Negro County Agent Wins Local Support

ALEIGH, June 6—A negro local agent who has won the whole hearted support of his own people and the approval and respect of the white citizenship in his county, is local agent J. C. Hubbard of Bertie County. Hubbard has been local farm agent in Bertie County for ten years. Recently the Negro farmers of the county held a meeting to celebrate this decade of work with them and not only did they pass resolutions praising and commending agent Hubbard for his work but they gave him an excellent steel filing cabinet for his office. Representatives of the official governing bodies of the county and members of the State College Extension Service were present to take part in the celebration and to add words of commendation. "We consider Hubbard one of the best agents we have," said C. R. Hudson, in charge of Negro Extension work in commenting on the celebration. "He has the best organized 4-H club work that exists among Negro boys and girls in this State. He handles his projects entirely through these organized clubs and is getting results. In his work with adult farmers, he has the men organized into community clubs and works with them on an organized basis. In this way, he conserves his time and serves the greatest number." Hubbard is a graduate of Hampton Institute in Virginia with post-graduate work during the summer session at one of the large eastern universities. In his advanced studies, he has devoted his attention to recreation among rural people. Mr. Hudson said Hubbard would be in charge of the recreational events at the Negro 4-H club conference to be held at the A. & T. College Greensboro, July 26 to 30. He will also do the same work at the annual Negro Farmers' Conference to be held at the Greensboro school on August 24 and 25.

R. O. Lancaster of Craven County made some money on a lot of 181 hogs this spring and sold his corn at a better price than had he disposed of it at market prices for grain.

The tobacco acreage of Cumberland County is about 60 per cent of that of 1931 and the crop is from ten days to two weeks late.

Martin County farmers have sold about 60,000 bushels of sweet potatoes cured in modern houses for a price of 50 to 76 cents bushel this spring.

L. M. Smith, dairyman of Wake County, reduced his grain feed by 200 pounds a day and cut out the use of beet pulp when he turned his herd of 50 cows on a pasture that was limed, fertilized and planted last fall.

More than 250 head of beef cattle which were vaccinated against black leg by the farm agent of Clay County showed no symptoms of the disease while twelve animals which the owners would not give such treatment died.

Colleges Are Closing

Commencement exercises at colleges in North Carolina have been in full swing during the past week or 10 days and practically all of them will be completed during this week. The usual floods of oratory have been heard and the graduates, as usual, have been made to believe that the fate of the world now hangs on their shoulders.

It is a sad commentary and a deplorable prediction that many, probably most, of the approximately 1,800 receiving diplomas during the 10-day period may find it necessary to join the ranks of the unemployed for weeks to come.

Entomologists, sometimes called bug-ologists, are awaiting impatiently for the heralded 17-year locust, officially known as the cicada, and are wondering if this bug, a Biblical pest, is going to disappoint them and fail to appear, as it did 17 years ago. Forty counties, largely in the piedmont and west, have been visited by this locust in the past and entomologists are having them watched carefully to see if it appears as scheduled. If it does not appear in the droves that have come in the past, the entomologists will investigate to see why it has disappeared, or if it has completely disappeared, and may find some modern cause, maybe gasoline fumes, or electric lights, as the reason.

Anthrax, or hard, coal has been discovered in Chatham county, an analysis of which, made at State College shows it to be superior to Virginia anthracite and equal to or possibly superior to the far-famed Pennsylvania anthracite. A. S. Brower, director of the Division of Purchase and Contract, announces.

The deposit, opened by H. N. Butler, of Sanford, and operated as the Anthracite Coal Co., of Gulf, is of undetermined quantity but of excellent quality, the tests indicate. Mr. Brower announces that it will be tested out at the Governor's Mansion and at State institutions, and if it turns out as well as the tests indicate, will be used extensively this winter. The vein will serve to protect the State in a coal shortage, even if the quantity is not great, and will give another North Carolina industry for development, Mr. Brower points out.
