

WHEREIN DEPENDENCE MAY BE HAD IN BRYAN

As time goes by the Republican papers and assistant Republican papers that have been looking for signs to back up their hopes and predictions that Colonel Bryan intends to antagonize President Wilson are becoming discouraged. Colonel Bryan established his attitude quite clearly in his note to the German-Americans, and he has since written no line nor has he delivered a word that would indicate a change from the position therein taken. On the contrary, there are indications that Colonel Bryan intends to stand by Wilson and the administration through thick and thin. In fact, the impression now prevailing in Washington, as we are told by the correspondent of the New York Post, is that Colonel Bryan "will be among those hearty commending a re-nomination for the President next year, and that he will assist in the campaign on and off the stump. So far as known there is no difference between Mr. Bryan and the President except a difference of opinion as to the method to be pursued in bringing the Lusitanian case with Germany to a conclusion. There have been a number of attempts by former friends of Mr. Bryan and by old-time friends to translate the resignation incident into a personal antagonism between the two men, but each attempt thus far has ignominiously failed. Leaders of the administration say all such attempts will fail, including the present attempt to put Mr. Bryan in the hole on the one-term plank in the Baltimore Convention by making him appear inconsistent if he does not try to hold Mr. Wilson to it." The Observer believes every word of this is the truth. It further believes that time will prove Colonel Bryan a man of square dealing with President Wilson and the Democratic party, however, impossible it may be at the present moment to fathom his conduct from the writing of his resignation. Whatever may be said of him, this paper expects that as Wilson's friend and admirer, he will prove steadfast and straight.—Charlotte Observer.

HINTS TO THE SANITARIAN

The city sanitarian or food inspector should be about the liveliest wire in town, especially during the summer months. Of course he must keep a watchful eye on the slaughter houses and meat markets to see that no diseased or fly infected meat is sold and that those who handle it have no infectious disease. Especially careful must he be as far as the milk supply is concerned. There are many modes of infection in connection with milk—lack of cleanliness in milking, in handling, in the use of impure water and in the effect of heat, that there is grave danger without the utmost care. Then there are food shops, and fruit and drink stands, to say nothing of the cafes and restaurants, that should constantly have the inspector's eye.

Various and unsuspected may be the modes of infection and the insanitary conditions of places and things. Even ice may carry infection. Freezing does not kill bacteria. Perhaps most people think so. Artificial ice made from pure water in clean sanitary factories is safe. But dirty-looking, cloudy ice may be infected as well as polluted and should not come in contact with food or drinks. The greatest danger of ice becoming infected is by improper handling—by being dragged across dirty streets or sidewalks, or distributed by unclean hands. Ice should be washed in pure water and handled with clean hands when it is to be used in connection with food.

That ice cream may be positively dirty never enters the mind of most people who are hot and thirsty and think they need refreshing. That it is frozen seems to be the one requisite. As a matter of fact, ice cream in the average town is made of the very poorest quality of cream or milk. It is made usually in cellars or in other insanitary places and is handled with the greatest lack of cleanliness. It is often re-frozen and sold. Then there is the question of flavoring and coloring matters. Upon investigation these have often been found to be impure and injurious chemicals and not fruit juices as supposed. The sanitarian will find, upon investigating points of sanitary precaution. If flies are there, that is sufficient. They locate filth.

HUERTA ARRESTED AGAIN

Victoriana Huerta, one time dictator of Mexico, was put in jail at El Paso, Texas, recently, in company with five other men arrested with him, on fresh charges of conspiracy to violate the neutrality of the United States. He was unable to furnish $15,000 bond, in addition to the bond of like amount under which he was released after his first arrest. He criticized deputy marshal Bryant for "undue vigilance," and said, "had I not been placed in the circumstances I was, I would have shot him."

BOYS—AND BOYS

Durham Sun.

Sometimes we think that girls change, and that men and women change as the decades run on; but boys never change. They are the same yesterday, today and forever. They are the same whether Kate casts them down in China, New York or Patagonia. Styles may change in girls, but as for boys, never! They are the same today as when Cain and Abel played leapfrog in the Garden of Eden.

Boys change as to dress, we'll admit. They used to go barefoot and wear patched trousers, and hats with the crown 'out. They don't do that any more—that is, not many of them. But it is the surroundings that have changed, not the essential boy.

When you were a boy you used to steal the old gray mare out of the barn and go beating down the dirt road as fast as she could go to show the girl what a wonderful and fearless horseman you were. Now the old gray mare is dead, and the barn has given way to a garage. But the boy—your boy—steals the automobile out of the garage and beats it down the improved highway just to show the female of the species what a daring motorist he is. The elemental boy is there. He is no worse than you were—and not much better.

The boy of today is moved by the same motives as you were. He is governed by the same impulses. He has his romances—as you did—and he "gets by" his work with just as little expenditure of real energy as you did in the old days. Oh, of course you're willing to swear that there wasn't a lazy bone in your body, but we've got it straight from all the neighbors that there wasn't a lazier boy alive than you were. Of course you're all right now—an ornament to society, a shining light, and all that—but your boy will be all this, too, when he is your age and has boys of his own.

No boys never change. Girls may, and men and women may, but boys are all cast in the same mold.

CHEROKEES IN SWAIN

Two thousand Cherokee Indians, for the most part full bloods, are living today in a corner of the North Carolina mountains, forgotten by the people of the east. These Indians, who are a remnant of the Cherokee tribe which many years ago was moved by the United States Government to old Indian Territory, own 63,000 acres of land in Swain county, N. C. They bought these lands with money allotted them by the government years ago, refused to west and had a community of their own.

Commissioner Sells of the Indian Bureau has visited these Indians in recent weeks and has planned the establishment of new industries among them for their own improvement and development. It is said that he is the first Indian commissioner to inspect personally the reservation and to discuss with the Cherokees themselves their problems. While the Indians hold 63,000 acres of land, it is not all tillable. Located in a beautiful mountain country much of the land is rugged. The conditions for apple growing are ideal, and Commissioner Sells is going to get them to try this industry.

FORGET IT

If you see a tall fellow ahead of the crowd,

A leader of men, marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud

Might cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet—guarded and kept from the day—

In the dark, whose showing, whose sudden display,
Might cause grief and anguish and life-long dismay.

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that would lessen the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,
That would wipe out a smile or the least way annoy

A fellow, or cause and gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

Traveling Man's Experience.

"In the summer of 1888 I had a very severe attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from four a. m. to 6 p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph for my family. Instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and take no substitute. I took a double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable everywhere.

PAIGE
The Standard of Value and Quality

The Most Popular Six of The Year

WE have been asked a great many times why the Paige "Six-46" has so overwhelmingly proved to be the most popular Six—at any price—on the market this year.

Our answer to that is that we planned that very thing. We planned to accomplish it primarily by putting the very maximum of quality into the "Six-46" and then selling it at the very minimum price—$1395.

Quality includes many vital elements. No better materials, no better principles of design and construction can be bought in any car—$2,000 or $5,000—than we have put into the Paige "Six-46"—for $1,395.

You cannot buy more beauty and distinctiveness of design, more luxurious seven-passenger roominess, more power and flexibility in the motor, more convenience and ease of control, more general motoring elegance than you buy in the Paige "Six-46" for $1395.

You cannot buy greater ease of riding, more reliability in carburetion, ignition, electrical lighting and starting and greater economy in the cost of maintenance and operation than you buy in the Paige "Six-46"—for $1,395.

You cannot buy in any motor car—whether it cost $100 or $2000 more than the Paige—a more complete combination of highest-grade features, making for motor-luxury and elegance, than you buy in the Paige "Six-46"—for $1395.

When the Paige adopts them, they are THE BEST.

And the American people have realized that the Paige, in Quality as well as Price, is the Pioneer Six and has established new standards of Six values. The Paige "Six-46" has proven the most Popular Six of the year merely because it has proven the Supreme Value.

See this world-famous car at your Paige Dealer's and you will understand why it is the Car of the Year.

Caraway, and Mr. B. F. Miller of Asheboro. For more than thirty years she had been blind, an affliction which she had borne without complaint. The funeral services were conducted at the Shepherd Baptist church, on June 6, by Rev. Davis. She had always been faithful to attend church at Shepherd when in health.

Truly she was a good woman and she will be missed. Everyone enjoyed going to see "Aunt Polly", as she was familiarly called. She professed religion about fifty years ago and lived a consistent Christian life ever since. She often expressed her readiness to go and live with Jesus, and in her last hours she said she had been waiting for the summons and she did not see why he had been spared so long in this world of sufferin. Cor.
