Dr. Wiley on Milk's Value as a Food (By Harvey W. Wiley, M. D.)

The most difficult and most pathetic part of the question of diet is the appeal from the ill for specific instructions as to what they should eat. I would not dare, with any conscience, tell a sick person whom I had never seen to eat particular articles of diet. The danger of such advice is evident. The safest refuge which the dietist can have in a case of this kind is to confine himself to the original elemental and eternal article of diet most peculiar to man—milk, which in some form is the fundamental diet of the invalid as well as of the infant. I say, advisedly, "in some form." I would not be bold enough to say even that pure, fresh, clean milk of healthy cows is always the best form in which milk can be used. I may say, with confidence, that it is generally the best. However, I have seen very favorable effects follow the use of some form of fermented milk.

The universal turning to milk for a sustaining diet in cases of long-continuing and wearing disease indicates that this article of diet is the fundamental resort. Milk that becomes naturally sour through the action of the lactic acid ferments is a good type of sour milk for invalids' use. The artificially soured milks, however, are often very effective. Particularly the fermented milk originally made in Asia from the milk of mares—known as kumiss—is to be commended in some extreme cases of emaciation and reduction of resistance.

Unfortunately, the art of making kumiss is not widely distributed, and for this reason it is not to be had in all parts of the country. If we were more familiar with the virtues of fermented milk and its high utility in cases of this kind, there would be an increase in the depots of supply. But in most cities kumiss, often of a very high quality, can be obtained in the leading drug stores.

The soured milk which is due solely to lactic fermentation, and not to alcoholic, is best illustrated by the products made with the artificial culture of the Bulgarian bacillus. These cultures can now be obtained in almost all parts of the country, and when fresh and properly used, rapidly produce a soured milk which is of great advantage in many diseased conditions.

If I were called upon to prescribe one remedy which would be most generally useful in disease I would unhesitatingly say, "some form of soured milk." The particular form I would not be able to prescribe until the patient had been studied.

Milk is easily assimilated, most completely utilized, and leaves the least disturbing residue of any known human food. It contains a well-balanced form, which leaves no overplus of any one element, the elements which nourish all the tissues, and it imposes the least burden upon the organs of assimilation and excretion. Milk is therefore, above all other foods, the proper nutriment for the sick.

The eighth annual convention of the R. Y. P. U. adjourned its sessions at Gastonia Thursday night. There were nearly 300 in attendance from all parts of the state. R. J. Wilson of Raleigh was elected president for the coming year.

Capt. B. F. Dixon Advises Young Men To Volunteer

Capt. Dixon recommends the volunteering of the young men of Randolph and adjoining counties with Company K for the reason that they will be held together as a unit after they have been mustered into the Federal service. Those who have already registered are still at liberty to volunteer and the advantage to Randolph boys being held together with officers and men whom they know rather than being scattered all over the country in different companies where they will be absolute strangers to both officers and men is obvious.

Wilson-Cox

On May the 10th, 1917, at noon in Paxton hotel, Omaha, Nebraska, Miss Ora M. Cox of Olathe, Kansas, became the bride of Mr. William Warren Wilson of Erin, Nebraska. The beautiful wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. N. C. Coggin of Syracuse, Nebraska.

The groom is a veterinarian and ranchman and enjoys a large trade in cattle business. The bride is the daughter of the late Y. H. Cox of this county and is very popularly known here.

For the past three years she has been teaching school in Olathe, Kansas, where her efficient work and sunny disposition has won for her many friends who are glad to know she will make her home in the west.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride party enjoyed a sumptuous dinner at the hotel.

Mrs. N. C. Coggin of Syracuse, Nebraska, was an invited guest at this marriage.

God Save the State!

Our Fathers' God, to Thee, Author of Liberty, To Thee we sing: Long may our land be bright With freedom's holy light: Protect us by Thy might, Great God, our King!

Bless Thou our native land! Firm may she ever stand, Through storm and night; When the wild tempest raves, Ruler of wind and wave, Do Thou our country save By Thy great might.

For her prayers shall rise To God above the skies; On Him we wait; Thou Who are ever nigh, Guarding with watchful eye, To Thee aloud we cry, God save the state!

Mrs. Macon Efrid, aged 29 years, died at her home in Albemarle Monday after a few hours' illness. She is survived by her husband and two children.

Owing to the fact that quite a number of the members of the North Carolina Good Roads Association are also members of the Press Association, which meets at Wrightsville Beach, June 27 to 29th, it has been decided by the Good Roads Association to change the dates for the Road Convention to Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, July 9, 10, and 11.

Laura Frances Hearne, daughter of S. H. Hearne, of Albemarle, was married Tuesday of last week to Ernest A. Henning, of Camden, S. C.

William Cary Dowd, president and general manager of the Charlotte News, and Miss Ellen Furness Gayle, of Montgomery, Ala., were married Wednesday, June 6, at the home of the brother and sister of the bride.

An equestrian statue of General Robert E. Lee, mounted on his favorite horse, Tarveler, was unveiled Friday morning on the Gettysburg battlefield on the spot where Pickett's division formed fifty-seven years ago for its famous charge. In the third day's battle that marked the high tide of the Confederacy. Confederate veterans from all parts of the South were present for the unveiling of the statue.

Hon. Robert N. Page of Biscoe delivered a most scholarly, stirring and patriotic address on Tuesday morning of last week at the commencement exercises of the Salisbury Normal and Industrial Institute.

Forethought

People are learning that a little forethought often saves them a big expense. Here is an instance: E. W. Archer, Caldwell, Ohio, writes: "I do not believe that our family has been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since we commenced keeping house years ago. When we go on an extended visit we take it with us." Obtainable everywhere.

To Those Born Without a Silver Spoon

Mighty few of us are born with silver spoons in our mouth. Most of us must bestir ourselves not only for the spoon, but for something to go in it.

Therefore, make every clothes-dollar bring its full return.

This summer economize on a Keep-Kool suit. To wear with it get soft collars, a soft shirt, and silk hose. A new tie would look well, too.

We have these newly arrived and in the latest style. Our cash prices guarantee that you will get them at the very lowest price.

Mr. Berry Writes of Trip to Minneapolis

Editor Courier:

I am writing you a few lines to tell you of my 5 days' trip to the beautiful city of Minneapolis.

I left Asheboro May 31st and my first stop was in the "Land of the Sky." After spending a few hours there my next stop was Indianapolis, about 20 hours continuous ride. There I visited the plant of Nordyke and Morman Mfg. Co., which manufactures mill machinery and automobiles. They have a plant which covers about 50 acres, and employs 2,500 workmen, and 100 office force. There I spent the night at Hotel Washington.

On Saturday morning I arrived in Chicago, spending Saturday evening and night at the Lexington, on Lake Michigan. It was so windy and rainy that I had to stay in all day and night. Sunday being a fine day I attended services in the First Baptist church in Chicago.

My next stop was in Milwaukee, a lovely place right on Lake Michigan. On Monday morning, other millers and myself, as well as mill furnishers and mill machinery men caught a special train from Chicago to Minneapolis, where we were most cordially welcomed at Hotel Radisson, one of the largest and best in the lovely city of Minneapolis, which is the headquarters of the Twenty-Second Annual and National Convention of the United States and Canada of Fraternity of Operative Millers.

The convention will close Friday night with a banquet on the roof garden of Hotel Radisson, where all will enjoy a feast, after which we will return to our homes—North, East and West, and some to the "Sunny South," but I will return to the "Sunny East" of the old North State.

Yours very truly,
G. W. BERRY.

Rev. Sidney S. Robins, Former Asheboro Citizen, Married

The Courier is in receipt of the following which will be of interest to many of the Randolph people: "Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lord announce the marriage of their daughter Frances Shippen and Reverend Sidney Swain Robins on Tuesday, June the fifth nineteen hundred and seventeen Plymouth, Massachusetts"

Mrs. Robins is the daughter of Mr. Arthur Lord, an attorney who practices in Boston, Mass. The bride is a most charming woman. Mr. Robins is the son of the late M. S. Robins of Randolph county. He was educated at Chapel Hill where he completed the A. B. course in 1904. The following year he went to Harvard University, where he took three degrees. In 1910 Mr. Robins was called to Kingston, Mass., where he went to serve the First Parish Unitarian church. He has served the pastorate there ever since. Mr. and Mrs. Robins have the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends in Asheboro and Randolph county.
