The farmers fate—photograph.

The world is getting smoky—the farmers burning trash.

We are pleased to hear that the telephone is going to spread itself in the Sned town section.

Mr. Kelly has resigned as Post Master at this place. He has served us well and will be missed.

Mr. H. M. Whitaker has been employed to look after the business of the new firm of Morgan, Livingston & Co., over at Jordan.

We learn that that place "Jordan," is on quite a boom. A "new store," a big saw mill and several new houses in course of construction. The academy—so will doubtless be enlarged as early date.

"And Teddy, ketch a couple o' coons, an'that, "strawberry.

Old Jake Graham, should now promptly send "Theodore," an invitation to his daughter Martha June Ann's big wedding. He could possibly get to escort Jake's wife out to supper.

We haven't heard a single man say hurrah for Tillman in three weeks.

Mr. Whiteford Stubbs and sister Miss Tula, of Morven, N. C., spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Scotland.

Among the changes for the new year there will be preaching at Sned's Grove twice a month; on first Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, on the third Sunday p.m. at 8:30. The Sabbath School is changed to the afternoon, except on first Sunday.

LETTER TO J. B. COWAN.

LAURINBURG, N. C.

Dear Sir: You'd strike it rich if you could find a way to shave your customers in less time, for less cost, and make the shaves last two or three times as long. You wouldn't shave the same person so many times, nor get so much of his money; but the whole town would be talking about you, and every body would come to you.

DEATH OF O. R. MCLEOD.

The Young Medical Student at Last Succumbs to the Blood Poisoning.

Charlotte Observer, Jan. 31.

O. R. McLeod, of Robeson county, the medical student at Davidson, who has been suffering from septicemic or blood poisoning for a fortnight, died yesterday morning at 8:05 o'clock.

The final decline in McLeod's condition began 24 hours prior to his death, when he had great difficulty in respiration, due to the abscess in the lungs and fluid in the pericardian cavity.

It was only in the last few hours of his life that he lost consciousness. For two weeks the superb young frame had battled with the ravages of the disease, and, though the temperature was always high and sometimes reached 106 and 107, the mind remained strangely unclouded.

At the last, however, he was delirious, and with the instinct of a born fighter he spoke again and again of his battles on the football field.

With McLeod at the end were his mother, his best friend, Mr. J. A. Brewin, and a few others.

The remains were brought to Charlotte last evening and today will be carried to McDonald's home, at McDonald's, in Robeson county, and interred after a service in the Presbyterian church at McDonald's. Those accompanying the body are Mrs. Sarah McLeod, the mother; Mr. A. J. McLeod, an uncle; Rev. William Black, of Davidson; Robert Johnston, representing the football team; T. J. Kell, of the senior class; J. A. Brewin and Morrison Caldwell, representing the junior class, of which McLeod was a member; and P. Faust, of the freshman class.

A BRAVE FIGHT.

The death of McLeod was not unexpected. On January 15th, while dissecting the body of a colored woman in the medical college at Davidson, he absorbed in his system a poison so dangerous in its initial symptoms as to almost preclude any hope of recovery. Without knowing it had on the back of his right hand a slight, unseemly abrasion, which was the gateway through which the poison entered his system. He did not know his danger and suffered no ill effects until the following night when he had a chill and noticed that there was a small blister on his hand. This wound was cauterized, but the remedy came too late. He developed a high temperature, which could not be kept down. Dr. Munroe, one of his physicians, wired for morphine, the new remedy for blood poisoning, and this was used for several days, but to no advantage. The physician stated that the death of the student was only a matter of a very few days, but still McLeod, a boy 9 years old, held his nerve, and coolness, and with a perfectly clear brain watched closely every symptom in his own case; even going so far as to hold a mirror in order that he might see an operation that was being performed on his own body.

Meers. J. B. Maxwell and W. H. Morrison visited Sumter, S. C., last Thursday. While there Mr. Maxwell bought two new and up-to-date switch-boards with one hundred drops each, for the Laurinburg telephone exchange.
