Who Is God?

By Jimmie Guthrie

Consider man. What a wonderful piece of mechanism is his body. The framework is there; the muscles that hold each part in place; the nerves, like a great electrical system by which messages are conveyed from all parts of the body. He has power to reason and to plan and even carry out these plans.

Truly no machine can be compared to man for intricacy of construction and harmony of action. Who, then, is the creator of this wonderful thing? We must conclude however that there is a great first cause who made and put into action all things visible in the universe, as well as things to us invisible. And who is the great God of the universe. Psa. 82:8, Gen. 1:1.

The name "Jehovah," means self existing one, he is without beginning and without end, and of him Moses wrote, "from everlasting to everlasting: who art God?" (Psa. 90:2, Isaiah 26:4.)

Well then, if we conclude that, according to the heavenly record this is the God that made the things we see, then we must conclude that there is none other beside him, and such honor and dignity can none other possess. He is the great all wise creator of all things that are made. (Elijah 40:28; Gen. 1:1.) Then we find that the four great and eternal attributes of this Jehovah God is Justice, Love, Power and wisdom. (Ezekiel 1:1, 6:6.) These attributes work together at all times, and in exact harmony; and in various times and ways he makes manifest these attributes.

We find that his justice was made manifest by inflicting punishment for the violation of his law. Power was particularly made manifest in the great flood that destroyed all things upon the earth. His love was especially exhibited in the sacrifice of the dear son of his heart, "his beloved Son" that man kind might at least have an opportunity for life. Wisdom particularly manifested in his great plan, which he gradually unfolds and permits man to see at his own due time. His attributes have no limitations, this man is so wise that he knew the end from the beginning and out lined all great plans to the minutest detail Acts 15: 18.

Baby Chicks Need Successful Start

Raleigh Jan. 13.—North Carolina poultrymen are facing one of the most important times of the year with the arrival of the baby chick season.

Extension poultry specialist at State College estimate that 20,000,000 baby chicks will be started this year. This is approximately six chicks for every individual in North Carolina.

Taking care of this tremendous horde of new birds places a responsible burden on the shoulders of the State's poultrymen. Feeding, management, and housing problems must be met with a store of scientific knowledge if the chicks are to prove profitable to the farmers. Slipshod methods mean losses and inferior birds.

Improper feeding is responsible for huge losses each year, declares H. C. Gauger, poultry specialist at State College. But, he says, these losses can be cut greatly if the farmer will become acquainted with scientific feed formulae.

In a radio talk on the Carolina Farm Features program Friday, January 15, he will take up recent findings in poultry nutritional research and explain how these late developments can be of great help to the poultryman.

The schedule in full for the week of January 11-16 follows: Monday, W. L. Clevenger, "How Good American Cheese Can Be Made on the Farm"; Tuesday, Otto Veerhoff, "Methods of Propagating Woolly Plants"; Wednesday, Robin M. Williams, "Training Tomorrow's Farmers"; Thursday, Mrs. Cornelia

Poultry Flocks Lay More Eggs Per Bird

Raleigh Jan. 14.—An increase of eggs per bird in the annual production of demonstration poultry flocks in North Carolina has been noted during the past nine years.

Some of the poultrymen keeping records on these demonstration flocks have secured much bigger increases, said C. F. Parrish, extension poultry specialist at State College.

But the average is held down somewhat by new producers who have started demonstration work within the last few years, he added.

When the work first started, the average was 132 eggs per bird. During the 1934-35 year the average was 152 eggs per bird, and the 1935-36 average was 159 eggs per bird.

The poultrymen send reports on the flocks to the State College poultry department every month, and the specialists make recommendations whenever they believe improvements can be made in the way the flocks are handled.

The greater egg production is only one of the ways in which the demonstration flocks have been improved by the adoption of better practices, Parrish pointed out.

The increase in the number of poultrymen who are keeping careful records indicates the growing interest in better methods of breeding, feeding, and management, he also stated.

The first year, only five flock-owners made completed records, in the 1934-35 year, an average of 175 owners reported on 33,388 birds each month. During the past year, 287 owners reported monthly on a total of 55,277 birds.

During the year, these 55,277 birds consumed $97,612.73 worth of feed and laid eggs valued at $206,729.

Cape Hatteras Failed To Claim Victim In '36

Stormy Cape Hatteras failed to claim a single vessel or victim in 1936 but Coastguardsmen on the beach from Kill Devil Hills to Ocracoke had a busy year, U. S. Coast Guard headquarters for the Seventh District at Elizabeth City reported this week.

The Coast Guards along the beach rendered assistance during 1936 in a number of ways, the ever-vigilant crews of the stations being called on for almost everything under the sun from pulling a souck car out of the sand to administering first aid. Wrecks being scarce the surfmen had plenty of time to be helpful in other ways and to get their stations and gear in order whatever marine catastrophes of New Year may bring.

The stations and the number of assistances rendered and officially reported from July 1 to December 31, during 1936 follows; Kill Devil Hills one; Nags Head, seven; Bodie Island six; Oregon Inlet, forty-five; Pea Island, forty; Chicamacomico, twenty-six; Gull Shoals, three; Little Kinna-keet, fourteen; Big Kinna-keet, four; Cape Hatteras, fifteen; Creeds Hill one; Durants, five; Hatteras Inlet four and Ocracoke, twenty-six.

Miss Edith Gooding, member of the 4-H club at Beaufort High School presented several selections of Hawaiian guitar music. The club wishes to take this opportunity to thank both Miss Roberts and Miss Gooding for a very enjoyable program.

Games were directed by Mr. L. J. Gosard.

The club will meet again on Thursday, night, February 4th, at the home of the agent's office. All members are urgently requested to be present. There's a five-dollar prize for some service Club member is it going to be you?

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Haynes were host and hostess to the 4-H Service Club at their home at Pinner's Point on Monday night, December 28th. Games were played and refreshments served. Incidentally the Service Club thinks Mr. and Mrs. are "simply swell," to put it colloquially. Nineteen (including their house guest, Mr. Ashley Reither) enjoyed the Haynes' hospitality.
