Flax Grows Well In County Says Resident

Mrs. A. E. English of the Boylston section says that she now has some linen towels that were made from Transylvania county flax.

Mrs. England says that the towels were made years ago from flax which she and her mother gathered from the farm of her uncle, Ephraim Orr, who had a farm just across the river from Pisgah Forest.

The texture of the towels which Mrs. England has is very fine, and she is of the opinion that Transylvania flax will be ideal for use in the manufacture of fine cigarette paper such as the Ecusta Paper Corporation plants to produce in its Pisgah Forest plant.

Decries Stealing of Flowers By Vandals From Burial Grounds

Editor The Times: We have been taught to believe that there is "Honor Among Thieves." And I still like to feel there is, but what little honor might have been among some of the thieves in this section has evidently "Gone With The Wind" so to speak.

It is a rather difficult task to keep potted plants, shrubbery or flowers growing in our cemetery due to the very lowest type of thievery. If this low thief whose principles are far below that of the common run of street canine, will get in touch with me the next time he, she or they are inclined to steal flowers or potted plants from the lots in Gillespie cemetery I will personally call the green house and have such flowers as they are tempted to steal delivered to their house at no expense to them whatever.

Won't you please revive the honor that should exist among such thieves as you and get in touch with me for your flowers hereafter. I will appreciate it an awful lot, and guarantee safe and sound delivery. L. H. Loftis.

Upstairs trim-paint over the Smith Furniture store also makes for improved appearance.
