Moring, Lucile and Mona Rush and their house guest, Miss Melville Flagg.

TO TEACHERS

Dear teachers:
Last year about this time a Chautauqua was held in Asheboro along with the County Teachers Institute, giving the teachers advantage of some fine entertainment as well as instruction. This year there will be no County Institute but the Chautauqua will be back for six days. I appreciate the hearty support the teachers gave it last year, and I do not believe any teacher can say he was not well paid and thoroughly entertained. It shows conclusively that they are interested in the very best attractions that are on display. This year the program is equally as good, if not better, than last, and for those teachers who expect to teach again, and those who do not have an opportunity to attend a summer school or an institute, it will be a splendid vacation and recreation for six days. Let me insist that each teacher in the county who can spare the time, and, if necessary, sacrifice a little in order to receive the benefit of this splendid instruction and inspiration. You will have a chance to see some of the very best performances in the country today, at the price of $2.00 for 31 events.

The educational side is stressed in such a manner as to furnish new enthusiasm to the teacher. I believe you will go back home after attending with renewed interest and a determination to do better work in the school room. I do not think the teachers in this county can afford to miss this grand entertainment and instructive program. If you are thinking of coming send in $2.00 at once for a season ticket; there is a limited supply or write me to save you one.

Most truly yours,
T. FLETCHER BULLA,
County Superintendent of Schools.

FRANKLINVILLE NEWS

The Children's Day exercises at the M. E. church Sunday morning were rendered in a beautiful and impressive manner, and from the close attention given by the large audience present doubtless made a lasting impression. The program which was partly rendered allegorically with quite a number of the cradle roll students, was indeed rich food for thought and reflection and one could but be thrilled with gratitude at the privilege of being a member of as noble an organization as the Sunday school which strives to gather the children into the fold of the Master in the early morning of life, while their hearts are innocently pure, and before they are clouded with sin and train them to lead beautiful and holy lives and be a blessing to all with whom they come in contact.
