

Object: The Promotion of the Agricultural, Civic, Commercial, Educational, Industrial and Moral Life of Transylvania County.

VOLUME—XXI

BREVARD, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 1916.

NUMBER—3

RECORD ATTENDANCE OUTCOME OF REVIVAL

RESULTS OF MEETING WERE SEEN ON SUNDAY

Church Membership and Attendance Greatly Increased Through Revival Work.

What has been declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night. Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

M. J. Taylor, who led the service, reported that 70 converts were made, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

As a result of the meeting there were 200 more members.

REV. W. W. McDANIEL

Rev. W. W. McDaniel, of the Baptist church, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

DR. HUNT CONTRIBUTES SEVEN PAGES TO VIRGINIA MOTORIST

The Virginia Motorist, which is published monthly at Richmond, carried in its September issue seven pages of illustrated descriptive matter of Transylvania county.

The seven pages were contributed by Dr. C. W. Hunter of Brevard, who has succeeded in getting valuable space in a number of publications. The scenes illustrating this article will doubtless attract wide attention and be of considerable advertising value to this section.

Dr. Hunt is a strong believer in advertising. He suggests that every business letter sent from Brevard should contain some advertising matter in the shape of attractive illustrated pamphlets or cards, which could be produced at little cost to the town.

Ben Henderson was the only defendant before the Recorder on Monday. He was found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon. Judgment was suspended on payment of the costs.

There was no session of the court on the 16th.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

Dr. C. W. Hunter, of Asheville, who presided at the service, reported that 141 persons were baptized, and that the number of converts is being followed in further revival work.

The meeting was declared to be the greatest religious revival ever conducted in Brevard, closed at the Baptist church last Friday night.

CARRIED JUGS; ORDERED TO STOP; RAN AND RECEIVED SHOT WOUND IN THE LEG

Deputy Revenue Collector J. A. Galloway again took part in a running fight with alleged blockade runners in the Taxaway section Friday, which resulted in the wounding and capture of Hal Chappelle.

Deputy Galloway and Zeb Straup, chief of police of the town of Rosman, left that town on horseback early Friday morning, riding in the direction of Round Mountain. When they arrived at a point within a mile of their destination they met a boy driving an ox-cart in the road. The boy raised his voice singing in a loud key, and the officers, becoming suspicious, rode on. Just around the next turn in the road they came upon two men carrying jugs and when ordered to drop the vessels and stand, the men turned and ran. Their pursuers followed on horseback, and although the men relinquished their burdens they did not stop. Chief Straup drew his revolver and fired, once in the air and once in the direction of the men. Hal Chappelle dropped to the ground. It was found that he had received a bullet wound in the leg, breaking the bone. The other man made good his escape, and Chappelle denied knowledge of his identity. After caring for the wounded man the officers continued their journey, finding a still but soon located, but had been removed. Physicians who were summoned from Rosman found that the bullet had shattered a bone in the man's leg, and stated that he might possibly lose the member.

Mr. Galloway informs the News that Chappelle received the wound in the leg part of the leg while running from the officers, therefore there is question as to whether it was a shot wound. Chappelle was taken to the British hospital.

Information has been received to the effect that Mr. Beaver, while working for the Rosman team and extracting plant material, later found a paper bottle of opium.

Mr. Beaver suffered greatly from the effects of the opium until his death.

In addition to being burned, Mr. Beaver is said to have died of the hot steam as a result of which he was burned internally.

The coroner, when a member of the Board of Health, reported that the cause of death was the hot steam from the boiler.

Mr. Beaver's death was a tragedy to the community.

The coroner's report was a tragedy to the community.

Mr. Beaver's death was a tragedy to the community.

The coroner's report was a tragedy to the community.

Mr. Beaver's death was a tragedy to the community.

The coroner's report was a tragedy to the community.

CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY AND MARKET CENTER ADVOCATED; BREVARD TO HOLD MEETING

Editor, News: I read something the other day commenting on the possibility of development of our farming interests, something greatly needing encouragement, but also commenting on the need of better methods of marketing these same products and suggesting a co-operative storage plant. This touches on a problem or problems that I believe we are going to have to consider very soon.

But it is a many-sided problem. Large production is a good thing if we can find a market at a fair price. And if that can be done then the increase will come easy. Some people think the farmer should cooperate to buy, but it seems to me that there are ways enough for him to buy, but prices are so high. When the farmer's own boys it is cooperative buying, but it is also CASH buying. The present agencies in the town would probably give about as good prices, grade for grade, if their business was only cash, or near it. The idea, then, is for the farmer to come to a cash basis or near it—command cash prices.

So it would seem that cooperative buying is unnecessary if it is cash buying we need. But it does seem as though some kind of co-operative marketing of products would have to come. A very small surplus of any product marketed in a scattering, haphazard way runs the market. Probably every farmer who has had one or two extra hogs to dispose of in the fall has had difficulty in getting them off. Not many hogs, but no unity in selling. If there was some central marketing agency and each farmer was raising a few more or less these hogs could be handled by the co-operative society and a good ship to whatever market was at that time, at the best price.

There is nothing in the line of one or two hogs, but there is money to be made. As soon as the way would be found to ship the first ones, the increase in production would take care of itself. And thereby the first step is made toward a cash basis. For the hog market is a year round market and the hog is all the year long.

Then take the dry cow, she too is a year round producer and supplier of the carrying of legs. Either is more profitable with the other. A hundred farmers may carry a few hogs and make a little profit each and have trouble finding a market in the fall, and a few dry cows will make a good deal of money.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

WHEN T. J. ROSS WAS TRUE FRIEND TO SHIPMAN FAMILY

State Commissioner of Labor and Printing M. L. Shipman, formerly superintendent of county schools in Transylvania and editor of the French Broad Hustler which he established in Brevard and later moved to Hendersonville, and whose parents live in the Blount section, recalls in the following manner a kind incident in the life of Mr. Ross, deceased:

Dear Sir: The death of Mr. Thos. J. Ross, reported in this week's issue of your paper, brings to mind an incident which occurred during my childhood days that I never shall forget. On the night of February 28, 1881, Mr. Ross proved a "friend indeed" to my father's family and we shall ever hold him in grateful remembrance. On that fateful night, a fearful storm of wind and rain visited the section in which we lived and completely destroyed the little house our family occupied on the old "Square John Paxton" farm in the Cherryfield section of your county, and we found shelter in the hospitable home of Mr. Ross a short distance away.

My father, mother, and baby sister narrowly escaped instant death and the wonder is that any member of the family came out of the totally demolished building alive. But the hand of Providence moves in mysterious ways and, although the building was torn from its very foundations and hurled the length of itself, all of us escaped without a single fatality. But I shall never forget the awful moment when the eyes of other members of the family and myself were fixed upon the ruins of the old house. Four of us escaped with out even a scratch and the injured ones soon recovered after receiving attention at the home of Mr. Ross, to which they were conveyed through rain and swollen streams. My father showed superhuman strength in carrying me out to a neighbor's house, and I shall never forget the awful moment when the eyes of other members of the family and myself were fixed upon the ruins of the old house.

I earnestly wanted to express my regrets on account of the passing of Mr. Ross, whom I have long held in the highest esteem. He was, indeed, a fine character and a splendid citizen. The world would be vastly better if all men were like Thos. J. Ross.

Congratulating you upon the important paper you are making on the News, and with best wishes, I am, Yours very truly,

Robert L. Jan, Jr. M. L. Shipman

That the problem of the day, the market would be easy. To have a year round producer and supplier of the carrying of legs.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

The idea is to have a central marketing agency and each farmer would be able to get the best price for his products.

NEWS STILL GROWING; HAS BIG HONOR ROLL

NEW SUBSCRIBERS DAILY RECEIVED BY THE NEWS

Delinquent Subscribers Should Read Explanation of Subscription Label.

Growing right on! That's the case with the News. "You can't keep a good man down," they say; neither can you a good paper.

Last week the News carried the names of its new subscribers. It is number, received since the beginning of the year, also adding the long list of renewals. Both these lists have been growing since last week and in order that the paper may fully appreciate the growth of the News the names are given below. They constitute our honor roll, which we are going to continue, and in this way in the course of twelve months the paper will contain almost the name of every subscriber.

We are pleased with the response in the way of renewals and new subscriptions. There are only a few old subscribers in bad standing, not paid up for the present year and we naturally expect remittances from them promptly for the News to be continued on a strictly pre-paid basis, provided arrangements are not made with us for payment at a stated time.

For the information of all subscribers we will explain the figures on their subscription labels in order that they may know when their subscriptions expire. For instance, if the label on the paper bearing your name reads 1-1-16, it indicates that your subscription was paid until the first month of the year, the first day of the month, and to the year 1916. The first number stands for the month, the next for the day, and the next for the year. Thus, if the label bears the number 1-1-16, it means that the subscription was paid until the first day of the year, the first day of the month, and to the year 1916.

The people have been rightly pleased with the News as will be shown by the following new and renewal subscriptions received during the past week:

W. M. Brothers, Brevard; Mrs. J. C. Orr, Brevard; R. L. ...

Mrs. J. C. Orr, Brevard; R. L. ...

Mrs. J. C. Orr, Brevard; R. L. ...

Mrs. J. C. Orr, Brevard; R. L. ...

Mrs. J. C. Orr, Brevard; R. L. ...

Mrs. J. C. Orr, Brevard; R. L. ...

THE MUSICAL RECITAL

Sir E. ...