GREENSBORO, N. C.
THE STATE'S COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

Fall Term Begins
September 15, 1915

An institution devoted to the spread of sound learning, liberal culture and useful citizenship.
The North Carolina State Normal and Industrial College was established by act of the General Assembly of 1891, and first opened its doors for the reception of students October 5, 1892.

Purpose.
The college is founded upon the idea that women are the natural and inevitable instructors of youths. It believes in a sound and liberally educated womanhood, both as an end desirable in itself and as essential to the intelligence and progress of the race. It would have every woman in North Carolina educated to the full measure of her responsibilities as citizen, wife, mother and teacher. It seeks, therefore, through proper equipment and through various and liberally planned courses of study to make ample provision for the educational needs of the women of North Carolina—to provide an institution of higher learning so thoroughly furnished with every facility for modern education as to render it good enough for any of its women and so closely affiliated with the public schools and so reasonable in its cost of tuition as to bring its opportunities within the reach of all.

Location.
Greensboro, the railroad center of North Carolina, is one of the prosperous, thriving cities of the country, combining the charms and energy of the new. Situated in the delightful Piedmont section of North Carolina, its healthfulness is well known and its social and religious influences are the best. Its accessibility, its excellent hotel facilities, its diversified industries and the hospitable and progressive spirit of its people render it the favorite convention city of the State.

Equipment.
The college owns about one hundred acres of land. Ten acres fronting on a paved and macadamized thoroughfare, are laid out and cared for in accordance with plans of landscape gardeners. A woodland park of twenty-five acres, covered with a natural forest growth of rare beauty, is the private property of the college and is reserved to its students as an open air recreation ground. The college buildings, thirteen in number, have been especially designed for their several purposes and represent the best in material and equipment. The value of the plant is $700,000, and the annual State appropriation is $95,000.

Faculty.
The faculty, numbering sixty-seven earnest and vigorous workers, is representative of the scholarship and culture of the best colleges and universities of this country. They are chosen with a view to securing able and progressive Christian men and women, free from sectionalism, intolerance and bigotry, and thoroughly qualified by character, training and scholarship, for the ladies of their profession.

Courses of Study.
The courses of study have been arranged to meet the needs of the young women of North Carolina. Students who register as candidates for a degree may take any one of five general courses of study leading, respectively to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Pedagogy, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Science in Home Economics. Each of these courses, though arranged with a view to proficiency in some one subject, is liberally construed and offers in addition to the traditional college studies, electives in Pedagogy, Modern Languages, Manual Training, Vocal and Instrumental Music and Household Arts. For students who are not candidates for a degree, special courses are provided in the Commercial Department and in the Departments of Music, Manual Training and Domestic Science.

Summer Sessions.
The college is in session during the summer months. Regular collegiate work is offered and credit is given for all degree subjects properly completed. Special courses also are designed particularly for teachers and graduates of other colleges who may wish to supplement their previous studies by additional work in Pedagogy, School Management, Manual Training, Music and Home Economics.

The Dormitories.
The dormitories have been fitted up by the State. They have been constructed in accordance with modern conceptions of safety and convenience; are supplied with all necessary furniture, and are heated by steam and lighted by electricity. Only single beds are used. Bath and toilet rooms are conveniently located on every floor and in every section, and sterilized drinking water is provided in every hallway. Those who board in the dormitories are under the direct care of the president, the lady principal and her assistants.

Expenses.
The college is maintained by the State as part of its system of public education. A collegiate education to every white woman in North Carolina is its ideal. Tuition is free to all who agree to teach in the public or private schools of the State for at least two years after leaving the college. The total charges for board, laundry, use of text-books, medical attention, heat and lights, is $150.00 per year. This is the total cost to free tuition students, except a charge of $6.00 for gymnasium suit and shoes and $2.00 as a lecture and recital fee. To those who prefer to pay tuition the annual charge is $45.00. Tuition-paying and free-tuition students enjoy similar privileges and opportunities and receive the same service. By the charter of the institution, board must be furnished in its dormitories at actual cost. There is no long list of extra charges and expenses—the regular tuition fee or agreement to teach entitling the students to the full collegiate courses.

In the boarding department the daily menus are made out and the dining room supervised by a trained dietitian. A matron in charge is responsible for the purchase, storage and proper preparation of food materials. The sewerage and water systems, the bath rooms and lavatories, the heating, lighting and ventilating machinery and the laundry and cold storage plants are carefully inspected. All drinking water is thoroughly sterilized and every precaution is exercised in regard to the milk and butter supply. The college maintains its own dairy subject to the official inspection of State officers. Proper ventilation of dormitory and recitation rooms is insisted upon; and due care is taken to prevent the origin and spread of infectious diseases.

An experienced woman physician has charge of all matters pertaining to health, and her lectures on sanitary science and personal hygiene form part of the required course of study. Trained nurses are also regularly employed. Physicians and nurses may be consulted day and night. The cost of medical consultation and attendance is included in the annual expenses.

In this way medical advice is insured at the least cost, and the danger is obviated of any student postponing, for economical reasons, the needful consultation.

A committee, appointed by the State Board of Health, visits and inspects the institution.

Support.
The college has always had the loyal support of the people of North Carolina. Liberally maintained in the interests of the common welfare, it seeks to carry out the purposes for which it was established and invites the continued cooperation of every man and woman in North Carolina in assisting it to perform a wide and useful service. Sympathy and good will have been freely accorded it from the beginning, and material support has aided it in every hour of need. Buildings have been erected, grounds improved, departments equipped, loan funds and fellowships established, libraries enlarged, and assembly halls adorned by the liberality of private donors. Each succeeding Legislature has dealt more and more generously with it and today its annual State appropriation is equivalent to an endowment fund of at least $2,000,000.

Patronage.
The State Normal and Industrial College is not for the poor alone, though it seeks to extend to every worthy girl an opportunity to secure an education. It is not for the rich alone, though it endeavors to provide the best equipment and service obtainable. It knows neither geographical, political nor religious distinctions, but believing in the religion of Jesus and the principles of democracy, is an earnest advocate of universal education. The success of the college is due in large measure to the representative character and spirit of its students. They come from all the counties of the State and are thoroughly representative of the people of North Carolina. Many of them are daughters of wealthy parents and many pay their entire expenses by some form of manual labor. Nearly one-third of the students of the past year were self-supporting.

Spirit and Service.

The atmosphere surrounding the students is one of equality of opportunity. The coming together in this atmosphere of all classes from all sections of the State, foster patriotism and breadth of vision. The living together and working together of representatives of every profession and industry gives the students a clearer comprehension of the life and ideals of their State, acquaints them with its resources and achievements, and inspires them with a laudable ambition to be of some service. The large measure of self-government accorded develops self-reliance and a sense of individual responsibility. The spirit of the college is, therefore, worthy of the State of North Carolina. With a seriousness of purpose nowhere surpassed, and an earnest yet kindly striving for the higher standards of life and thought, here annually gather, on equal terms, more than six hundred North Carolina women. Of the total number enrolled more than sixty per cent., according to their own written statement, would not have attended any other North Carolina college. Two-thirds of its registered students and nine-tenths of its graduates teach in the schools and colleges of the State. No large movement for the uplift of humanity fails to receive their support. In home, school, church and society their influence for good is being constantly felt, and today there is not a county in North Carolina where students of the State Normal and Industrial College are not actively engaged in public service.

Thus the State provides for her daughters, and thus the daughters labor intelligently and effectively in the interest of "religion, morality and knowledge."

TO THE FARMERS OF RANDOLPH COUNTY
There will be nine meetings held in Randolph County, beginning on Monday night August 2nd, for the purpose of discussing with you the importance of growing winter legumes, and other winter cover crops, for the purpose of maintaining soil fertility, and to furnish a larger supply of organic matter in the soil without which crops cannot be grown at a profit.
The speakers will not only give you valuable information as relates to the benefit derived from these crops, but they will tell you how to grow them, when to plant them, and where to get the seed.

These meetings can be made of great value to the farmers, but in order that you may be benefited, and the agricultural interest of the county improved, it is necessary that every farmer in the county attend the meetings and you will be benefited yourself, but you may be able to give information to some other farmer on some detail of farm management that may be of great help to him. I want to say that I am very greatly interested in the development of the farms of this section, and that one of the chief reasons why we as farmers have not been more successful in the past we have I might say refused to work with that co-operative spirit that is necessary for the success of any great enterprise in which more than one man is engaged.

Now I hope that the farmers of Randolph County will not allow these meetings to pass unattended, because in them you can get information that will require years of practice to learn.

The speakers that will be in these meetings are men who have been successful in practice, and can give you information that is not theory alone, but which has been obtained by actual work and results in the field. The places and time the meetings will be held will be as follows:

Farmers' meetings will be held as follows: Commencing Monday night August 2, at Shady Grove;
Tuesday afternoon, August 3, at Shiloh;
Tuesday night, August 3, at Mt. Olivet;
Wednesday afternoon, August 4, at Why Not;
Wednesday night, August 4, at Piggah;
Thursday afternoon, August 5, at Bombay.
