CLINIC IS SET AGAIN HERE AT LOCAL HOSPITAL

Dr. Newland Urges All Parents To Cooperate With Important Program

SAFETY ASSURED

The second phase of "Operation Ouch" will be held at Transylvania Community hospital Thursday morning, when 725 boys and girls will receive another shot of the Salk polio vaccine.

The serum will be given only to those boys and girls who received their first shot last April at the hospital. Dr. C. L. Newland, health officer in charge, strongly urges all parents of these children to see that they get the second injection.

When the Salk vaccine becomes available for children in other age groups, a similar clinic will be set up for giving it to them.

Dr. Newland states that all physicians in the county have volunteered their services in giving the vaccine. The same mothers who assisted at the spring clinic will also be on hand Thursday since they are familiar with the procedure.

Children are taken to the hospital on school buses and are given the vaccine at one of four stations, A, B, C, or D. The set-up does not in any way interfere with the hospital routine since the children come into the building only at the designated stations.

Dr. Newland stresses that it has been proven the vaccine in no way can cause harmful effects to the child. He asks the cooperation of the parents in completing this vital program designed one day to end the crippling disease of polio.
