Albemarle Observer,
Edenton, N. C.,
Dear Mr. Story:

The Confederate Monument Organization wishes to thank you sincerely for the glowing account you so quickly published concerning our unveiling last Thursday, the 8th. We hardly expected it quite so early. You know, Mr. Editor, "One good turn deserves another," so we beg you to allow us enough space this week in your valuable publication to thank each and every person who extended a helping hand in the direction of making this event the success it was. And we wish to publish a few facts in connection with the work.

We would love to be corrected if any names have been omitted from these lists from the various townships throughout the county. We will publish such additional ones in another communication should they come to our notice. We do, indeed, appreciate every aid, coming from whatever source, both from a material standpoint and also the many good wishes, kind words and favorable criticisms which we have constantly received. This monument belongs first to our brave Confederate Veterans and then to the county at large. While we have been the prime factor in this movement, we do not claim to have built it alone and in order to give due credit to each donor, we propose, in the near future to publish a complete list of such names with amounts contributed.

We now desire to make special mention of and to thank publicly the following named persons who so willingly came to our rescue in making preparations for the great day: Roy C. Cabanis, W. J. Deans, Bro. Crutchfield, Bro. Fisher, Lycurgus Hofer, O. G. Ellis, Jacob Blanchard, C. R. Hinton, J. P. Blanchard, J. R. Parker, J. E. Rea, Q. H. A Balking Boat Party.

Last Sunday afternoon a party of young people went out across the sound, expecting to meet Mr. J. O. Alderman at Avoca. On the way the gas engine refused to work and the party floated around on the sound for one or two hours. They finally succeeded in getting the engine started and reached Edenton about nine o'clock, but did not bring Mr. Alderman, he having given up hope of seeing them and gone back. Those who enjoyed (?) this outing were, Misses Viola and Lucy Alderman, Miss Beulah Hedrick, Miss Daphney Carraway, Miss Mary Williams, Messrs. George Goodwin, Carey Bunch and Prof. Dry of Cary, N. C. While floating around on the sound Prof. Dry became sea sick, thus arousing the sympathy as well as the amusement of the party.
