COUNTY SCHOOLS TO RUN FULL 8 MONTHS

County Superintendent Says Teachers Are Most Loyal People In World

"Transylvania schools will be operated eight months," according to a statement made by Professor J. B. Jones, county superintendent, Monday morning.

Schools of the county are scheduled to close on May 3, and plans are being made for a large number of graduates. It is on account of the large number of high school pupils who will graduate, and the further fact that many of the other grade pupils would have to take another year's work in order to complete grades, that the school head is positive in his assertion that the schools will be operated for the full eight months term.

Professor Jones states that he feels no fear of his staff of teachers quitting on account of the shortage of funds, and at the same time expresses the hope that there will be sufficient money on hand to meet all obligations. However, Mr. Jones pointed out, as was the case last year, the teachers failed to get their money on time and the schools went on just the same, with final payment of the last month's salaries being paid in February of this year.

"We have one of the best sets of teachers in any county, anywhere," Mr. Jones said, in discussing the force under his supervision, "and these folks think a lot more of their pupils' advancement than they do of getting their pay checks promptly." List of graduates are being made up in both Rosman and Brevard high schools and will be ready for publication within a few days.

Banks Opening In N. C. As Conditions Improve

Ninety-three banks in North Carolina had been ordered re-opened Wednesday by Guernsey P. Hood, state bank commissioner.

It was emphasized by Mr. Hood in a statement made public Wednesday that the list was incomplete and that because a bank was not included in the list announced Tuesday and Wednesday should not be taken as a reflection on its soundness or solvency. New names were being added to the list during the day Wednesday, which will be announced today.

Application for opening of the Transylvania Trust company was forwarded to Commissioner Hood on Monday of this week, and permission to open is expected to be had momentarily, possibly Thursday or Friday.

The delay in opening of some of the banks is caused by the fact that the applications are being taken up as received in the office of the state banking department, each bank being checked individually.

No restrictions are being placed on the state banks opening, other than those imposed by the federal government on hoarding and business involving gold and gold certificates. It is expected that a large amount of gold and gold certificates will be placed in the local bank immediately upon its opening, as the penalty for hoarding gold and gold certificates is very stringent.

With reference to hoarding of gold or currency, the new federal banking law provides that "whoever willfully violates any of the provisions of this sub-section, or any license, order or regulation issued thereunder shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000" or imprisonment "for not more than ten years, or both; and any officer, director or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation shall be punished by like fine, imprisonment, or both."

The road in question is located southeast of Brevard, beginning at the end of Maple street and terminates in the Island Ford road. Petition was presented several months ago by residents of the section served by this road, and failing to get the action asked for, Representative Galloway is seeking legislative power in the matter.

The bill follows:

ROSMAN BOARD CUTS GOVERNMENT COSTS

ROSMAN, March 15—The most drastic step since the incorporation of this town has been taken by the mayor and board of aldermen, cutting salaries and expenses to the bottom and even below.

Order has been passed by the official board cutting pay of the town policeman from $50 per month to $35 per month, while the mayor and board of aldermen slashed their own pay to exactly nothing, from $12 per year.

This step was necessary, Mayor A. M. White stated to a representative of The Times, as a means of meeting conditions as they exist today and further, that it was the opinion of the officials that other governmental units of the country could take like steps, though probably not so drastic as that taken by his board.

All other expenses of the town have also been cut by the board, work having been stopped on the streets only in cases of payment of fines, using the town truck curtailed, and a general practice of economy invoked.

R. M. Collins, A. M. Sisk and G. H. Woodard comprise the board of aldermen, with A. M. White mayor and W. N. Straup, policeman.

PEOPLE RESPONDING TO WELFARE PLANS

Farmers of County Assisting In Carrying Out Relief Program Underway

Great response is being made to the appeal for assistance in carrying out the gardening plans of the Welfare Association, farmers in the different communities cooperating in the movement.

Work is being given to people in the communities by many farmers, paying for the labor in needed seeds and supplies, and giving horse labor in return for day labor, in order that these people who do not have horses can get their ground prepared.

Workers in each of the communities report that the best people of the various sections are doing all they can to boost the movement to make the people self-supporting, the workers who are assisting in the movement being highly elated over the response made for help.

Seed and in some cases, fertilizer, will be furnished to those people who are unable to pay for same, and work given them in order to take care of the bill. These seeds, however, are limited and great care is being exercised in placing them.

Requirements also make it compulsory that those people who are to receive help from the R. F. C. funds, through which the seed are to be furnished, must show an aptitude for work, and really "stay on the job."

Plans for the individual gardens are under supervision of the Agricultural Council of the Welfare Association, with W. L. Aiken as Chairman, Professor Julian Glazener and Professor John Corbin, together with Welfare Officer W. A. Wilson.
