

SEAGATE CHILD KILLED IN PLAYING WITH RIFLE

Wilmington, Feb. 1.—Cicero S. Phillips, 3, living at Seagate, near Wilmington, was shot and killed by his five year old brother this morning when a 22 calibre rifle with which they were playing was accidentally discharged. The bullet, the coroner reported, entered the left side of the child's chest. The child died enroute to the hospital. The father, Charles L. Phillips, had been hunting the day before and on returning home left the loaded gun in his car, little believing there was occasion to unload it.

More Livestock Needed On Farms

Raleigh, Feb. 3.—A growing demand for more milk, butter, beef and poultry makes it absolutely necessary that farmers in North Carolina increase their livestock production if they continue to "live at home." The rapidly increasing urban population has brought to the farm door the opportunity of buying those things that at one time were of necessity produced on the farm," says

A. C. Kimrey, dairy extension specialist at State College, "but it is also increasing the demand for all kinds of livestock products. In neglecting to increase his dairy herd and poultry flocks the farmer is neglecting a wonderful opportunity to not only produce a good living but also make a good income from the farm."

In the early days of our history, states Mr. Kimrey, when the markets were few and far apart it was not only good business but a necessity to produce everything needed on the farm. This naturally led to the production of crops that were adapted to slow marketing such as cotton, tobacco and grain. But now, he states, it is not only necessary to produce the things needed on the farm but also to produce those things most in demand at the nearest market which, in most cases, is at the front door. The constant demand today is for food products from livestock.

According to Mr. Kimrey, livestock, pasture and feed crops in reasonable proportions will enable every farmer in North Carolina to utilize a maximum percent of his acreage and will at the same time, produce a decent living and marketable surplus of livestock products. "This is the only permanent solution and as long as the farmers of North Carolina refuse to follow this system, just so long will they have a small and insufficient farm income and a standard of living not in keeping with other livestock producing sections," says Mr. Kimrey.

COTTON MILL WORKERS AT WILMINGTON STRIKE

Wilmington, Feb. 3.—Approximately 200 weavers and spinners staged a walkout at the Delgado mills here this morning as a result of reductions in wages announced by the mill management. Five hundred looms were left idle.

The walk-out was peaceable and workers said they hoped for a satisfactory settlement as they desired to return to work. They ask that the old wage scale be re-established and that they be permitted to return to work as heretofore.

Workers said they were unorganized and hoped to remain in that status. Rumors of communistic activities were denied. Among the 200 who walked out were those whose salaries have not yet been cut, but were in sympathy with the other employees.

Shortly after the walk-out a committee from the workers went in conference with mill officials.

FIVE NEW QUESTIONS IN U. S. CENSUS QUIZ

Washington, Feb. 1.—When the census-taker calls this year he will ask five questions which were not on his list in 1920.

He has been instructed to ask these questions which are an innovation in the service:

"What is the value of the home, if owned, or how much is the rent, if the house is rented?"

"Is there a radio in the house?"

"Is the person enumerated employed on the day he is canvased?"

"Is he a veteran of the United States military or naval forces?"

"If the person is married, how old was he at the time of his first marriage?"

Such information given census takers is required to be kept secret for 50 years.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH LEASES A BUILDING

Morehead City, February 4th.—The four room dwelling just across the street from the Presbyterian Chapel has been leased and put in shape for Bible class rooms. The interior of the building has been entirely renovated and equipped with electric lights. A new Midget Cable Piano and suitable chairs ranging in size from the tiniest to the adult have been installed together with other necessary fixtures.

This added accommodation in space and equipment has cost approximately five hundred dollars, which furnishes for temporary relief arrangements quite satisfactory.

This extension of our church work for which we make grateful recognition has been made possible by the very generous and helpful consideration of the property owner, one of Morehead City's most prominent citizens, the assistance of our Presbytery and the loyal support of the members and other friends of the church.

We rejoice in the realization of this accomplishment and sincerely trust and pray it will contribute much to the spiritual growth and development of our city.

PAYING ONE'S DEBTS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

My father's youthful ambition, while living as he did in the north of England, was to come to America where, as he thought, there would be freedom and a better opportunity for getting on in the world. He was thirty-five years old before he had amassed enough to pay the passage of the family and have enough of a balance to establish himself in a new country.

Coming across the ocean in a sailing vessel, as was done eighty years ago, he came into contact with a young preacher, who, like himself, was seeking a greater opportunity in a new country. The minister had not been as frugal as father; he had saved little and on the way over he fell sick, and was without resources to buy himself and his family food. Father's heart was touched and when they landed he advanced the man the one hundred dollars which he had saved for an emergency. It seems a small sum, but it was a fortune to father, for it was practically all he had. They went in different directions from New York. Father never heard from him again. He was the sort of man of which we have so many—he did not take his debts seriously.

John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world today, perhaps, if not the richest who has ever lived, says that the thing which first caused him to get a financial start was his habit of always meeting his obligations. "Pay your debts" was the slogan which marked his road to prosperity and affluence.

I was sitting in the office of a banker friend of mine not long ago, when a man came in to ask for a loan. I knew something of his circumstances. He owned a good deal of property and so far as I knew it was not in any way encumbered. He was looked upon as a man in better than good financial standing. It was five hundred dollars he wanted, I think.

"I am sorry," the banker said, "but we are not in a position to let you have the money at this time."

The man went out, and shortly afterward a farmer came in and made the same request. He explained to my friend that he had little but his own word to offer as security. "We are very glad to let you have the money," the banker said. "I know about you; you pay your debts." He turned to me.

"You were surprised, possibly, that I did not let Black have the five hundred dollars for which he asked, knowing as you do, how much property he owns. It would always be possible to collect from him, but anyone who lends him money generally has to force a collection. No one who knows him will lend him anything, for he pays his debts only when he has to do so. This last man is poor, but he is honest. He always manages some way or other to meet his obligations. We are always glad to do business with him."
