TURKEY AN "IDJUT"

At Least That Is the Opinion Farmer Has of the Great American Bird.

HOUSEWIVES contemplating the annual Thanksgiving dinner little realize the months of preparation which preceded the feast.

A trip to a market gives the layman an insight into the real business of Thanksgiving, and incidentally a quantity of rural folk lore which is disappearing.

After a little preliminary conversation the old farmer pointed upon the ways of the great American turkey and in his conversation knocked the pedestal upon which the fowl is placed squarely from under its feet.

"In every way," replied the farmer, "I believe that the words 'not sense enough to come in out of the rain' was written to describe a turkey. Did you ever know, for instance, that a turkey can drown itself during a rain-storm?"

"They're helpless critters, too. Ain't got as much gumption about them as a chicken. And fall—let me tell you, young man, that a turkey is the greatest natural-born invalid in the world. They have to be watched every minute or the first thing you know they'll up and die on you without a second's warning."

"Does that apply to wild turkeys as well as the tame ones?" asked the reporter. "The old man spat thoughtfully and profusely at a chip of wood in the ground. He bit the mark.

DAY OF REJOICING

Thanksgiving Celebration Is a Great Event on Cotton Plantation.

THANKSGIVING day on a cotton plantation means an open heart and hand on the part of the master and a full stomach, a day of happiness, and, consequently, gratitude on the part of the worker.

For several nights the woods for miles around the plantation are the scene of night activities. It is easy enough to find the trail of a "possum, and when once located the dogs lead a rattling, howling band in the hunt.

Somehow the light fascinates him and he usually settles on the lowest limb. It is just what the hunters want. Mr. Possum is noted for his fondness for dead meat, consequently a possum that is shot is not the most savory of meats.

Several days before Thanksgiving day some of the hands are taken from the cotton fields and put to work around the plantation buildings. This is, with the exception of Christmas, perhaps the most enjoyable task of the year, for it means the preparation for the feast which the plantation is to give its hands on the day when thanks offerings are made.

Usually this is spread in one of the big buildings on the plantation, perhaps a barn or a cotton shed. The hands are set to work at first to clear out the place and make it clean. Then they put together a dozen or more long improvised tables and benches, and lastly they decorate the building with all kinds of flags and bunting.

Enemy of the Cranberry. An enemy which would rob the Thanksgiving table of cheap cranberries is the cranberry root worm, and the government has been attempting to circumvent this destroyer, too.

Worthy Supplication. For all blessings which may help to make the land we love more worthy of its fortune, its founders, its destiny, A-m-e-n.

TURNED TO OLD FRIEND CARDUI

And Soon Was Perfectly Well and Strong, And Better Than She Had Ever Been. Says Kentucky Lady.

Narrows, Ky.—Mrs. C. E. Askins, of this place, writes: "About 15 years ago I had got into a run-down state, my back ached all the time, felt weak, my bones seemed to ache all over. I had weighed only 101 lbs. when I married, and never had been right robust since I reached womanhood."

After my first child's birth, over two years had passed by, but the . . . didn't appear. My husband got no more medicine from our doctor, which did me no good, but he intended it to bring the . . . about, for he said the blood was going to my head and causing it to ache, which also helped to make me so dizzy. . . . So I turned to my old friend Cardui and began taking it and . . . soon I was perfectly well and strong, gradually gained flesh until I weighed about 145 lbs., and was so stout and strong, better than I ever had been."

WHERE DEATH LURKS ALWAYS

Bullets Sing Without Ceasing, and Birds Sometimes, in "No Man's Land" on Battle Front.

But it is a wonderful fact, that strip we call No Man's Land, running from the North sea to Switzerland, 500 miles. All the way along the line, day and night, without a moment's cessation, through mud and blood, long months, men have been suffering across that deadly strip, and had been lying there, and lying there. To show yourself, you're dead. For I have found a lot of things over in the early morning as early as any bird ever sings, over the English meadow. A line of death 200 miles long, stretch from end to end with the remains of soldiers. And on either side of it all through along 200 miles, a war of attrition, dozens, scores, hundreds, and thousands of soldiers, killed by bullets, but by millions of rats. It is true, and millions of living, busy men, with countless billions of rounds of death-dealing ammunition, and a complex organization as closely ordered and complete as the organization of any city in England. —Francis British Officer's Letter in the Forum.

Both Congressman Britt, Republican, and State Senator Zeb Weaver, his Democratic opponent, continued to claim election to Congress in the Tenth district and that it will undoubtedly take an official count to decide.

From all indications, the Democratic majority will be the greatest since 1900 when Aswood swept Senator B. Adams of his seat by 58,387. In 1904 Robert B. Glenn defeated Charles J. Harris by 43,254. Governor W. W. Kitchin's majority in 1908 was 43,256, while Governor Locke Craig carried the state in 1912 by 45,435.

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and medicine and got no benefit. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been cured as I was at that time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well. So I bought and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Johns Hospital." Feel Achy All Over?

To ache all over in damp, cold, or after taking a cold, is a natural, and often indicates kidney weakness. Urine acid causes many queer aches, pains and disorders of the organs. Well kidneys keep urine acid down. Tired, dizzy, nervous people would do well to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They stimulate the kidneys to activity and so help clear the blood of irritating poisons.
