

Pisgah Forest Highway Work To Start At An Early Date

Surveyors Ordered To Begin
Immediately On Preliminary Location

BENNET'S GAP ROUTING PROBABLY BE FOLLOWED

Local Labor To Be Used On Project—Boylston Road
Next On Program

First steps in rebuilding the Pisgah National Forest highway, route 284, were taken last Friday when R. G. Browning, senior locating engineer of the State Highway and Public Works Commission together with National Forest officials and P. L. Threlkeld, in charge of maintenance in this district went over the several possible routes for location of 284.

Engineer Browning stated that locating engineers would be placed on the 284 job immediately, establishing location of this important route, and in all probability the route to be decided upon will be the Bennet's Gap route now in use.

Following completion of the survey on 284, Mr. Browning said the same engineering crew would be placed on No. 280, known as the Boylston road, for relocation of this route.

Mr. Threlkeld, together with a number of interested citizens of the community, have been working for months to get started on the Pisgah Mountain road and the news that actual work is to start immediately will be received with gladness here.

Construction of the two highways, and more particularly the Pisgah road, is expected to be gotten under way within the very near future. M. A. Mattoon, forest supervisor to draw plans for this and other work that is expected to employ around 1800 men. Local labor will be used in the work, according to statement made last week by T. W. Alexander, district inspector of C. C. C. camps for the U. S. Forest service.

CHEAP ELECTION IS HELD IN NOVEMBER

Transylvania county's cheapest election in years and years was held here on November 7th, the wet-dry contest held here costing only $533.50.

This amount includes all costs in connection with the election supplies, ballots, pay for registrars, judges and other workers.

It is pointed out by Chairman Ralph Lyday that a great saving was made in registration, books only being open two days, and that the number of officials at the polling places were less than usual. However, conservative estimates had placed the cost at around $800 or $1000, and the remarkably low figure turned in by Mr. Lyday bespeaks of his watching closely every penny.

ROLL CALL PASSES ONE HUNDRED MARK

Believed That 200 Will Be Enrolled In County By End of Week

Jerry Jerome, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call, is elated over the fine response given by citizens of the community to the work this year, 104 memberships reported on Tuesday with still a large number of canvassers to be heard from.

Four firms in Brevard have registered one hundred percent, Freeman Hayes Service Station, Brevard Insurance Agency, Carl McCrary Filling station, and the Transylvania Trust company. Effort is being made to have at least six "one hundred percent" firms employing two or more.

Goal for 1934 is set at 200, and Chairman Jerome is of the belief that this quota will be reached. Ten employees of the Transylvania Tanning company have already pledged with several others promising during the week. Nine from the Gloucester Lumber company at Rosman swelled the tide and still more promised there. All teachers are expected to report within the next few days, the 104 memberships reported not embracing the teacher load that is always fine.

Reason for the fine response is due in great way to the work that has been done in the county during the past year by the national organization, nearly ten thousand dollars in food and clothing having been distributed through the agency, according to estimate of Jos. S. Silversteen, chairman of the Transylvania chapter.

"We have already surpassed normal memberships," Mr. Jerome said Tuesday afternoon, "but want to stop only after we have passed the two hundred mark." The roll call will continue at least through this week, with all canvassers expected to report by Thanksgiving day.

PLUMMER'S SALE GOING OVER IN EXCELLENT WAY

R. H. Plummer & company, staging their "Heart of the Season Sale," report the greatest day's business on Saturday of last week since opening of the store here over a year ago.

The store was crowded most of the day Saturday, Bob Plummer, manager, stating that more customers were in his store on that day than any two days in the past year. Six turkeys to be sold at five cents each on the day before Thanksgiving, and nine pieces of furniture to be sold on Saturday before Christmas, as advertised in last week's Times are causes for much comment. The sale will continue for another month.

SEWING ROOM ASKS FOR OLD CLOTHING

Garments For Small Children
Can Be Made From Cast-Off Wearables

In order that the sewing room that has been established in Brevard may render a greater service to the community, request is being made that all citizens of the county who have old clothes that can be repaired or renovated and still give service, bring or send them to the sewing room in the J. B. Pickolsimer building on Main street.

Request is made that such garments as men's coats, overcoats, trousers, shirts, and overalls that can be patched or that can be cut up and pieces salvaged for remaking into smaller garments be brought in. Likewise, dresses or ladies' wearing apparel that can be salvaged in whole or in part are asked for.

Stress is laid that in cases where the clothes are not cleaned, that the workers at the sewing room can clean them.

Garments made from such materials will be given to children of needy families of the county, and will serve in many instances as practically the only clothing some children will have.

"Shop early and mail early" is advice being handed patrons of Brevard postoffice by T. Brevard College Given O. K. By Conference of Methodist Church

Merger of Weaver and Rutherford colleges, with Brevard as site of the merged institution was given official okeh by the Methodist conference meeting in Charlotte last week.

In adopting a committee report recommending the college merger, a letter was read from E. M. Cole, Charlotte business man who said he was waiving any claim against Rutherford College and the conference for a $10,000 debt, and a resolution was adopted by the conference thanking him. This was considered as one obstacle to locating the college here.

Plans of the church conference are to have the junior college in operation for the fall term of 1934, with around 200 or more students enrolled.

Site for the college, the Brevard Institute property, was donated by

Eight Projects Submitted By District Engineer For Board's Approval

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICE WILL HAVE FULL CHARGE

Work To Start At Once With Local Labor—Stone To Be Widely Used

Practically every section of the county will be directly benefited by the road building program that will be undertaken by the Civil Works Administration, eight projects having already been submitted for approval by P. L. Threlkeld, state highway district engineer.

Work on part of the projects is expected to be gotten under way not later than Monday of next week, with probability that they will all be under way by December first.

The projects submitted by the local highway official include:

Five miles from Route No. 284 near Rockbrook Camp in easterly direction to Island Ford bridge through Highway No. 28 for surface with crushed stone or gravel.

Widening and surfacing with old field stone and gravel 5.5 miles of road from Quebec station toward Silversteen school house.

Surfacing with crushed stone 6 miles road from Route 28 south on Bohaney Road toward Whitewater river.

Resurfacing and surfacing approximately 5 miles from Davidson River Station east by Everett Farm and out Eagle Nest Road to Little River road.

From Cox store on Route No. 284 out Reasonover Lake road surfacing with shale or stone about 4.5 miles.

From Gloucester Bridge at end of Jackson county line in Tennessee surfacing west to Transylvania Gap—about 8 miles widening and grading.

From route No. 283 near Rosman out East Fork road approximately 6 miles widening.

From route No. 28 at Blantyre west across to No. 280 via Baptist church 3.5 miles.

The work will be done under supervision of the state highway department, all labor to be furnished by the Civil Works Administration, using local men in all instances.

Mr. Threlkeld states that there will probably be other projects submitted to the state department of the Civil Works Administration, these eight being submitted in order to get work started at the earliest possible time, both the state highway department and the state Civil Works Administration urging that his office submit at once several projects that could be gotten onto at once. The projects were made up last Thursday.

Mr. Price is expected to be appointed within the next few days and be sworn in to succeed Brownlow Jackson of Hendersonville, Republican incumbent, who some time ago resigned, effective December first. It is expected that the office of marshal will be moved from Asheville to Charlotte.

Rev. J. N. Hall To Serve Another Year As Pastor
of Rosman Circuit

The Rev. J. H. West, pastor of Brevard Methodist church for the past four years, was returned for another year by the Methodist conference held at Charlotte last week, and the Rev. J. N. Hall, pastor of Rosman circuit for the past year, is also returned for another year. Both pastors have made numerous friends since coming to this county.

The Brevard and Rosman churches were transferred from the Asheville district to the Waynesville district, over which the Rev. L. B. Hayes of Waynesville is presiding elder. The Rev. Walter B. West, for several years pastor of Hendersonville Methodist church, and well known in Brevard, was assigned as presiding elder of the Asheville district.

The Rev. Joe P. Mason, well known Transylvania county man, who entered the ministry a few years ago, was returned to the Sandy circuit in Buncombe and Madison counties.

While it is a generally accepted custom that Methodist pastors are transferred at the end of a four year period, the Rev. Mr. West was returned to Brevard by Bishop Mounzon in recognition of his work here in connection with establishing the Brevard College. The Brevard pastor has made many friends here during the past four years who will be delighted at his return for another year.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN SELECTS COMMITTEE

Chairman W. L. Aiken has appointed an intelligence committee to make up a report to be submitted at a meeting of citizens of Transylvania, Henderson and Buncombe counties to be held in Hendersonville within the next few weeks in regard to the proposed French Broad dam.

Duties of the committee appointed, as explained at a previous meeting held in Hendersonville, are to find basic facts in regard to the Tennessee Valley program, and submit them to the mass meeting which is to be called in Hendersonville. Committees from other counties are likewise instructed to do the same, so that an intelligent discussion of the matter can be held at the next meeting of the group.

Those appointed by Chairman Aiken include: E. Carl Allison, George Maxwell, Mayor J. C. Wike, Ralph H. Ramsey, Jr., A. H. Harris. Chairman Aiken, while stating that he is glad to appoint a committee to work up data in regard to the proposed dam, he wanted it distinctly and emphatically understood that he was against building such a monstrosity and could see nothing good for Transylvania county in the proposed dam.

Mayor Wike is working on a plan that he hopes to submit to the Tennessee Valley Authority within the next few weeks that will eliminate the high dam at Bent Creek as a necessity, giving more water and greater power facilities at less cost and coverage of land by water.

B. Y. P. U. MEET AT PISGAH ON SUNDAY

Over 100 representatives of three churches of the county attended the district B. Y. P. U. meeting held at Pisgah Forest Baptist church Sunday afternoon, and enjoyed an interesting and instructive program in keeping with young peoples' work of the church.

Devotionals were in charge of Little River intermediates, this being one of the most enjoyable parts of the program. A demonstration program was given by members of the Pisgah Forest intermediate group, with the theme centered around the origin of old hymns.

The Rev. Paul Hartsell, pastor of Brevard Baptist church, made the address of the day, talking on the Baptist "Enrollment Campaign."

POLICEMEN BUST UP HOME BREW PARTY

Freeman and Morris Uninvited,
But Have Delightful
Time Anyway

Chief Bert Freeman and Policeman Church Morris were uninvited guests at a home brew party on Saturday night, going on the request of several people who reside in the vicinity where the party was supposed to be held and came off with all the refreshments of moist nature, leaving only five huge pound cakes and half bushel or so of small cakes for later guests.

The party was presumably to start at ten, so the "law" arrived early in order to not get left in the "delightful" refreshments that the host and hostess were alleged by neighbors to be serving to town folk and CCC boys with more or less regularity during the previous week-ends.

Arriving at the "tasty" if not artistically arranged party site, they knocked on the door and asked for admittance into the ensuite party rooms, further requesting privilege to pay their respects to their unwilling host.

Madame Hostess told the early arriving guests that the Host was in the bath room at the time and could not be seen. Unskilled in the ways of such elite affairs, "the law" sauntered with more or less heavy steps to the bathroom, but were foiled in gurgling of water and the faint odor of the stuff that has been flouted about by a Chicago newspaper of recent date, being their only find in the bathroom, plus of course, glass receptacles which the seemingly inadequate sewer system of the Town of Brevard could not be induced to carry off.

Inspection of the party rooms, however, led to the finding of around 25 bottles of the "Brevard famed"
