I had taken the first bottle was not only feeling better, but was entirely cured."

Opposed to the Governor.

There are not lacking reputable and more or less influential citizens who take the position that the Governor should not seek to send to the penitentiary at least some of the "honest and good citizens" who have taken part in lynchings, under great provocation and while laboring under the natural indignation and excitement some of these most aggravated and inhuman crimes have provoked. The Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer, for instance says:

"A person who has not lived in a neighborhood where some good woman has been despoiled and perhaps, murdered by a black monster, is not in a position to criticise the summary action of those who knew and loved the victim in ridding the earth of the vile beast who assaulted her. The writer can testify from experience that the nearer one is to the scene of a crime of this sort the less disposition does he feel to leave of the slow process of the courts its avenging, and he can easily conceive how impossible it would be for the neighbors and friends of the injured woman to restrain themselves.

"The negro at McFarlan was executed by as good men as there are in North Carolina and nothing is to be gained by in-quisitorial proceedings by the courts with a view to their punishment."

In Alabama last week a white farmer, of standing in his community, was sentenced to the penitentiary for life, upon being convicted as a participant in the lynching of a negro. The negro was not guilty of rape, however, but had murdered a white man.

It is reported here that a delegation of Anson county people is coming to Raleigh to consult with the Governor and ask him not to offer a reward for the arrest of the participants in the lynching of the negro, Luke Hough, whose criminal assault and attempted murder of Miss Keith was one of the most horrible and revolting crimes. One or two have already had a conference with him.

NIGHT WAS HER TERROR.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas.
Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, Lagrippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00.

son's drug store.

Law Under Which Czolgosz Might Have
Been Tried.

As the following was in type when the president died, we will publish any way to show the law under which Czolgosz would have been tried if the president had lived. It says:

The maximum penalty would be imprisonment for a term not exceeding 10 years, and this might be commuted for good behavior to the extent of three years and six months, leaving the actual imprisonment six years and a half. Moreover, as the assassin is under the age of 30, the trial judge could, in his discretion, send him to the Elmira reformatory instead of to an ordinary state prison. Of course, there is little probability of the latter course being adopted.

The crime having been committed within New York state, the trial will necessarily be held there. There is no federal statute covering such a case.
United States laws provide for punishing crimes committed within territory exclusively owned and controlled by the federal government, but otherwise crimes are punishable only by the state courts of the state within which they are committed, and according to the state laws. This case would be governed by sections 217 and 220 of the penal code, the former of which defines the crime and the latter prescribes the penalty. Section 217 provides as follows:

"Assault in first degree defined.—A person who, with intent to kill a human being, or to commit a felony upon the person or property of the one assaulted, or of another.

"(1.) Assaults another with a loaded firearm, or any other deadly weapon, or by any other means or force likely to produce death; or,

"(2.) Administers to or causes to be administered to or taken by another, poison, or any other destructive or noxious thing, so as to endanger the life of such other;

"Is guilty of assault in the first degree."

By section 220 it is provided that "assault in the first degree is punishable by imprisonment for a term not exceeding 10 years."

Formerly the maximum and minimum punishments were prescribed by this section, but that was changed by the legislature some years ago.

Assuming as is announced in the telegraphic reports, that the assassin is only 28 years old, it would be possible, within the provisions of section 700 of the Penal Code, that he should be sent to the Elmira Reformatory.
That section provides that:

A male between the ages of 16 and 30, convicted of felony, who has not theretofore been convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment in a state prison, may, in the discretion of the trial court, be sentenced to imprisonment in the New York state reformatory at Elmira, to be there confined under the provisions of law relating to that reformatory.

Should he be sent to the Elmira Reformatory the court could not fix the limit or duration of the sentence, under chapter 711 of the acts of 1887, but he could not be imprisoned for a person exceeding the maximum term provided by law for the crime of which he was convicted.

The commutation which prisoners may earn for good conduct is specific in chapter 21 of the laws of 1886, which is still in force. Section 1 of this act provides:

Every convict confined in any state prison or penitentiary in this state on a conviction of a felony or a misdemeanor, whether male or female, where the term or terms equal one year, or who has a term the maximum of which is fixed by law, exclusive of any term which may be imposed by the court or by statute as an alternative to the payment of a fine, or a term of life imprisonment, may earn for himself or herself a commutation or diminution of his or her sentence or sentences as follows—namely, two months for the first year, two months for the second year, four months each for the third and fourth years, and five months for each subsequent year.

ance and disallowance of commutation are formulated by the

A CANNING FACTORY.

CAPACITY 1000 CANS PER DAY.

I buy peaches and tomatoes.
I sell tin cans and pack fruits to order. I use water, steam and syrup of sugar and pack fruits free from adulteration. Bring your peaches to me and I will save you money, labor, time and cost of glass jars. Fruits properly packed in tin cans retain their original flavor. This is lost in glass jars.

Deliver your peaches to me well assorted. "Presses" in boxes to themselves holding one bushel each. "Clearances" in boxes holding one bushel each.

Gather your peaches when just ripe. Let them be uniform in size and ripeness. Such peaches will bring good prices if they have any size.

I shall employ none but neat packers and guarantee satisfaction in prices, cleanliness and quality. You lose no fruits in tin cans. I teach you how to use the same tin can for any number of years. The tin can will not freeze or break and can be filled any number of times during the same season.

All ladies who are interested in canned fruits and catchup are invited to visit the factory.

Factory located near Main Street, East Dunn.

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says F. L.
Taylor, of New Albany, Bradford County, Pa. "I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when editor Ward, of the Laceyville Messenger, suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely rundown with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by Hood

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY DEAD.

HIS LAST WORDS:
"GOD'S WILL NOT OURS BE DONE."

MRS. MCKINLEY BEARS UP WITH WONDERFUL COURAGE UNDER THE AGONIZING ORDEAL. MEMBERS OF THE CABINET TAKE THEIR LAST SAD FAREWELL OF THEIR DYING CHIEF.

At 2:15 o'clock a. m., Friday night, the 13th, the President passed away at the Milburn residence in Buffalo, N. Y. His condition was guarded as extremely serious all day Friday, and Friday evening at 7:30 he fell into a stupor and remained unconscious until his soul was wafted away by the death angel to the God whom he believed and trusted.

The shock came as a mighty thunder bolt to all the American people as great hope was entertained for his recovery based on the bulletins sent out by the physicians. We devote more space to the death on the editorial page.

School Days.

The month of September sounds the call for the return of nearly half a million teachers from vacation to the active duties of the school room. The true teacher will return to his school better equipped for his work than when he turned the key in his door in the early summer. He will enter upon the new year's work with recuperated powers—with a freshened physical life, a more buoyant spirit, a quickened professional enthusiasm, a more comprehensive view of his work, a mind brightened with new ideas. Not all teachers will return to their school rooms thus enhanced in value to their communities. Alas, too many will return reluctantly to begin the term on the dead level of former years. Such teachers have not lived up to their vacation opportunities, and it is easy to prophesy that the high water mark in their professional career has been reached.

School people are far more favored with vacation opportunities than the average business or professional man who feels that to leave his post of duty for long means financial loss. If long vacations are a good thing for mind and body then the teacher certainly has great advantages in this respect. Long release from active duty gives large opportunities for travel, recreation and for professional and cultural improvement.

We trust that every reader has used the vacation time for getting out into field and forest to grow in closer touch and sympathy with the world of nature; that he has been far enough away from the scenes of his labors to obtain new views of the world and its people; that he has taken a careful inventory of his mental and professional equipment, noting the empty shelves in his storeroom; that he has taken the time to thoroughly digest some great book; that he has spent a few weeks at some summer school or institute, where he has obtained higher ideas of his profession and a better comprehension of the science and art involved in his important work.

A sorry professional figure is the teacher who, like the school room clock, when the last day of the school year closes stops every wheel for the entire summer at the risk of endangering future usefulness by accumulations of dust and rust. Vacation time is not intended for one to stop as the clock stops. It is a time for diverting one's activities freed from the responsibilities and burden of active professional service.

A COMMUNICATION.

MR. EDITOR—allow me to speak a few words in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I suffered for three years with the bronchitis and could not sleep at nights. I tried several doctors and various patent medicines, but could get nothing to give me any relief until my wife got a bottle of this valuable medicine, which has completely relieved me.—W. S. BROCKMAN, Bagnell, Mo. This remedy is for sale by Hood & Grantham.

A Fireman's Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached, every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa.
