

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after that was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. He wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUXY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most effective remedy for cutting the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, and nervousness, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been won by millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

ATCHISON'S ORDER OF SPINS

Unmarried, and Contented Withal, They Have Mapped Out for Themselves a Pious City.

There was called a meeting of the Ancient Order of Spins last evening, and papers were read on every subject, from the sad memories that attach to a bunch of old letters. The Spins were having a hilarious time when a visiting Spin got up to make a few remarks. She said that, while they are happy now, there was a sad time coming. "Thinking of the day," she said, "when, having no husbands or children, you will be all alone." There was a sniffling and then a short spin after Spin recalled wives and mothers who are alone from daylight till dark, except when some member of the family wants waiting on. The sniffling and snoring increased in volume as Spin after Spin told of her freedom from worry, her independence in financial matters and the joy of doing as she pleased. "But we must not take offense at what our sister has said," one Spin remarked. "Let us show our good intentions by cutting an every lonesome wife and mother we know." This was six weeks ago, and though the Spins have devoted every afternoon and evening since to this missionary work, they haven't made half the rounds yet.—Atchison Globe.

His First Lesson in Economy.

"When I was a very small boy and a time looked pretty big to me, I met John H. Farley—who had always been my good friend—from the street one June day," says Frank Harris. "Frank," he said, "the Fourth of July is coming soon. You'll want some change, but let me be your banker until then and you'll have some money for firecrackers, torpedoes, lemonade and peanuts." "I emptied my pockets into his hand and every day thereafter until the Fourth I turned over to him my small earnings. When the day of days came around I had a fund that enabled me to celebrate in proper style, while many of my playmates were flat broke. It was my first lesson in thrift, and it was a good one. Hundreds of Cleveland people would be glad today to testify to the fact that when John H. Farley was a friend of a man or a boy he was a friend indeed."—Cleveland Leader.

Good Advice, but—

A traveler entered a railway carriage at a wayside station. The sole occupant of the compartment consisted of an old lady and her son, about twenty years old. Nothing of note occurred until the train stopped at the station at which tickets were collected. The woman, not having a ticket for the boy, requested him to "corrie down." The traveler intervened and suggested putting him under the seat. "Man," said the excited woman, "it's as plain as death, but there's two under the seat 'ready!"

HOW THE MEDIUMS FOOL THE PEOPLE

THEIR SO-CALLED MANIFESTATIONS ARE NOTHING BUT INGENUOUS TRICKS.

ARE DIFFICULT TO DETECT

Takes an Expert to Tell How the "Spiritual Phenomena" Deception Is Practiced—Much That Every-body Wants to Know.

New York—Howard Carrington, Investigator of Spiritualist phenomena, gave what he called an "expose" of the methods of mediums the other afternoon in the Berkeley theater. The audience was treated to manifestations of the ordinary seance, including table writing, bell ringing, table levitation and finally a materialization, all of which manifestations he afterwards explained.

Mrs. Carrington introduced the audience into the proper atmosphere by playing the piano, and the hall was darkened and the curtains parted, and the stage was disclosed set for a seance.

First, Mr. Carrington took an ordinary wax hand, made to resemble the human hand, with a cuff and part of the wrist cut off just above the wrist. He placed this on a piece of glass supported by four tumbler on an ordinary table. He then rubbed to the further corner of the stage and asked the hand questions which could be answered by rappings. The hand tipped and tapped.

The audience was mystified until Mr. Carrington explained that it means of a black thread from the cabinet to the hand of his assistant, which was finely balanced, could be easily tipped.

A glass bell was rung by a somewhat similar contrivance. Mr. Carrington held the bell close to Daniel Problem, who sat in a box, but that manger was unable to detect any trickery, although the bell was ringing at the time.

Mr. Carrington then placed a mandolin, a bell and a tambourine on a table. He held a red handkerchief in front of these. Both of his hands were to be visible, holding the handkerchief, yet the bell was hurled over the top with violence, the strings of the mandolin were twanged and the tambourine was shaken.

All this was explained when Mr. Carrington exposed the back of the handkerchief. A wooden rod held in his left hand held the handkerchief in position, and at the other corner the simplified fingers of a wooden hand appeared. His right hand was free.

A large oak table placed in the center of the room was raised three feet from the floor and then dropped. A smaller table even performed evolutions, and at the other corner the simplified fingers of a wooden hand appeared. His right hand was free.

placed under the table while the hands were above, and later by books protruding from under his waistcoat. In these table levitations Mr. Carrington was assisted by a confederate, as he explained mediums generally are. He said that with books protruding from the waistcoat supported by straps from over the shoulders that a table with a man on it could be lifted. Other methods, he said, were used by some mediums, but this was the most common.

The slate writing mystified the audience to some extent until Mr. Carrington explained. One trick of slate writing that was dazzling was too trivial to be interesting when shown up. The pen then set at a table and materialized a baby's hand, which gradually rose over the top of the table. It was later discovered that this hand was attached to Mr. Carrington's foot.

In utter darkness Mr. Carrington then retired to a cabinet and materialized a Turk out of misty whiteness. The effect was startling until Mr. Carrington did the same thing with all the lights on. Then a group of cards with a false mustache and a piece of cheese cloth covered with phosphorus.

When to Eat Fruit. To obtain the most benefit from the succulent fruits they should be eaten at the end of the chief meal. Bananas are an exception and may be eaten with any meal. They are very acceptable cut in thin slices, and eaten with bread and butter. Stewed fruits often have their virtues wasted through being eaten at the wrong time. Six or eight stewed prunes half an hour before breakfast are beneficial, so are stewed figs or stewed apples eaten before breakfast. Peeled oranges cut into thin slices so that the juice is set free, with castor sugar strewn over the slices, are not unlike pineapple and form a highly efficacious aid to digestion. Grapes should never be eaten except after the chief meal of the day. Taken when the stomach is comparatively empty, they are a specially harmful fruit.—Family Doctor.

George was a manly fellow, yet, surprising as it may seem, he was guilty of a grave charge, a criminal offense— theft, for he had not many times, stolen kisses from his fair sweet-heart?

Maudie, one of the most lovable of girls, was equally guilty as an accessory; she received the stolen property. Each seemed to have perfect confidence in the other, however, and when the sentence was pronounced by a properly qualified official, they decided to serve their time together.

They remained loyal to the end, neither making any effort to have their sentence abrogated or shortened, but during the course of their long term together several small offenses were directly chargeable to them. J. W. B. in Puck.

"On the advice of a friend, I first tried Postum, making it carefully as directed on the package. As I had always used cream and no sugar, I mixed my Postum so. It looked good, was clear and fragrant, and it was a pleasure to see the cream color it as my Kentucky friend always wanted her coffee to look—like a new saddle."

"Then I tasted it critically, for I had tried many 'substitutes' for coffee. I was pleased, yes, satisfied, with my Postum in taste and effect, and am yet, being a constant user of it all these years."

Widow Healy Indulges in Some Plain Speaking to Her Devoted but Timid Lover.

The courting of the Widow Healy by Terence Corcoran was a tedious affair to every one in Magray place, most of all to the widow herself, who tried various expedients to assist her timid admirer.

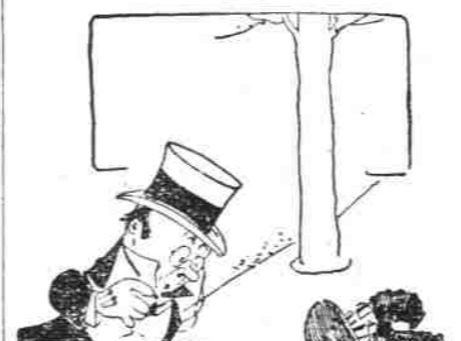

"I'm thinking I might go for a sojer," Terence announced one night, when his fancy had been stirred by a newspaper account of a military pageant. "I'm not so old but I could do it. I was wanted in a school regiment."

"You go for a sojer!" cried the Widow Healy in mingled scorn and alarm. "A man that calls on a lone widow for two years and more, and then pluck enough to spake his mind, hasn't the makings of a drummer boy in him."

Seven poor children, four girls and three boys, all about ten years old, went to a nearby seashore resort, in charge of two women, for a day's outing. The funds for the picnic were provided by two boys who sell papers and are equally poor, but one of the boys from which the excursion party was recruited. One of the women in charge of the children said that the boys had arranged the outing "of their own accord, and the remarkable thing is this: They do not get no boys by any means and one of them is probably the naughtiest boy in the neighborhood. But we think that when boys do little things like this they will come out all right."—New York Tribune.

Where Not to Fight.

The man who fights in the last ditch may be brave, but the world respects most of its admiration for the men who show their fighting qualities before the last ditch is reached.

A Good Explanation.

Speaking of bilingual notes, an Irishman serving in the French legion in Algiers, explaining to the court-martial how a slight altercation with the guard arose, said: "It was like this. I was returning through the line late when I heard the sentry say, 'Qui vive?' And knowing a bit of the language I said, 'Ou est votre lanterne,' said he. 'I est sorti,' said I, knowing the idiom. 'Comment?' said he. 'Come on,' said I, and the fight was on."—New York Sun.

Planning for a Small Family.

When catering for a small family, care, judgment and economy must be used or one kind of food must be served several times in order to avoid waste.

When purchasing utensils and dishes for cooking, choose the size most suitable to the size of the family, as such an investment has a great advantage even in serving leftovers.

In buying a roast, too small a one dries out in cooking and is not an economical purchase. The beef left over may be served in slices heated in a Mexican sauce curry, tomato, or horseradish sauce. The little bits too small to serve may be chopped and seasoned, then used as sandwich filling, or one can always have hash.

Bits of leftover vegetable like carrot, beans or corn, may be added to a salad gratin to its advantage.

Eggs contain no waste and add to the nutriment of a dish. When making an omelet if a few peas are at hand fold them in at the last or scatter in a sauce poured around an omelet.

Very tempting desserts may be made from stale cake cut in rounds or fancy shapes, a preserved pear or peach, with a little of the syrup and whipped cream served on each piece.

For a small family one can make as many attractive little dishes that would be entirely out of the question with a larger family.

When using gas a small portable oven to be used over a burner is a great saving.

A delicious dessert which is both pleasing to the eye and the palate is prepared by heating together a half cup of any favorite jelly and the white of one egg. It will take a little time to beat until it stands alone, but the result will repay the effort. Serve in sherbet cups with sweetened whipped cream on top. A change from the usual French toast may be made by cutting the bread in rounds or in some fancy shape, dip in egg and milk and fry in butter. Often a dish for refused many times will be welcomed if the appearance is changed. It is necessary in all successful cooking to appeal first to the eye.

MY SKIN TORTURE

"When our baby was seven weeks old he broke out with what we thought was heat, but which gradually grew worse. We called in a doctor. He said it was eczema and from that time we doctored six months with three of the best doctors in Atchison but he only got worse. His face, head and hands were a solid sore. There was no end to the suffering for him. We had to let his little hands to keep him from scratching. He never knew what it was to sleep well from the time he took the disease until he was cured. He kept us awake all hours of the night and his health was what you would call good. We tried everything but the right thing. "Finally I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies and I am pleased to say we did not use all of them until he was cured. We have waited a year and a half to see if it would return but it never has and to-day his skin is clear and fair as it possibly could be. I hope Cuticura may save some one else's little ones suffering and also their pocket-books. John Leason, 1405 Atchison St., Atchison, Kan., Oct. 19, 1919."

Now They Sleep In.

Ralston, auditor of the News, have jointly and severally decided that sleeping out in the open isn't all that it has been declared to be, says the Cleveland Leader. They were both in a deep swooze out at the Beattie farm, near Chagrin Falls, the other night, when a runaway team from the county fair city turned into the lane leading up to the Beattie estate and came along at full speed.

Sound asleep, but dreaming of impending danger, Ralston rolled out of his cot toward the north, and Beattie from his cot toward the south. The runaway horses dashed between the sleepers, oversetting everything in the way, but missing Beattie and Ralston by margins too narrow to be measured. Since that night Ralston has slept in his town house and Beattie has found shelter under the ample roof of his house on his big plantation.

HIS RUBBERS HAD VANISHED

Consequently Man From the Country Had Little Use for City Methods.

The benches in the waiting rooms at the Union depot in Kansas City are used for other purposes than to rest on by travelers, the Kansas City Star enlightens us. At every midnight the maids clean out the rooms. They do not forget to poke under the benches for stray bundles left by traveling travelers.

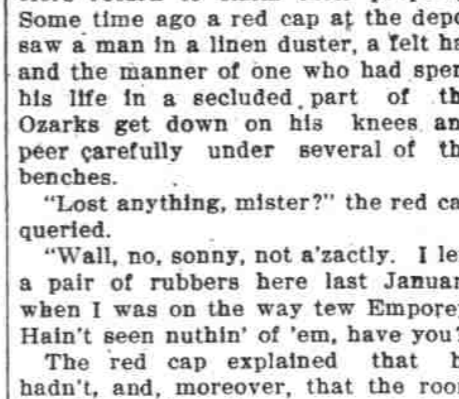

Sometimes after intervals, the travelers return to claim their property. Some time ago a red cap at the depot saw a man in a linen duster, a felt hat and the manner of one who had spent his life in a secluded part of the Ozarks get down on his knees and peer carefully under several of the benches.

"Lost anything, mister?" the red cap queried.

"Well, no, sonny, not a'ctally. I left a pair of rubbers here last January when I was on the way west. Emory, Hain't seen nuthin' of 'em, have you?"

The red cap explained that he hadn't, and, moreover, that the room had been cleaned out several dozen times since last January.

"Well, I swan," replied the traveler, blinking and stroking his beard, "the city methods do beat me."
