Built To Serve Growing Community. One Of South's Most Modern

To better serve a growing community, the Brevard Federal Savings and Loan association has moved into its beautiful new home on the corner of South Caldwell and Morgan, where "open house" will be held on Saturday afternoon and evening, President Jerry Jerome announces today.

Total costs of the land, building and equipment were approximately $100,000.00, and the president explains that it was built with reserve funds and is debt-free.

The brick structure, built by C. E. Cochran, and designed by Robert L. Daniels, architect, contains approximately 2,800 square feet.

Of cavity wall construction, the building is said to be as modern as any in the south. The architect points out that the structure combines the latest features of low-cost maintenance, superb insulating qualities, as well as being fireproof.

Included in the building are private offices off the main lobby, a director's room with walnut paneling, a full-size basement, as well as rest room and storage facilities.

Among the unique features are direct and indirect lighting, terrazzo and linoleum floors, acoustical ceilings, modern teller counter and

PRESIDENT QUOTED

"Open House" will be held at the new home of the Brevard Federal Savings and Loan association at the corner of South Caldwell and Morgan on Saturday of this week from 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon until 9:00 o'clock that evening.

Jerry Jerome, the president, cordially invites the public to attend the "open house."

President Jerome emphasizes that the board of directors wants the people of Transylvania to see the building that they built.

It is, he continued, the most modern savings and loan building in the Carolinas and is indeed a credit to the town and county.

The opening of the new building climaxes 20 years of progress of the Brevard Federal Savings and Loan association. The concern was organized in 1938, and assets today are more than $6,100,000.00.

President Jerome also points out that dividends in 1958 totaled more than $52,000.00, and the current dividend rate is three and one-half per cent per annum.

In addition to President Jerome, other officers are as follows: A. F. Mitchell, vice president and attorney; Jerry Hart Jerome, secretary and assistant treasurer; and J. I. Ayers, treasurer and assistant secretary.

Much Interest Shown In Flood Control Program, State Official Cites Provisions

Good Attendance Is Noted At Mass Meeting Tuesday Night At Middle Fork

Landowners from all sections of the county met at Line Runner Inn above Rosman Tuesday night and heard L. Thompson, soil conservation official of Raleigh, discuss plans for dams in Transylvania for flood prevention.

Mr. Thompson stressed that the state and federal government agencies were not trying to "sell" the people of the county anything in the proposed flood prevention program.

"The program, if it is continued, has to be started and carried on by the people of Transylvania county," Mr. Thompson stated. "The Federal government will build the dams and do the necessary stream improvements, but you, the people will be the ones to say whether it is done or not," he emphasized.

Preliminary surveys have been made, and proposed dam sites that will do the necessary job in prevention of floods in the French Broad and tributary valleys have been selected, the speaker said. It will require a minimum of 17 dams. Probably more can be built if the people wish to have them, and they contribute to the problem of preventing floods, but 17 is the minimum needed, according to the preliminary survey.

WNC Legislators Confer With Governor, Schedule Is Busy

Transylvania legislators, Senator B. W. Thomason and Rep. James C. Gaither, and other WNC lawmakers conferred with Governor Luther Hodges Tuesday night and discussed "legislative matters."

The meeting was similar to one held last week by the Governor, when he conferred with coastal lawmakers.

Both Senator Thomason and Rep. Gaither were in Brevard last week, and they talked to a number of persons regarding the 1959 General Session, which, they described, has now settled down to serious business.

On Wednesday members of the legislature made a flying trip to Charlotte, after a busy schedule on Tuesday.

The busy day included a hearing on a proposal to forbid union membership for workers in government, and new bills to change welfare laws and to permit flue-cured tobacco framers to put more money into promotion efforts.

The Dogwood trees, which the Brevard Jaycees are offering for sale, will arrive this week, President Carl Hart, reports.

On Friday evening and on Saturday the white Dogwood trees will be on sale at the parking lot of Winn-Dixie store, and persons who have not already placed their orders may purchase them at that time, Mr. Hart says.

Deliveries will be made this week to all persons who have placed orders prior to this time, Mr. Hart states.

There will be a brief intermission period during the fashion show and college students will entertain with songs and a ballet. Door prizes will also be given during intermission.

A display of Easter and spring decorations will be furnished by Brevard Jewelers and the Rhododendron Room will have many interesting decorations to put those attending the show in the mood for spring, Mrs. Hoyle states.

Brevard Jaycettes believe their show will help Brevard merchants in their "shop at home" campaign by showing the latest fashions for the coming season.
