A WORTHWHILE STATE DEPARTMENT.

A place of interest, at least one that should be of interest to every North Carolinian who has a streak of generosity in his make-up, is the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation at Raleigh, under supervision of that prince of men, H. L. Stanton.

Very few people, probably less than one-half of one percent in the state, know that there is such a department, and many of those who have heard some mention of it have passed it on with a remark—"Oh, just something else to give another man a job"—which is just as wrong as could possibly be.

The Department of Vocational Rehabilitation is doing more real, lasting, honest to goodness worthwhile work than any department of the state's great system of government. Through this department the misfits of life, those young boys and girls who ordinarily would be doomed to a life of near-pauperism on account of physical deformity, and older people too, for that matter, who have met with accident for some reason are incapacitated physically and unable to fit themselves for earning a livelihood, are given training that is best suited to their particular case and station in life and in a few years are self-respecting citizens and worthwhile parts of their community.

Actual cases, records of dates, names and pictures may be seen in Supervisor Stanton's office that will convince the most skeptical taxpayer that at least here is one department in the vast army of state-maintained institutions that is earning its board and keep."

WE LIKE PEACE BUT PREFER TO HAVE SECURITY

With conditions in Europe as they are, nations on high tension no one knowing what the next step may be, we have no hesitancy in advocating a "security peace" for the United States.

With battleship strength of the United States far below that of Great Britain and Italy, we see no reason why it would not be a wise and "security peace" measure to use some of the public works money and some of the unemployment relief funds to bring our naval and air strength up to that of our neighbors.

SPEND A QUARTER FOR FOOTBALL.

We hope that there will not be the usual crowd of red hot fans at the football game Friday afternoon, all ready and willing to root to the limit, but afraid to invest a quarter in expense of running the team.

It must be remembered that to equip and maintain a team such as Brevard is now putting out takes a certain amount of cash, and further that no team is willing to come from as far as Franklin without some compensation. Be it said to his credit, Coach Tilson is giving his time with no reward other than to put out a winning team, one that the community can well be proud of, and the very least fans can do is to lend a little of the support that helps pay bills.

Come on to the football game Friday afternoon, and bring a quarter—sure you will.

SIGN YOUR NAME PLEASE

Several articles of interesting nature have been received by The Times this week and are being left out of the paper, due to the fact that there was no name signed, or that the writer requested that name be omitted.

It is against rules of this paper to publish an article unless the name of the writer is printed along with the item. We deem it advisable to adhere strictly to this rule, and believe that any person who writes for the press should be willing to let the readers know by whom the article is written.

Again, we are always glad to publish any article of interest, whether it concurs with our way of thinking or no, but insist upon name of the writer being published along with the item.

FRANKLIN NOT BY ITSELF.

From The Franklin Press the following item is taken:

"Many years ago a congressional appropriation was obtained to build a postoffice in Franklin; but the building never materialized, we have been told, because of the lack of local cooperation."

How true that situation is in many communities in this state. Too often a community would progress, really amount to something were it not for some few greedy or cantankerous citizens who for one reason or another—minor reasons when the entire community is considered—hold up the whole thing.

Without having any first hand knowledge of the Franklin situation, bet you a brass dollar that some guy gummed up the whole machinery because the new postoffice would give the rival faction, either Democratic or Republican, a little more prestige, and before the few opposing would allow the town to have a new postoffice building that would help the other bunch more than it would them they knocked the whole thing for a row of rotten stumps.

It was ever thus...community after community has suffered great loss by the jealousies and petty, underhanded tricks of some fellows who "will have it like we want it or not have it at all."

THE TRUTH ABOUT ENFORCEMENT

Editor The Times:

It has been frequently stated in the press that it is impossible to enforce the prohibition laws because neither juries nor the courts will convict those who violate them. Is this true?

NO. A compilation of figures based upon the Attorney General's annual report for 1931 in Exhibit 2 shows that in prohibition cases, convictions were returned in 88.8 percent; in postal offenses, 79.3 percent; in banking and finance offenses, 69.1 percent; for violation of internal revenue laws, 61.4 percent. (By W. G. Calderwood).

Notwithstanding, of all prisoners in state and federal prisons, only five and one-half percent are for violation of prohibition laws.

Authorities on crime state that the average criminal law is enforced 55 per cent; the prohibition law, 70 per cent.

Are more boys and girls among the criminals since the 18th amendment was adopted? No. Before prohibition, 19.7 per cent of the New York prisoners were 19 years of age and under; since, only 7.7 per cent, a decrease of 60 per cent.

In England, under legalized liquor, crime of young criminals has increased 300 per cent in London since the World War.

Be sensible; be informed. To stop a few leaks, should the prohibition laws be torn down, leaving no dam to protect our homes from the flood waters of the liquor traffic?
