APPOINTMENTS OF THE WESTERN N. C. CONFERENCE

MANY CHANGES ARE MADE WHEN BISHOP KILGO GIVES MARCHING ORDERS.

SUCCESSFUL CONFERENCE AT GASTONIA ADJOURNS

Resolutions Approving the Unification of Methodism in the United States Was Adopted.—One of the Busiest Sessions in History.

Gastonia.—One of the greatest meetings in the history of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference came to an end when Bishop John C. Kilgo announced the appointments of the pastors for the coming year.

Asheville was selected as the meeting place for the 1917 conference.

Gastonia is an ideal conference town and took splendid care of the delegates. Rev. H. H. Jordan, conference host, with his capable band of assistants, added greatly to the pleasure and comfort of the delegates and received a unanimous vote of thanks for same.

Sure Thing.

"You see the man over there? He never fails to get all the game he's after."

"How lucky!"

"Not at all. You see, he is always hunting trouble."

Puritan Joke.

"That old rocking chair," said Mrs. Uppson, proudly, "was brought over by one of my ancestors in the Mayflower."

"Ah, I see," rejoined the alleged Jokesmith, "One of the original Plymouth rockers, as it were."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

There those who think they are mighty,
And "might makes right" is their creed.
Oh! little care they for the people
Who stand in the way of their greed.

GOOD THINGS FOR COMPANY.

During the holiday time one enjoys having some of the old-fashioned and family dishes.

Cider Jelly.—Take two and a half tablespoonfuls of gelatin. Scald a cupful of cider; add a cupful of sugar and stir until dissolved. Pour the boiling hot cider over the softened gelatin and mix thoroughly until well dissolved, then add a third of a cupful of lemon juice and a pint of cider; mix, and when nearly cold turn into a mold to set.

Chestnut Dressing for the Turkey.—Take a quart of large chestnuts, remove the shell and cook until soft, then remove the inner brown covering, mash and mix with two tablespoonfuls of butter, a teaspoonful of salt, pepper, chopped parsley, a cupful of fresh bread crumbs and stock or milk to moisten. To do away with the sewing up of the turkey, use toothpicks on each side of the vent, lacing a string back and forth as a man's shoes are laced. This is quickly removed after the bird is ready for the table.

Sweet Potatoes, Southern Style.—Cook the potatoes in their skins until soft. Cut them, after peeling, in rather thick slices and lay them in a greased baking dish, sprinkling with sugar and rubbing butter to each layer. Bake half an hour in a slow oven and serve them from the dish in which they were baked.

Chestnut Dainty.—Take a pound of chestnuts, one cupful of cream, half a pound of sugar, one lemon, half a teaspoonful of lemon extract, a few drops of red coloring, and some pink and white wafers. Cut a slit across the top of each chestnut, then put them on to cook in boiling water to cover; boil for five minutes then peel them. Put two cupfuls of hot water into a pan, add the sugar and the juice and grated lemon rind; bring to the boiling point, add nuts and cook them until tender. Take out of the syrup, mound and rub them through a sieve. Whip the cream, add the chestnut puree, sweeten to taste and coloring and flavor. Heap in a pretty dish with the whites around the edge.

FESTIVE FOODS.

The housekeeper is glad to welcome a new dish to tempt the appetite of her family and to add variety to the diet.

Christmas Squares.—Take two heaping tablespoonfuls of chopped candied peel, two tablespoonfuls of preserved cherries, two tablespoonfuls of sultana raisins, two tablespoonfuls of chopped dates, the white of an egg, one tablespoonful of rose water, one teaspoonful of lemon extract and some confectioner's sugar. Chop all the fruits very fine. Put the white of the egg into a bowl, add the water, rose flavoring, and stir until smooth. Add the chopped fruits and then stir in the sugar to make a stiff paste. Allow the mixture to dry three hours. Brush over with melted chocolate; when dry turn on to waxed paper and brush with chocolate on the other side. When set, cut in squares.

German Forcemeat.—This is good for goose or roast pig. Mix together one cupful of boiled, blanched chestnuts, a tart apple, a small cupful of celery, a small onion, all chopped very fine. Add one cupful of seeded raisins, a tablespoonful of butter, melted; pepper and salt to taste and milk to moisten. Mix lightly and fill.

Roast Pig.—A six-weeks pig after being carefully cleaned and dried is filled with German forcemeat, or bread and mashed potatoes may be used if preferred. After filling, rub the pig with melted butter, sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Roast, basting often in a moderate oven, two and a half to three hours.

Sweetbreads a la Newburg.—Parboil a pair of sweetbreads half an hour in water with two bay leaves. Drain, cool, remove the membranes and cut in small dice. Chop fine a half cupful of mushrooms. Heat a cupful of thick cream in a double boiler, add the sweetbreads and the mushrooms. Beat three egg yolks, add salt, paprika and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce and stir into the cream, stir until somewhat thickened. Put into heated ramekins and serve very hot.

Stuffed Potatoes.—Choose six good-sized, shapely potatoes, scrub them clean and bake in a moderate oven until they are soft. Then cut a piece from each end and scoop out the potato without breaking the skins. Mash the potato, seasoning with butter, chopped ham, salt, pepper and egg. Refill the shells and return the potatoes to the oven to reheat.

GOOD ROADS

VALUE OF CONCRETE ROAD

Engineer Compares It With Other Types of Highways and Shows Its Many Advantages.

"A concrete road will tend to pull any community out of the mud and stay out," according to A. N. Johnson, highway engineer, who for a number of years was connected with the office of public roads, United States department of agriculture.

In speaking on the subject of concrete roads, their construction and value to a community, he said:

"Clean, hard, well graded sand and pebbles or crushed stone, mixed with cement and water to form a mass of quaky or jellylike consistency, eventually hardens into stone. When such a mixture is laid so that slabs 16 feet wide by from 30 to 50 feet long are formed, you have a pavement with a durable, non-skid surface, making possible higher traffic speed with large loads drawn by fewer horses or less tractive power—a road open to traffic 365 days in the year—briefly, a concrete road.

"Successful concrete road construction requires, first, proper preparation of a foundation or subgrade. This means excavating to a firm soil where the contour is to be followed, providing drainage so that water will not remain under the concrete slabs. Upon the prepared subgrade concrete is placed in one or two layers or courses. This assures that some concrete such as is used after what is known as the one-course construction.

"The first course of a relatively rich concrete mixture is placed; the second of a somewhat richer mixture for a base upon which a wearing course of concrete is placed before the concrete in the base has commenced to harden. Camillus, N. Y., is using a concrete road one course 16 feet wide, or where the roads must cross low, frequently flooded fields poorly drained spots, reinforcement in the form of mesh or bars is placed in the concrete while hardening. This assists to prevent cracking, either as the result of contraction of the concrete while cooling or due to frost action.

"High crowned grades of the concrete road are necessary to shed rain properly and keep it off the road surface. These must be combined with cement and water in proper proportions to make a durable road. Concrete roads have been built in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey and New York for eight years. Those completed seventeen years show a total average cost per mile of $8[illegible] for maintenance of roads built with material other than concrete, while a concrete road costs only an average of $50 per mile per year.

"Reduced to an average basis and distributed over a period of 20 years under a $1,000,000 bond issue, the average cost of a concrete road to a farmer living on land valued at $300.63 per acre is $[illegible] cents per acre per year. This estimate is based upon proposed concrete road construction in Vermilion county, Illinois, and Vermilion county has just accepted bids for 141 miles of concrete highways. Distributed over a period of years and equalized among the farmers and taxpayers who are thus enabled to reach their market town 365 days in the year—and more quickly than ever before—with larger loads drawn by fewer horses, the cost of a concrete road is negligible. So a concrete road is actually cheap because [illegible]."

MONEY FOR IMPROVED ROADS

Big Taxpayer Is the Man Who Foots the Bill for Every Improvement of Public Nature.

More than $[illegible],000,000 was paid in fees for the registration of motor driven vehicles in the United States last year. Nearly one cent of this was spent in the construction of old roads and the building of new roads.

Added easily the motorists paid by far the largest proportion of all taxes which were used for good roads purposes.

As a rule the big taxpayer is an automobile owner and he is the man who foots the bill for every public improvement.—Houston Post.

GOOD ROADS IN NEW JERSEY

Total Mileage at Close of 1914 Placed at 14,817.19 Miles—39 Per Cent Surfaced.

The total road mileage of New Jersey at the close of 1914 was 14,817.19, exclusive of streets in towns. Of this, 5,807.45 miles, or 39.8 per cent, were surfaced. Of the latter 2,858.72 miles were gravel, 1,849.24 untreated macadam, and 417.45 miles bituminous macadam.

Getting Old Too Fast?

Late in life the body shows signs of wear and often the kidneys suffer first. The back is lame, bent and stiff and the kidney action distressing. This makes people feel older than they are. Don't wait for dropsy, gravel, hardening of the arteries or Bright's disease. Use a mild kidney stimulant. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands of elderly folks recommend them.

A North Carolina Case

Mrs. S. L. Ross, 509 Guilford Ave., Greensboro, N. C., says: "I had a tired ache across the small of my back and could hardly get around. My nerves were affected, my sight bothered me and my whole system was run down. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me great relief and after I had taken two boxes, I was rid of the misery in my back. My kidneys again acted as they should and my health improved greatly."
