

Six Great Powers. There are six great powers in Europe: Russia, Germany, France, England, Italy, and Austria. The four eastern continents, Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, and their attendant islands, bearing Japan's, are apparently destined to be entirely theirs. At any rate, they want them. The field is large enough for six ambitious almost as dazzling as the great Napoleon's craze to rule the world. The two continents of North and South America are for the people already there, preserved from further conquest.

Suit for Damages. If the New York lawyers who are prosecuting the suit for damages brought by the heirs of the Italian laborer Constantino Maro, killed in a blasting accident, can establish the facts which they allege they will establish a valid claim for reasonable compensation. Their statement is that this poor Italian immigrant, earning $1.50 a day, put aside 25 cents a day for his own scanty food and sent $300 a year to Italy to support his mother, three sisters and a brother. There is no truer heroism than that of the poor day laborer. So long as such lives are lived by the plain common people—and they are not unfrequent—they furnish a firm support for faith in human nature and for confidence in the future of the human race.

The Red Cross Society. No doubt the Sultan has made as great a concession as he dares in consenting to admit Miss Barton and other members of the Red Cross Society as individuals. In the present heated condition of Moslem fanaticism he might find it dangerous to give official recognition to a Christian society established on an international basis. The Red Cross has been recognized in the Orient and Japan, it is true, but both are essentially more civilized than Turkey.

"It should not be forgotten," says the New York Commercial Advertiser, "that British warships with Krupp guns could demolish Brooklyn and New York from off Sandy Hook." Young men who are thinking of leaving the farm and going to the metropolis to seek their fortunes will do well to heed this.

It is evident that the Japanese are rapidly becoming Caucasianized, so to speak. Not only have they adopted Western methods of business and warfare, but now they are founding a church whose creed "shall embody such truths as they consider agreeable to their taste in religion."

It Took the Ribbon. Dear Sir:—Having used several boxes of your PINK PILLS, I can say that it is the best remedy I have ever found for skin diseases. A friend suffering with Cutaneous and other similar eruptions, had been treated by the best of medical men, but to no purpose. Spring Medicine. Your blood in Spring is almost certain to be full of impurities—the accumulation of the winter months. Bad ventilation of sleeping rooms, impure air in dwellings, factories and shops, overeating, heavy, improper foods, failure of the kidneys and liver properly to do extra work thus thrust upon them, are the prime causes of this condition. It is of the utmost importance that you Purify Your Blood.

Millions take it as their Spring Medicine. Get Hood's, because Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This action will throw out of employment many of the mill hands. The action was taken on the ground that the goods could not be run at a profit in competition with the Southern mills, with cheaper labor and longer hours.

The London Times admits that "there is no particular sanctity in the Schomburgk line." That peripatetic botanist should have rested content with the discovery of the grandest flower in the world and kept out of international politics. In the opinion of some of the London editors every movement in this country is a political dodge. It is true that the revolutionary war made one President and the battle of New Orleans another, but patriotic trigger-pulling had more to do with it than wire-pulling.

COULD NOT BEAR HIS WEIGHT. THE STRANGE AFFLICTION OF LITTLE WILBUR ROBINSON. He Stopped Growing—Limbs Became Useless and He Was Unable to Walk—His Cure Brought About in a Singular Manner. From the Observer, Charlotte, N. C. Hearing that a child near Iron Station, Lincoln County, had been greatly benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, a representative of the Observer went thither to see and ascertain the extent of the benefit that child had received.

Being out on December 5, 1895, to a little country cottage in the pine woods, a mile distant from Iron Station, the reporter saw a bright-faced young woman, a pure Anglo-Saxon type, with light hair and blue eyes standing in the doorway with two plump, rosy cheeked children half hiding behind her dress. Mentioning that he was looking for a family of Robinsons, the woman seemed at first a little suspicious. "You're a stranger in my eye," she said. "I am trying to find a child named Wilbur Robinson, who was greatly benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

The young mother smiled and a pleased look came into her eyes as she said, "Come in," and added, "I guess that's the case," pointing to the younger of the two little boys. It was a humble home, the family being composed of this sturdy farming class, who go to make up one of the strongest and truest types of North Carolina's good people. The husband, Robert O. Robinson, runs the farm 200 acres, but was off to the mill at the time.

The mother, Carrie L. Robinson, told a remarkable story of the child. Her aged, white-haired mother, Mrs. Sarah A. Bandy, sat near and emphasized every word of the daughter. The little boy, Wilbur, who owned the property of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, was a bright, healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father.

Wilbur was born August 8, 1893. He was a stout, healthy boy till he was nearly five months old. He was a stout, healthy boy till he was nearly five months old. He was a stout, healthy boy till he was nearly five months old. He was a stout, healthy boy till he was nearly five months old. He was a stout, healthy boy till he was nearly five months old.

In some way—they do not know how—a pamphlet found its way to the Robinson family. It was a pamphlet about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It was a pamphlet about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It was a pamphlet about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It was a pamphlet about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Old Mrs. Bandy set up a chair for the child, and he sat there for nearly all of one night reading this pamphlet, with all the testimonials it contained. A few days after they sent to one of the two village stores and got two boxes of the pills. This was about the last of November, 1894. Before he had finished taking the first box, the little fellow was able to bear his weight on his feet, and before the second box was all used he could hold a chair before him and push it across the floor.

"I began by giving him a third of a pill at a time, afterward increasing the dose to a half, so they held out a long time," said his mother. "We commenced the second box in January, and he was able to walk in the middle of the month. He was able to walk in the middle of the month. He was able to walk in the middle of the month. He was able to walk in the middle of the month.

"After he once learned to walk," said his mother, "we could hardly keep him in sight of the house, and he was cared for by four boxes, lacking ten pills. Mother says, and always has said, that he was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father.

"You really believe the child's cure is due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?" was asked. "I am really positive," said the mother. "I have the strictest doubt about it." "And the mother's great-grandmother chimed in, 'It is just as sure of it as I am of living. I'll take an oath on the Bible that that is what did it.'"

The neighbors in all the section around the little village of Iron Station know and talk about the remarkable cure of this baby, who might have been a cripple for life had he not even at the age of two years, one month and seventeen days, been enabled to walk for the first time by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. This story seems to the reader like a fabrication, but is told as the child's mother told it to the reporter. In order to show their appreciation, Mrs. Robinson furnished the following testimonial and signed it. (She says she is willing at any time to make sworn affidavit to her statements):

ROSE STATION, LINCOLN COUNTY, N. C., December 3, 1895. My first son, Wilbur Lee, reached unable to walk by the age of two years and ten months. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father. He was a healthy child, and was very much loved by the mother and father.

"Aye! There's the rub!" And that ought to be enough in itself to seal the doom of bar soap. This rubbing with soap may get clothes clean, if you work hard enough, but can't you see how it wears them out?

Follow the directions that come on every package of Pearline, and you'll find that you not only do away with the hard and ruinous work of rubbing—but that you save time, and actually get better results. At every point Pearline is better than soap. But the mere fact that Pearline saves the rubbing—that ought to settle it. BEWARE Peddlers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline."
