RELIABLE RECIPES.

FRUIT SOUP.—Take about one quart of fruit which have been parboiled and let them stand in the liquor for an hour or so until they are pulpy; then let them come to a boil and season with salt, pepper and about a tablespoonful of butter; also slice two or three large potatoes very thin into a broth and a whole medium sized onion, often times other vegetables may be used.

FRENCH HASH.—Chop up very fine any kind of meat, put it in a frying pan or stew pan, season with butter, salt and pepper; put in some water and allow it to cook well; just before it is done put in a little cream; have some bread nicely toasted, placed in a large dish and put a spoonful of hash over each piece, pouring over it a little gravy; this makes a very nice breakfast dish.

PEA SOUP.—Soak a quart of split peas (not the fresh ones) in water overnight, then put them in a pot with two gallons of water, six cold boiled potatoes, two onions well sliced, one pound of pork, or an old ham bone, and a few bay leaves, cover very closely, boil very slowly for five hours, season to taste with pepper and salt; one tablespoonful of celery seed imparts a fine flavor; serve the soup on a platter with vegetables after the soup.

CHICKEN SALAD.—Select a chicken that will weigh about four pounds, dress and joint, wash and put in a kettle with plenty of cold water, add a little salt and cook until the bone will slip out easily; when cool take off all the skin and force the meat from the bones; cut with a sharp knife in bits; some only use the white meat, but the salad is equally good to use both the light and dark. It hardly pays to use the wings and the pieces which have so little meat on, and they can be saved for lunch. Measure the meat and set it in the icebox. Clean and cut in pieces about half-inch long enough celery so you have the same quantity as you have of the chicken; of course, only the white part of the celery is good. The light green tips are nice to garnish the salad with when ready for the table.

ACUTENESS OF THE RAVEN.

Cleverness of the Feathered Hero of Poe's Poem.

Most animals are no match at all for the raven's cleverness. There was once a poor hare that allowed himself to be completely bamboozled. The raven pounced at the leveret as the baby hare is called—but the mother drove the rascal away, says the Brandon Banner.

But did the raven cease from troubling? Not a bit of it. He slowly retreated, encouraging the hare to follow him up, and pretended even that he was afraid of him. In this fashion he led the unhappy mother to a considerable distance from her young one, and then, all of a sudden—long before the hare had time to realize the danger of the trick—rose in the air, flew swiftly back, caught the leveret in his beak and bore it away.

A similar trick was adopted by some ravens, that wished to steal food from a dog. They teased him till he grew so angry that he chased them from the spot. But the wicked birds turned sharply around, easily reached the dish before him, and carried off the choicest bits in triumph.

As to the raven's power of speech, the following story, which is given on the authority of Capt. Brown, who vouches for its truth, will show how aptly it can talk:

A gentleman while traveling through a wood in the South of England was suddenly alarmed by hearing a shout, "Fair play, gentlemen! Fair play!" muttered very earnestly, in loud tones. The cry being repeated presently the wayfarer thought it might proceed from some one in distress, and at once began to search for him. In due course he came upon a couple of ravens attacking a third in a most brutal manner. He was so struck with the oppressed bird's appeal that he rescued it without delay.

It turned out that the bullies' victim was a tame raven belonging to a house in the neighborhood. Happily it knew how to use the catchwords that it had so adroitly learned.

A Remarkable Lake.

Near Kolberbrunn, in Silesia, is a remarkable lake, which scientific men do not yet understand. There is a hollow near the town containing about 2,600 acres, and at intervals of nearly thirty years it is converted into a lake. For a short time the bottom of the hollow is almost perfectly dry. Then water begins to ooze through the cracks of the wall in it, bursts through the bottom of the hollow, and gradually forms a lake. At present the hollow is about half full of water, and the level of the lake is still rising. In a short time, however, it is expected to recede again, and in the course of the next twelve years or so the hollow will probably be dry again for a time.

How Jules Verne Writes.

Jules Verne thus describes his manner of writing his romances: "I am now at my seventy-fourth year, and I hope to write as many more before I lay down my pen for the last time. I write two novels every year, and have done so regularly for the last thirty-five years. I do so much every morning, never missing a day, and get through my penwork with the greatest ease. I am very severe on myself, and in writing I correct and correct. I don't believe in dashing off work, and I don't believe that work that is dashed off is ever worth much. He works in the morning, and passes the afternoon in amusements or healthy exercise. He spends four or five evenings a week at the theatre or club, and is a steady reader of all that appears relating to scientific news, natural history, discoveries, or explorations."—Chicago Saturday Herald.

MEANT TO HAVE THE GIRL.

Frank Johnson Responsible for the Death of His Sweetheart's Father and Brother.

Bristol, Tenn.—Knox county, Ky., near Leach and Floyd, is being sued by officers of the law who are on the hunt for Frank Johnson, and party, who killed two men on Monday night. A love affair was the cause of the crime.

Johnson, a reckless young man, fell in love with the daughter of James Warwick, a well-known citizen of this county. The latter objected to the young man's attentions and went to inform him, but Johnson did not stop his visits. Finally the young people became engaged.

On Monday night Johnson went to the home of his fiancée and knocked for admittance. He was met by the irate father, who shut the door in his face. Johnson became enraged and went to the homes of some of his companions, where he related the circumstances. In a short time he returned, accompanied by half a dozen of them, all well armed. They approached the house and ordered the father out. He anticipated events and summoned his son and a laborer to his aid. A pitched battle ensued, dozens of shots being fired by both sides. When the smoke cleared away three men, Warwick and his son Tim and one Jessie of Johnson's gang, were found to be dead.

Johnson fled with his comrades and they have not yet been heard from. It is thought they worked their way to West Virginia.

THE CONTRACT LIMIT.

An Important Question As to Cotton Options.

GALVESTON, TEXAS.—The Galveston Cotton Exchange adopted resolutions condemning the custom of the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges in permitting inferior grades of cotton to be tendered in fulfillment of future contracts, thereby depressing the market. The Galveston Exchange asks other exchanges to join in the movement and induce the New York and New Orleans exchanges to adopt low middling grade as the lowest that can be offered in fulfillment of future contracts, urging that as the only objection to the present system of option trading.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—The board of directors of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange decided at a meeting held that it was injudicious at this time to make a change in the form of contracts under which cottons for future delivery are sold in this market. Notice to the above effect was promulgated by President Flower.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Monsignor Satali, the Pope's legate to the World's Fair, accompanied by Rev. Dr. O'Connell, rector of the American Church at Rome, and the committee that went to New York to escort them here, arrived at Cardinal Gibbons' residence where a reception was held. Monsignor delivered some verbal messages of esteem sent by the Pope and other high dignitaries of the Church to His Eminence of Baltimore. Monsignor Satali also stated that he had in his baggage some important messages from Cardinal Gibbons, presumably from the Pope.

A banquet was given by His Eminence to Monsignor Satali at night, at which time the United Press dispatch from Rome to the effect that the Vatican has decided to elevate Archbishop Vaughan and Monsignor Stoner to the cardinalate caused considerable comment. It led to a statement by a clergyman high in Church circles that the report was no doubt true and would receive official confirmation in a few days.

NEW YORK'S JUBILEE.

The Metropolis Honors the Memory of Columbus.

A Grand Gala Time Wound Up By a Columbus Banquet.

COLUMBUS MONUMENT.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In commemoration of the discovery of America on October 12, 1492, by Christopher Columbus, the 400th anniversary was celebrated here with all the pomp and display the Metropolitan city is able to command. And that means much, when it is known that the decorations of the buildings alone represented an outlay of over two millions of dollars. The city was transformed with gay colors everywhere from Harlem to the Battery, even the various foreign elements, who talk not yet in English, covering the tenement houses in bunting, U. S. flags intermingling with flags of their own countries.

The celebration commenced Wednesday morning, continuing two days, and the parades, pageants, floats and naval maneuvers were all indescribably grand. A banquet Thursday night closed the jubilee. The auditorium of the Lenox where the feast was held, is an ideal banquet hall.

The guests of honor dined on the stage, which was so draped as to resemble an alcove of the main banquet hall, and in the center of the stage a portrait of Columbus, encircled by the flags of Italy, Spain and the United States.

WASHINGTON ARCH.

Mayor Grant presided, supported on the right by Vice President Morton and Secretary Foster, ex-President Grover Cleveland, Mr. Arnold, president of the Board of Aldermen, Baron Fava, the Italian minister, and Mr. G. The boxes were assigned amongst others to the Spanish minister and suite, Secretary Foster of the Treasury, Secretary Rusk, the French Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Fairchild, Commodore Erben, the Spanish admiral, Hon. Benjamin Wood, the Italian admiral and Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland.

The 800 guests included the Governors of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and South Carolina, General Schofield and many others of prominence. But there was only one empty chair at the table of honor. Chauncey Depew, who was to have acted as toastmaster, was absent. Mayor Grant supplied his place. The mayor proposed the first toast, "The President of the United States," to which Vice-President Morton responded.

Secretary Foster spoke for the "United States," and Governor Flower for the "State of New York."

Rich Find in Georgia.

SAVANNAH, GA.—The excavations of Wrightsville, Liberty county, Sumter James (colored) while digging on his farm found an ancient urn pot, in which were more than three thousand French Spanish silver coins, 130 or more years old. The negroes have nearly gone crazy over the discovery, and parties are digging everywhere.

THE NEGRO VOTERS IN GEORGIA.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Bishop H. M. Turner, of Atlanta, was asked here what incentive the colored people had to support the Democratic party in the late election of that State. He replied that "there was no special incentive as far as the Democratic party was concerned. A large number of the colored people did vote for the re-election of Governor Northen, who had no interest in the Democratic ticket, and indeed, many voted for him alone. Governor Northen was the first Southern Governor, said the Bishop, who had openly spoken out against lynching negroes, and had dared to offer a reward for that class of inhuman brutes who were making our country a hiss and a byword throughout the globe, and inasmuch as the position taken by the Governor had been beneficial of good result, many colored people felt that their votes were due him under the circumstances. This great under is too weak, worthless or mean to put down these midnight mobs who break jails and murder innocent men by hundreds, and if God has put it in the heart of one Christian Democratic Governor to try to stem the torrent of blood and slaughter, he shall have my vote."

Bishop Turner says he still favors African emigration for such of his people as have souls and consciences. He sees no manhood future here for the negro. The colored people will never be respected until they found a nation and intelligently run the same.

GOVERNMENT COTTON REPORT.

The Deterioration Least in Texas and Heaviest in North Carolina.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The statistician of the Department of Agriculture reports a reduction of 34 points in the general percentage of the condition of cotton, from 76.8 in September to 73.3 in October. The deterioration is heaviest in North Carolina, and least in Texas of any of the States of considerable production. Georgia has maintained its condition better than any other Atlantic State. The percentages are: Virginia 71, North Carolina 69, South Carolina 73, Georgia 75, Florida 63, Alabama 69, Mississippi 72, Louisiana 71, Texas 77, Arkansas 74, Tennessee 75.

Since the early part of September and during the last week of the month the rotting of immature bolls in North Carolina and South Carolina. The crop is maturing somewhat better in Georgia, though excess of moisture in the Southern cotton has been injurious. The low condition of Florida cotton in September has been very largely improved by heavy and incessant rainfall, which has delayed picking. The low status of the Alabama, breadth is the result of wet weather insufficient cultivation, disproportionate growth of stalk and fruit, and rotting of young bolls. Some of the more favorable influences in Mississippi give rise to more cheerful reports. Louisiana cotton is very light and unpromising from excessive moisture through the season to September 15, and cool nights since, which discourages expectations of late planters. There is less complaint and discouragement in Texas than in any other State. Areas planted late in Arkansas are very unpromising, though recent favorable weather is rapidly opening the early bolls. Favorable weather has recently succeeded the heavy rains in Tennessee, and bolls are beginning to open. A late and favorable autumn can alone dispel the prevailing discouragement. The boll worm is most frequently mentioned west of the Mississippi. The caterpillar has wrought some injury in the southern belt. Insect ravages will have less influence in reducing the crop than unfavorable weather conditions.

Murderers Lynched.

CAMDEN, ALA.—Four negro boys, William Jackson, John Thomas, Abe Davis and Dave Mason were arrested and confessed to the murder of R. H. Johnson and daughter, in Monroe county, for the purpose of robbery and assault. The murderers were taken from the officers and hanged to the nearest tree, and their bodies were then burned.

TERRORS OF THE OCEAN.

MARINE MONSTERS THAT INFEST THE SEA'S DEPTHS.

Extraordinary Reptile Found in New River Inlet, Florida—Plenty of Great Sea Serpents in the Past.

INCREASED faith in the existence of an unknown marine reptile of vast size is felt since the recent announcement by Professor Holder of the discovery of the actual carcass of such a creature in Florida. According to his account, the Rev. Dr. Gordon of Milwaukee, President of the United States Humane Society, was fishing in New River Inlet, where the flakes of his anchor caught and pulled to the surface the dead body of a snake-like animal forty-two feet long, though lacking both head and tail. It was partly decomposed and the belly was ripped open. Two small flippers were remarked. With the intention to preserve its bones, it was dragged up on shore and left to rot; but most unfortunately a hurricane came, and this invaluable find was swept away by the waves and lost. Nevertheless the record of it confirms the attitude of science in this matter, which has never denied the possible
