

BROWN CHILD HURT IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

Rosman School Pupil Struck By Truck Driven By Joe Johnson

Nellie Brown, ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown of the Cherryfield section, is reported to be resting fairly well at Lyday Memorial hospital, where she was carried last Friday afternoon after being struck by a truck driven by Joe Johnson, of Brevard.

According to information given by Aston Heath of Brevard, driver of a Rosman school bus on which the child was riding just prior to the accident, the truck driven by Mr. Johnson struck the child just after she had alighted from the school bus, breaking one arm at the shoulder, and otherwise bruising and cutting her about the face and body.

Mr. Heath stated that his bus was in full view of the oncoming truck and that as an added precaution he had put up his "stop" board. Mr. Heath said that the truck stopped within thirty to forty yards of the school bus after it had struck the child and passed.

Warrant was sworn out for arrest of the truck driver by Professor C. C. Bush, he stating that he felt it his duty to take this step. Johnson was charged with reckless driving and violation of the school bus law. Preliminary hearing will be held on February 12 before Henry Erwin, Justice of the peace.

Professor Bush called attention, when seen by a representative of The Times, to the fact that the state law specifically sets out that any auto or truck must stop at a minimum of fifty feet of any school bus leading or unloading school children, and that a minimum fine of $50 is called for in the law for violations.

All school buses of the local county system are painted an orange color in order to more easily identify them.

HIGHWAY GROUP TO MEET IN BALTIMORE

Much local interest is manifest in the scenic highway group meetings to be held in Raleigh and Baltimore, Md. within the next few days at which time plans for routing of the park-to-park route will be discussed and probably decided.

Tennessee favors the roadway entering the Smoky Mountains park at Gatlinburg, which would leave this section practically out of benefits. A group of South Carolina, Georgia and Hendersonville men are seeking to have the route located by way of Caesar's Head and Highland, while majority of the Western North Carolina people are working for the route to come by way of Biltmore and through Pisgah National Forest. This last named route would bring the scenic highway within twelve miles of Brevard.

Supreme Court Declares Bank Offset Bill Unconstitutional; Is Disappointing

The bank offset bill was declared unconstitutional in a decree handed down by the state Supreme court last week, thus ending all probability of depositors in the closed Brevard bank from selling their deposits to people who owe the bank.

The law was sponsored in the last session of the General Assembly by Representative W. A. Sullivan of Asheville, being copied after a similar bill introduced some weeks prior by Representative Wallace Galloway of Transylvania and provided that a depositor in closed banks in certain counties of North Carolina could sell their deposits to people who owed the bank money, the last part to be given credit in full on his obligations. The bill was fought by the state banking commissioner from its start, and was only passed after a hard fight in the assembly.

There is some talk here and in Asheville of taking the matter to the United States Supreme court, but it is not known at this time whether this can be done.

Following is copy of the bill introduced by Representative Galloway, which, in effect, is the same as that introduced by Sullivan, and which was declared unconstitutional last week:

WHEREAS, there are many thousands of citizens of North Carolina, who had deposits in the several banks of North Carolina, that are now closed, and

WHEREAS, many of these banks,

ALL-TRANSYLVANIA COAT IS SEEN HERE

George Simpson is the justly proud owner of a real Transylvania county coat, the material and work that has gone to make up the fine piece of wearing apparel being "All-Transylvania."

The coat is made of buckskin, five fine deer having given up each a portion of their covering for the making of each of which were killed in this county. The skins were beautifully tanned at the Transylvania Tanning company, and the cutting and sewing done by Mr. Simpson's mother.

While the idea could not be carried out on an extensive basis, due to shortage of like material in the county, the coat is a really worthwhile article.
