CANDLELIGHT . . . COSTS MORE!

But I Cost Less Than ANY LIGHT!

Light is cheap today but we are apt to take this for granted. The costs are far lower than they have ever been before in history and are being reduced continuously by improvements made in the efficiency of light sources and in more sufficient and economical methods of production and distribution of electricity.

You will be interested . . . and no less amazed . . . in knowing the present relative cost of electricity when compared with other sources of light. The table below shows just how insignificantly low the cost of light really is:

Light Source	Cost per Million Lumen Hours of Light
Wax Candle	$400.00
Kerosene Lamp	13.50
Carbon Lamp	17.60
60 Watt Mazda Lamp	3.75
150 Watt Mazda Lamp	3.25
200 Watt Mazda Lamp	2.76*
