BREVARD INSTITUTE CLOSES SCHOOL YEAR

STUDENTS AND FACULTY LEAVING FOR HOMES

Last Exercises Held Wednesday Night—Best Year in Institute's History.

The 1915-16 session of Brevard Institute closed Wednesday night and pupils and teachers are leaving for their homes.

The commencement program, measuring up to the usual good standard, was rendered practically as published in the News.

Owing to the fact that honors were not awarded until Wednesday night the News for want of time could not handle them this week. They will be published next week.

NEW FACES IN PRINT SHOPS

The Sylvan Valley News and the Quality Print Shop have installed several new type faces and have replenished the old cases of type, thereby increasing efficiency and measuring nearer up to the standard of first-class print shops.

It would be difficult to find better equipped shops in any town the size of Brevard. This spells efficiency from the word go.

TRANSYLVANIANS ATTENDED MECKLENBURG CELEBRATION WHERE PRESIDENT WILSON SPOKE TO 100,000 PEOPLE

A number of Transylvanians attended on Saturday the celebration of the 41st anniversary of the signing of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence in Charlotte, where President Woodrow Wilson spoke to an audience estimated at 100,000 people on a subject that related to the troubles from which America emerged in gaining its independence and the duty of this country toward meeting the new conditions with which it is to be faced at the end of the European war.

President Wilson was given a great welcome and was seen by one of the largest crowds ever assembled in North Carolina.

The following went from Brevard, some by auto and some by rail:

Col. C. C. Hodges, A. A. Manning, C. S. Osborne, Jim Dean, Thos. H. Shipman, J. S. Silverstein, G. H. Paxton, Robt. Stuard, Dr. C. W. Hunt, Ora L. Jones, Noah M. Hollowell, A. C. Couch, P. L. Bruce, Floyd King, Ott Dermid, W. R. Thomason, Pierce Norman.

Col. Manning went as a member of the staff of Governor Manning of South Carolina.

M. L. SHIPMAN SHOULD HAVE ANOTHER TERM, SAYS PAPER

The News last week paid tribute to M. L. Shipman, a former Transylvanian, and advocated his nomination at the primary on June 3. J. D. Boone of the Waynesville Mountaineer adds editorial words of praise as follows:

"We wish to say a word in favor of our old friend, M. L. Shipman, of Hendersonville, State Commissioner of Labor and Printing, who is a candidate for reelection and who really deserves it. He is a practical printer—understands the work and deserves another term. No better Democrat ever lived and he has been of great party service as a newspaper man and as a speaker. Let Shipman have another term."

NATIONAL HEAD OF JUNIOR ORDER COMING

The public is invited to hear Hon. C. B. Webb, National Councilor of the Junior Order United American Mechanics at the Auditorium on Saturday night, May 27.

Mr. Webb is the head of the Junior Order in the United States and is an orator of national reputation.

In addition to Mr. Webb there will be other speakers.

The Juniors have secured the Auditorium and there will be the usual Saturday night pictures for which no admission fee will be charged.

The pictures will start at 8 o'clock promptly.

Come out and enjoy the pictures and the speaking.

POLITICIANS PAY TRANSYLVANIA VISIT

Zebulon Weaver and Sol Gallert Both Have Visions of Nomination—E. L. Daughtridge Is Confident of Victory.

The higher-up politicians have paid Brevard visits during the past few days.

Zebulon Weaver, whose announcement with reference to his candidacy for the congressional nomination appears elsewhere in the News, was in town for three days this week. He reports conditions as most gratifying in the district. He is confident of winning the nomination.

Sol Gallert, who was here from Rutherfordton last week, expressed himself as being elated over the outlook and felt sure of the nomination.

Lieutenant Governor E. L. Daughtridge was here last week and the outlook was rosy for his nomination for the governorship, for which T. W. Bickett is also running.

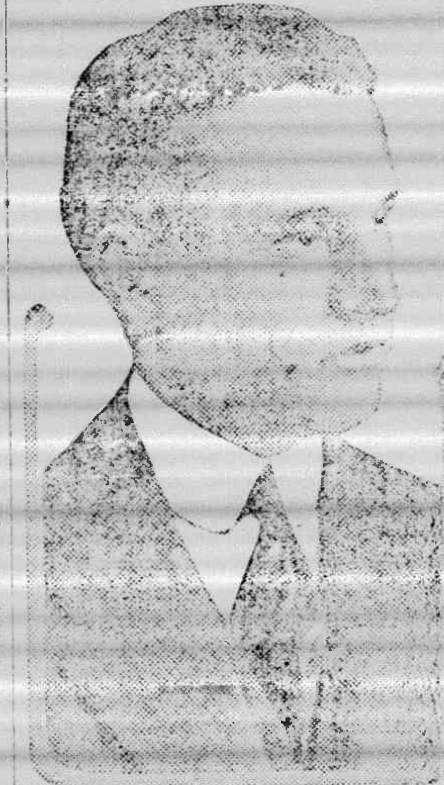

Other candidates seeking the congressional nomination are Frank H. Hewitt and Judge M. H. Justice.
