Rich Without Money.

Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of men with nothing in their pockets, are rich. A man born with a good stomach, a good heart, and good limbs and a pretty good head-piece is rich. Good bones are better than gold; tough muscles than silver; and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function, are better than houses and lands. It is better than a landed estate to have the right kind of father and mother. Good breeds and bad breeds exist among men as really as among herbs and horses. Education may do much to check evil tendencies or to develop good ones; but it is a great thing to inherit the right proportion of faculties to start with. The man is rich who has a good disposition, who is naturally kind, patient, cheerful, and hopeful and who has a flavor of wit and fun in his composition.

The hardest thing to get on with in this life is a man's own self. A cross, selfish fellow, a desponding and complaining fellow, a timid and care-burdened man—these are all born deformed on the inside. They do not limp, but their thoughts sometimes do.—Clay Manufacturers' Engineer.

Read it in His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkezeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pain in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by Hood & Grantham.

An Object Lesson in Stopping.

One of our friends who isn't noted for being especially careful of a machine was speeding along the other day, when he was held up by two blue-coated guardians of the law. "It's your 'too fast ye are,' says one. "Kape her down ter eight miles er we'll run yer in," said the second.

"But my friends, I wasn't running fast at all—and then you know we have great control of these machines, too. Why, we can stop in our own length." "Gwan wid yer—yer can't pull de wool over our eyes dat way, see!"

"Well I'll tell you what. Just climb up behind here—both of you—and I'll show you how." After much persuading this was accomplished, and they started down the road at a lively rate. Suddenly, and without warning, the operator reversed the engine, and threw on both brakes. It was like hitting a stone wall, and the air seemed filled with blue cloth and policemen.

"Didn't I tell you I could stop her quick?" "Bedad, yer did, and if 'twasn't fer that that sargin' wud ask me what I was be doin' in the automobile, I'd run yer in. Yer can stop all right, but the landin' ov yer passengers is more suddint than illigant. If I get a chance to run yer in for speedin', I'll do it—so kape yer eyes peeled."—Automobile Magazine.

Saves Two From Death.

Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infalible for Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by C. L. Wilson. Trial bottles free.

How to Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over, and if procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale by Hood & Grantham.

Ten Rules of Politeness for Boys.

1. To be polite is to have a kind regard for the feelings and rights of others.
2. Be as polite to your parents, brothers, sisters and schoolmates as you are to strangers.
3. Look people fairly in the eyes when you speak to them or they speak to you.
4. Do not bluntly contradict any one.
5. It is not discourteous to refuse to do wrong.
6. Whispering, laughing, chewing gum or eating at lectures, in school or at places of amusement, is rude and vulgar.
7. Be doubly careful to avoid any rudeness to strangers, such as calling out to them, laughing or making remarks about them. Do not stare at visitors.
8. In passing a pen, pencil, knife or pointer, hand the blunt end toward the one who receives it.
9. When a classmate is reciting do not raise your hand until he has finished.
10. When you pass directly in front of anyone or accidentally annoy him, say: "Excuse me," and never fail to say "Thank you" for the smallest favor. On no account say "Thanks,"—Sacred Heart Reviews.

Call at Hood & Grantham's drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are an elegant physic. They also improve the appetite, strengthen the digestion and regulate the liver and bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect.

Our Changed National Aim.

The supreme court of the United States by a majority of one has declared that the proposed international aims of our government are not what up to a very recent date the great majority of our people had supposed them to be; that the scope of our government under its organic law has not hitherto been properly understood nor its powers enforced to their constitutional limits.

Our highest tribunal has informed us that until we were dragged by the present administration into the business of acquiring territory on the other side of the earth by force and excluding it from participation in our government we did not realize that we might justly indulge in such exercise of our power. Such an extension of the functions of our government, if here to, will necessarily produce a change in the spirit of our people.

In his article on "An Earlier American," which appears in the North American Review for the present month, Mr. W. D. Howells considers this divergence from the original purpose of our government in a very suggestive manner.

He says: "It is very droll, as well as very sad, to reflect that at this very moment, doubtless, the great majority of Americans who have reached their grand climacteric are desolated by the bleak conviction that they are the last of the true Americans; and the worst of it is, they have only too much reason to think so, if the writer may, without sharing their impiety, make an admission that so clearly gives away his epoch. Once in our national consciousness, at least, to the mystification of the unbelieving and impatient world outside, we stood for something different from anything a people had stood for before. Call it universal liberty or instructive justice, or even by the tedious name of humanity, it was something novel and brave and generous, and it differed us from all the monarchies, limited, and unlimited, the conquerors, the oppressors."

"That, in the large way and in the small way, was once supposed to be the meaning of America. If it is no longer her meaning, and if she has become like unto the thrones, principalities and powers which deny the unity of men, then it is up to her younger children to prove that she has gone forward and not backward, or that it is as practical to live in the ideal under the new conditions as under the old."

These are serious words uttered on a solemn and far-reaching question. No court has the power to make decisions which prevent such thoughts from knocking at the door of the national conscience, or allay the apprehensions of men who are deeply concerned for the honor and safety of the country, whose reflections cannot be made to cease and whose convictions cannot be made to cease and whose convictions cannot be stifled by any amount of vainglorious jabber.

We hear constantly brave talk about what we have gained by our new departure, but we cannot shut out the thought disregard the question. What have we lost?
Car of Dynamite Set Off.
While a freight train on the Lackawanna was taking water at Vestal, ten miles west of here at 9:45 o'clock tonight, it was run into from behind by a double-headed wild-cat freight. In the second car from the caboose of the stationary train was a large quantity of dynamite, which was exploded by the impact. Six men are known to have been killed, three others are thought to be in the wreck and a number of others are known to be badly injured. The dead are J. M. Kelly, of Elmira, Theodore Polhemus, of the same place.

The explosion completely demolished four freight cars. Much damage was done by concussion, most of the windows in Vestal and Union being shattered. Binghamton's plate glass fronts did not escape, many of the largest glasses in the centre of the city being broken. The shock was felt at a distance of thirty miles.—Binghamton, N. Y. dispatch, 8th.
