THE TRUTH AND INSPIRA TION OF THE BIBLE.

The men who wrote the New Testament were the men who were either with Christ or knew of him ! through those who lived much in the company and were taught of Christ. The Apostles suffered not only the loss of all things, but they suffered martyrdom for the faith that was in them. They were godly, faithful men who saw much of what they told and were inspired of God to write the kecords they prepared of Christ's acts and words, of his life and sufferings. in the New Testament they gave the generations to follow the faithful record of the facts as they occurred, and set forth under the guidance and inspiration of the Holy Spirit the truth as it is in Jeans, It is the emhodiment in living words of the exact tru h. It has in the clearest evidence in itself that it is not man's doctrine, man's own unaided produc tion. It tells the whole truth and nothing out the truth. It tells the had as well as the good. It paints characters faithfully, giving the exact lineaments in clearest colors. It does not glass lives but reveals them. It is lished. If you reject their testime-God using men to write the lives of men and hence it is truth in plainness Coristianity. The words of Christ and d rectness. Peruse the works of philoophers, with all their pomp of biction ow mean, how contentible are they when compared with Scripture! Is it possible that a book at once simple and sublime, should be merely the work of man!' It would be easy to multiply quotations by the dozen from authors and mea of great emis nence, some of them enemies of Christ, of the great superiority of the Bitle over other books.

The birth of the Bible was divine, its mission a blessing, its destiny eternal. God is its breath, its life, and it cannot die. If we had ample space we might detain the read-Business locals will be made to regular ad- with the two evidences of the Bible is inspired, is divine- the external and internal. We know the Bible is authent c and genuine just as we know anything of other books -profane and secular. We know that certain menwrote certain books in the two Testaments just as we know of the authorship of the works of antiquity and all later books. Xenophon says he wrote his Memorabilia, Plutarch says ne wrote his "Lives," Caesar said he wrote his Commentaries, Toucydides says be wrote his History. These All advertisements inserted four books were known to be their respective productions and were circu lated at the time. They are not cred ited to any other writers. The world has accepted them as genuine, as authentic. So with the books, of the two Testaments. But the subject is too full and we cannot go into it. "Search the Scriptures" is the divine command. No man can diligently study the Holy Scriptures for a long time as an honest truth see ker, and look to God in proper for divine illumination and help to understand, without seeing the truth and knowing that they are of God, His own blessed revelation of his will to the world -the one, the only light of the ages. 'The inspiration of the Almighty God." That is what God says, and he is but a "fool" who will question or deny. The excellence of the doctrines is proof of the origin of the Book of books. Take its precepts, its promises, its holy teachings, its majesty of style and its symplicity of style; take all of the many parts and see the strange, wonderful agreement and you have a most powerful plea that they are from Heaven and not of the earth.

The writers of the books tell us that they were inspired of God to do the work. That eyidence is conclusive to a fair, ingenuous mind. These writers, be it remembered, authenticated their mission as authors and teachers by working miracles and in other ways. Thus their infallibility, their inspiration, their complete TIII equipment for the most particular work are fully vindicated and estabnyou impeach their veracity and thus destroy the very foundation of of the Son of God "He is the Messiah, the great Prophet, the infallible l'eacher."
