Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Rothrock, of Lexington, were in the city a few days ago.

Mr. Fred Ingram who has been associated with Mr. J. C. Pepper in the mercantile business at Trinity for some time, has withdrawn from the firm, the partnership having been dissolved.

Mr. W. F. Kirkman, of Thomasville, who is working in The Courier Automobile and Piano Contest, was in town last Thursday.

A dog is mighty human. Ever notice how quick other dogs start a fight with the dog who is wearing a ribbon around his neck?

Mr. J. S. Redding, that venerable and substantial citizen of Trinity Route 1, was in town last Friday.

It takes a mighty good liar to sit down beside a pretty girl and talk to her for an hour and say nothing.

Mr. R. L. Scurlock, of Glensia, was here one day last week.

Mr. D. M. Welborn, a substantial farmer of Trinity Route 1, was here a few days ago.

Attorney B. F. Brittain, of Asheboro, was in the city one day last week.

Mr. S. W. Hughes, a good citizen of Tabernacle township, was on our streets last Friday.

Wonder if that county fair and home-coming week will be pulled off in Asheboro this fall?

Mr. T. J. Steed spent several days last week in Randolph county.

Business is picking up right along in High Point and it will only be a short time until it will be normal.

Mr. R. C. Vickory, of Randleman Route 1, is working here.

How many milk bottles have you about the house that belong to the party from whom you purchase milk? If but one or two put them out so that he may have them to use. Do you realize that a milkman who has over 300 customers necessarily has considerable money "tied up" in bottles. If every customer has one or two bottles about the house that they are using, it means that the milkman is short of from 300 to 600 bottles and that he must purchase others to take their place in order to do business.

Mr. John Hill, of Worthville, spent several days here last week.

Mr. W. N. Elder, a prominent citizen of Trinity, was here last Friday.

Although at present the hosiery mills throughout the country are suffering from a shortage in dyestuffs the operations of the High Point and Piedmont Hosiery Mills. The Piedmont plant is running full time and some machines are kept running till midnight in order to supply their orders. They are working their full force and are turning out more goods and have orders for more than when their business was under "normal conditions." The High Point Mills report the same condition, more orders and more work than they had before the outbreak of the war.

Markley's Grove in this city is a veritable city of tents during the conference of the North Carolina Seventh Day Adventists, which is in session for ten days. The session opened Friday, and is well attended by delegates from all over the State. Elder J. H. Behrens, of Greensboro, is president of the conference.

It is said on trustworthy authority that last week Emperor William, through the King of Denmark, offered the Russians terms of peace. The reply of the Czar to the Danish monarch's letter was the categorical declaration that at the present time there could be no question of peace negotiations.

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body. In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutriment gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol.

WHERE THE WAR MONEY CAME FROM

Assuming the wealth of the countries at war to be $400,000,000,000, we find that the cost of war for a year, relative to national wealth, is as follows: For Great Britain, 4 per cent.; Germany, 3.75 per cent.; France, 5.60 per cent.; Russia, 7 per cent.; Austria, 8 per cent.; and Italy, after a year from May 23, 6 per cent.

It has been said that a considerable part of the first year's cost of the war has been financed from liquid funds or reserves immediately available. For instance, in most of the countries, except Great Britain, savings-bank deposits have been largely drawn on for subscriptions to war loans. Taking the figures quoted on the cost of the war to the different belligerents we find that this cost has exceeded total savings in trustee and postal savings banks by these sums: Great Britain, $1,800,000,000; France, $1,800,000,000; Russia, $2,000,000,000, and Italy, $350,000,000, based on a full year of war. Austria-Hungary's savings cover the cost, while Germany shows a surplus of $1,800,000,000 available in savings banks after the sum total of her two loans is subtracted.

The financial resources of Great Britain, however, are not represented in her savings banks. At the end of 1914 the deposits in the joint-stock banks of the United Kingdom and in the Bank of England together amounted to $7,750,000,000. Obviously these represented the business of the country, or the funds on which commerce depended. But, when the July loan came to be analyzed, it was found that the $2,850,000,000 of it had been subscribed through the Bank of England, the average subscription being over $5000, while the response through the post-office was $75,000,000, with an average subscription of about $130. No such amount has ever been put into a national loan at one time before, and in this operation another evidence of the record-breaking proportions of all aspects of the war has been given.—From "The Cost of a Year of War," by Charles F. Spears, in the American Review of Reviews for August.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted for over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Obtainable everywhere.

IN MEMORY

On Thursday, August 5th, God in his all-wise Providence, sent the death angel to convey from her home home on earth to her home in Heaven, Stella Marie Brown, aged 18 years and 8 months. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Kemp's Mills.

Stella was a good girl and a great lover of Sunday school. She professed faith in Jesus Christ quite young and remained a Christian until her death.

She suffered about a week with appendicitis. She was taken to the High Point hospital for treatment and all that loving hands and doctors could do were done for her. But God saw fit to take her. She was laid to rest beside her mother at Holly Springs cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

She is survived by a father, one brother, Marvin, and one sister, Beulah Brown. LOLA COX.

Beauty More Than Skin Deep.

A beautiful woman always has good digestion. If your digestion is faulty, Chamberlain's Tablets will do you good. Obtainable everywhere.

DEFEAT FOR THE KAISERS

It has been observed in these columns the course of the European war, and many of the events marking its progress, recall the War of Sections in America.

At the outset the advantage both in soldiery and in action lay with the South. It was claimed indeed that the South had been preparing for war. A year after the fall of Sumter the outlook for the North was overcast by every manner of doubt and gloom. Still another year and the prospect was hardly brighter.

The Confederates made sure of victory. Even as late as 1864 a national party convention held in Chicago declared the war for the union a failure. Yet the leaders of the South, men like Lee and Johnston, knew all the time that the cord was tightening, that the inner lines were weakening, and that, if the North stood together, and no relief came from abroad, the end was certain, an affair of force against force, the greater sure to crush the lesser.

European intervention, which from the first inclined to the Confederacy threatened the Union. It was held in abeyance by the single issue of African slavery. Monarchism naturally desired the overthrow of Democracy and the breakdown of the Great Republic. Both England and France had begun to fear the growing power of the American Union. But a nation, however, aristocratic whose corner stone was the institution of African slavery, was too palpably dissonant to the people and the times equally in France and in England to justify any reigning sovereign in making the Southern cause his own. The whole trend of modern thought was set against slavery. Louis Napoleon, having an eye upon Mexico, greatly desired to interpose. John Bull was not unwilling. But there stood before them in the South the ghastly fact.

In 1863, Louis Napoleon said to Mr. Slidell, the Confederate Ambassador, "If your Government will give me some guarantee that slavery will be put in the way of ultimate extinguishment—I do not ask its direct and immediate abolition—I can call a European Congress with good hope of the result." Mr. Slidell communicated with Richmond and the answer was "No." Neither the Davis Administration, nor the Confederate Congress, had any authority to touch slavery, and, as a consequence, the South went down and the Union was restored.

Yet, almost to the end of the war the military advantage seemed to be with the Confederates.

They could not win. The institution of African slavery was foredoomed. It was bound to go. Adhering to it the South was bound to go with it. Thus it is with the Austro-German Alliance. Its basic principle is despotism—the slavery of the Right Divine of Kings—the slavery of Autocracy—the slavery of Absolutism. The whole trend of modern thought is set against that kind of slavery as it was set fifty years ago against African slavery. The world has turned its face toward Democracy. Fifty years hence there will not be a crowned head in Europe.

In the persons of Wilhelm and Franz Josef the Right Divine is making its last stand. Fully prepared, it thought to sweep all before it. Its fighting machine is relatively equal as to the forces engaged to that of the Confederacy of the Union. It is winning great victories just as the Confederates did. But its cause was lost when it fired its first gun. Its Vicksburg and Gettysburg are before it. No matter how long delayed it will reach its "Wilderness."

The world would not be fit to live in if such a combination could dominate its affairs. But with the defeat of the Kaisers there shall arise a new Germany—a Democratic Germany—and ultimately peace on earth, good will to men. Meanwhile to Hell with the Hohenzollern and the Hapsburg, and all who willingly support and follow them!—Louisville Courier Journal.
