The enrollment of the camp will include Girl Scouts from Asheville, Charlotte and Greenville, S. C. Funeral Services for Mrs. Cray Held Here

Funeral services were held here Monday afternoon for Mrs. W. O. Cray, of Charlotte, who died late Saturday afternoon from effects of a gunshot wound which the former popular Brevard girl inflicted herself.

The rites were held from the home of the unfortunate girl's mother, Mrs. W. H. Harris on West Main street, with the Rev. J. H. Brendall, pastor of Brevard Methodist church and the Rev. C. M. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church in charge. Interment was made in Oak Grove cemetery, where banks of flowers encircled the grave. Friends from many sections were in attendance at the service.

Mrs. Cray had been in ill health for a number of months, and this is thought to have been the reason for her irrational act. There was no one in the house at the time of her death.

Surviving are the husband, and one daughter, Mary Harris Cray, and the mother, Mrs. W. H. Harris. Funeral arrangements were by Moore and Trantham.

Ball Game Saturday

Liquor Election Not Likely Be Called In Transylvania

Question of whether there will be an election on liquor stores in Transylvania county in the near future may be definitely answered "NO," it has been found by a check-up by The Times.

The question was brought to the forefront last week when announcement was made from Haywood county that petitions were being circulated there for an ABC store election.

August 6 has been set as date for an election on the question in Catawba county, which will be the most western county to vote on the county option plan since the 1937 legislature set up the machinery.

It is generally conceded that Transylvania county would vote overwhelmingly at this time, should an election be called for. Petitions requesting an election would have to be bona fide, and carry full number of required eligible voters, inasmuch as the county com-

Red Cross Camp Enrollees Surpass 1937 High Mark

Fifteenth annual session of the National Aquatic school of the American Red Cross opened at Camp Carolina Sunday with an attendance of 282, to break by a few the record of last year, which was the highest ever to be recorded in a school of its kind.

Director Ramone S. Eaton said Wednesday that he had been forced to turn down a number of applications this year, and that he believed the enrollment could have easily passed 300 if facilities had been available.

A faculty composed of leaders in first aid, safety, and water front activities from many sections of Eastern America are teaching the various phases of class work. The sessions will continue through Wednesday of next week.

Included on the faculty list are such notable figures as Marshall Wayne of Miami, Olympic diving champion, who has just completed a tour of the country; William Merriam, University of Pennsylvania swimming coach; Al

Gordon of Ft. Lauderdale, who has turned out such stars as Katherine Rawls; Charles Russell of Ft. Myers, who has just completed a marine life "spotlight" for Grantland Rice; and others who are leaders in various fields.

Miss Evelyn Rawls of Ft. Lauderdale is taking first year course at the school. Her sister, Katherine, was a student here for several years under Al Gordon, her instructor.

Director Eaton said Wednesday that it would be impossible to stake public water pageant this year, due to the lack of room at the lake front to properly accommodate the large number that has been increasing from year to year. Mr. Eaton said that safety liability was too great unless the pageant could be staged in daylight, which would ruin its effectiveness.

From three to five thousand people have been in attendance at the two previous pageants given by the Red Cross, and accommodations are only available for around two thousand.

LOUIS - SCHMELING BOUT WEDNESDAY TO DECIDE CHAMP

German Boxer Will Try Colored Title Holder at Yankee Stadium

All radios will be tuned in on the Louis-Schmeling fight Wednesday night of next week, June 22, when the big blond German again goes in to take a decision from the young negro title holder of the world championship.

Two years ago in Brevard, outdoor broadcasts were held and crowds went wild as Schmeling pounded the negro into defeat, and while betting odds in the North are 8 to 5 against the German, local fight fans are pointing out that Schmeling has a big psychological advantage over his opponent, and that he will go into the ring already ahead.

The bout is slated to start at 9 o'clock, and will be broadcast over the blue and red networks of the National Broadcasting company direct from Yankee Stadium in New York City.

WFBC, Greenville, WUNC, Asheville, and WBT, Charlotte, will all carry the fight program, which should be received well in this section from one of the three stations.

Champion Louis is now in training at Pompton Lakes, New Jersey, and Schmeling is taking his workouts at Speculator, New York. Sports editors over the country are speculative as to the outcome of the fight.

Jones is pastor of the church, and appropriately selected as his sermon text for the first service in the near-new edifice, "Why the Church."

The side camp which has been in operation at Sunburst will be discontinued, and the men brought to the John Rock model camp. Work which has been started near Sunburst will be continued with ERA workers, Mr. Squires said.

Mrs. Dermid Improving After Serious Accident

Dermid, who suffered serious injuries in an automobile accident in Hendersonville Friday afternoon, was reported Wednesday afternoon to be considerably improved at Patton Memorial hospital in Hendersonville, where she has been confined since the wreck. Hope is now entertained for her recovery, it was stated at the hospital, though for several days her life was despaired of.

Mrs. Dermid was returning to Brevard from Kingsport, Tenn., with her daughter, Mrs. Pete Mallory, J. C. Mallory and Mary and Robert Dermid, when the automobile in which they were riding collided with another car at the intersection of Sixth avenue, West, and Fleming street, in Hendersonville. Fred Richardson of Louisiana, was driving the other machine, it was said. Mrs. Dermid was the only occupant seriously injured, suffering a fractured pelvis and rib and severe shock.

We have honored Mother's Day, paid our respects to the June brides, congratulated the June graduates, and now how about handing a big bouquet of spring flowers to the husband of the mother and the father of the June bride and graduate? A tribute to the fellow who pays the grocer, the baker, the land lord, the doctor and so on. Our hat is off to that fellow you go to for help—and get it. To the chap who did a bit of prancing when you were first making your entrance into this home and county, and who has been kept busy prancing ever since seeing to shoes and soap, food and fancies—FATHER.

Second Democrat Primary Called Off By Kilpatrick

There will be no second primary in the county, according to statement made by R. P. Kilpatrick, second high man in the tax collector's race.

Mr. Kilpatrick, who received 756 votes in the June 4th primary against 915 by Edwin Morgan, who led the four-man ticket, stated to The Times that he was withdrawing his call for the second balloting, after duly considering the extra expense that would have to be incurred by the county in holding the election, and the work and expense to which he and his opponent would be put.

"I believe for the purpose of party harmony, and best interests of all concerned that a second primary would not be best," Mr. Kilpatrick said, "although numerous leaders and friends have requested me to go into the second primary."

"I appreciate the support that was given me in the primary, and I also fully appreciate the interest my many friends have shown in me in urging me to call for a second primary, but I feel that it is not for the best of all concerned," Mr. Kilpatrick said.

Fred Miller, who was second high to Spalding McIntosh in the clerk of court race, did not make a call for second voting.

Daughter of Chinese Chieftain Sees End of War Near

"Three or four more months will probably see the end of the war between China and Japan, and in my opinion neither side will win, stated Elizabeth Te-Chen Wang, a young Chinese woman, student at the University of North Carolina, and at present on the staff at Camp Deerwood pre-camp for girls in session here through June.

Miss Wang, the daughter of Wen-Hsuan Wang, head of military affairs in China, is a graduate of Central University in Nanking, China, where she lives with her parents. For the past six months she has been in the United States, studying for her master's degree at the University of North Carolina. After completion of the work for her degree here next spring, she intends to return to China and engage in translation work.

In a position to have first hand knowledge of internal conditions in her native country, and also possessing a capable mind in her own right, Miss Wang explained further regarding her belief that the Sino-Japanese war would end within a few months. She is of the opinion that the conflict will not cease because either side is victorious, but rather because the Japanese have come to the end of their physical and military strength; that neither side will admit defeat and neither will be conqueror.

"China can never accept the demands made upon her by Japan to relinquish her territory to them without fighting for her rights," Miss Wang said emphatically. "The Chinese people are not babies, as the Japanese seem to regard us, willing to give up our lands and our rights and still keep on smiling. We want peace and we hate war, but we cannot be trampled under feet without at least an attempt at resistance," she further stated with deep feeling.

From her inside knowledge of military affairs, Miss Wang said that it was a surprise to the Japanese that the Chinese could display such powers of resistance and endurance, and possessed the ability to hold on in spite of many handicaps. "They are finding out that the Chinese people are not mere children, to be forced into doing something against their will," she said.

In spite of untold suffering and inestimable loss of life and property caused by this ruthless inter-racial conflict, Miss Wang is able to see a brighter side, and good results that will eventually come out of it all for her country. She is of the opinion that China, while admittedly ranked among the weaker nations heretofore, will emerge from the war a far stronger and more unified country. She believes that the lessons her country has been forced to learn through horrible experiences of war, and also the fact that China has proved to herself as well as to the world her resistance powers, will all in the end be to the advantage and profit of the Chinese people.

Miss Wang, a young woman of sweet and charming personality, gave the appearance of a young school girl when seen in her crisp white afternoon camping outfit and her thick black hair hanging loose to her shoulders, but her keen intellect and pleasing manner belie her youthful appearance. At the pre-camp session here at Camp Deerwood she is teaching Chinese drama and folk dancing.

Miss Wang expressed delight over her first visit to America, and the American people, stating that she had found them so friendly, cordial and sympathetic with her and her people.
