Life Of A Pisgah Fawn

A PISGAH FAWN

The following short story illustrates the life of a fawn reared at the Pisgah Fawn Plant. This story was prepared by John Eller, warden in charge. This year the plant is enjoying one of its most successful seasons, having lost fewer fawns and having the healthiest fawns yet. Any persons desiring to visit the plant should secure a permit from Supervisor Ochsenr at Asheville or Ranger Squires at Pisgah Forest. Persons visiting the plant must park their cars outside and must not make any disturbance. The fawn of the white tail deer is a very nervous animal and easily frightened.

Through the Pisgah Fawn Plant With Fawn No. 73

Fawn No. 73, hereafter known as "Herb" as it is the custom of the fawn plant employees to nickname the fawns, was caught at seven a. m., June 19, 1938, on Lookingglass Creek in a field just above the Lookingglass Falls. This is "Herb's" story:

"One morning my mother took me to the creek for my breakfast. She takes me to the creek because she knows that I am odorless and does not want my enemies to smell her milk. By feeding in the creek any spilt milk is washed away. After breakfast I found a nice warm spot in the sunlight near a log to take a nap. My mother left me to feed my twin who was near by. I was awakened from my nap by the calls of strange animals whom my mother called man. I stood up to run and was instantly captured by one of these strange creatures. Had I remained still he probably would not have found me as my camouflaged coat protected me.

"The man held me with care though I struggled hard and carried me to the cellar of a white building known as a warden station. Here there were many strange odors such as I had never smelled before. I tried to run away and hit my head against a rock wall. I tried to jump over the wall but found the wall all around me. Finally tired, hungry, and frightened I slept.

"Sometime later two men came to get me and put me in a box which was in a strange roaring monster that traveled even faster than my mother can run through the forest. This roaring monster brought me to the fawn plant in the Pink Beds. Here I was taken into a building and examined carefully by two men who recorded my age as five days old and my weight as eight pounds. A metal tag was put on my right ear, this signified that I was a buck. Does have the tag put in their left ear. My tag read, "No. 73, Pisgah National Forest, 1938." After filling out the card that would tell my life history from then on, the man named me "Herb" after someone they called the boss. I was then taken to a small coop which was located in a big enclosure called the isolation ward. Here I found many of my cousins in cages like mine. They all seemed contented and healthy. My cage seemed to be open on all sides and I tried to escape, here I had my first experience with wire. I found that it was much stronger than I and finally gave up the struggle for the time being.

"I was left alone for sometime and my cousins watching with expectation the brown building nearby and listening attentively to a rumbling noise that came from the door. I later found that this noise was caused by the steam used in sterilizing our dinner. Soon the men came out of the building carrying crates of bottles, to each bottle was attached a nipple. These men lifted the lids on the cages and my cousins would suck milk with gusto from the nipples. A man came to my cage and I became frightened and tried to hide. I skinned by head on the wire and the man had to pick me up out of the cage and set me on the ground. Still holding me by my head he put the nipple in my mouth and slowly worked the nipple back and forth forcing the warm milk down my throat. It did not taste as well as my mother's, seeming sweeter; however, I swallowed the milk for by this time I was very hungry. The man talked to me and said I was a fine fawn and should have more than two ounces of milk but that it might not agree with me. I was put back in my cage which was then covered with canvas, this made the cage warm and dry. During the night I was fed again. I know now that all the fawns are fed every six hours and that our diet is canned evaporated milk diluted with varying percentages of water according to the particular fawn.

"After I had been in the isolation ward six days I was moved into a run 20 feet by 15 feet and my diet was increased to four ounces of milk each feeding. This run had running water, a small shelter, and a great deal of herbs on which I could browse. The men in feeding would call me at the gate of the run and I would hasten up if I wasn't already at the gate waiting for them. While in the runway I was again weighed and was surprised to find that I weighed sixteen pounds. The men were also pleased and one said "Nice work, Herb."

"After I was in the run six days and responded readily at feeding time I was turned out in the big lot which had been planted with soy beans and red clover. There is also an apple orchard in this lot. Other fawns were put in this lot with me and we are all there now and having a fine time.

"Feeding has been increased by a diet of bran and crushed corn. I now receive a full quart of milk a day and no longer feed at night. In fact, I am enjoying soy beans and the other browse so much that I am losing my taste for milk. I was weighed recently and weigh 24 pounds. In two or three weeks I will lose my spotted coat and will have a solid brown winter coat. In a few weeks I will be sent to some other Preserve to help restock that area. Any of you man folks that care to see us fellows had better come now as I know we will all leave here soon."
