Says Farm Youth Hold Future Of The Nation

RALEIGH, June 16—The welfare of the Nation largely is dependent upon the farm families of the South. This keynote was struck at the Older Youth conference held at State College last week and attended by 101 North Carolina farm boys and girls from Perquimans County in the east to Haywood in the west.

The family as an institution is the bulwark of the Nation, but in the big cities the family is breaking down, said Dr. O. E. Baker, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

While the birth rate is declining seriously elsewhere, it still exceeds the death rate on southern farms, and in 100 years, he said, most of the nation's population will have descended from southern stock.

"You young people hold in your hands the destiny of the Nation," he declared, "and have within your power the ability to build up a country that will endure through the ages."

Col. J. W. Harrelson, administrative dean of the college, also stated that economic changes are bringing agricultural districts to the front, while great cities built largely on wealth produced elsewhere have already seen their heyday.

Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the State College extension service, pointed out that one of the major problems of agriculture is how young people who wish to start farming can secure land of their own. Few have the capital required to buy and equip a farm of any size.

The purpose of the conference, said L. R. Harrill, 4-H club leader at the college who had charge of the conference, is "to give information, training, and inspiration which will help young men and women select intelligently the vocations for which they are best fitted."

Besides the addresses and recreation, the boys and girls were given advanced instruction in agriculture and rural homemaking.

Need Storage Plants For Poultry Products

RALEIGH, June 16—Providing two or three centrally located packing and storage plants would work to the advantage of both buyers and sellers of poultry, believes T. T. Brown, extension poultryman at State College.

At present large grocery companies and packers are forced to buy the bulk of their poultry meat and eggs outside North Carolina because their demands cannot be satisfied within the State.

Yet, declares Brown, North Carolina poultry growers ship large numbers of their chickens and eggs to eastern markets.

This discrepancy is brought about because buyer and seller find it difficult to get together. Consequently, the buyer will continue to make his purchases outside the state, and seller will continue to ship his poultry north.

When there is such a huge potential market right here in North Carolina for poultry and eggs, some plan should be worked out so that local products could be bought by home companies and packers, Brown adds.

One large packing company made a survey of poultry resources in North Carolina a few years ago, but decided, at the time, there would be an insufficient amount of poultry and eggs to justify the erection of a packing and storage plant.

However, declares Brown, poultry production has expanded to the extent that two or three of these plants could be employed to good advantage at present.

Cooperation would be essential to the success of these plants, the poultryman points out. Before they could be set up, officials would have to be reasonably sure that there would be enough offerings from growers to keep the establishments going.

ATLANTIC, June 13—In a game here today, now smooth running, now replete with errors, with the visitors threatening to turn the tide in the ninth, Atlantic vanquished the New Bern All Stars, 8 to 6.

A single by Claude Brown of the locals started the scoring in the third, his bat bringing in two men. Three walks in the fourth frame and a double by Morris, copied with the errors of the All Stars, accounted for four runs by Atlantic. In the sixth hits by E. Himmelwan and

Paul enabled the former to tally once for New Bern. When the home boys came to bat, the local vocal chords again registered high C as the diamond's perimeter was twice traversed, W. Nelson hitting for two losses and Brown again for one. With the New Bernians in the final frames and the game so apparently sewed up, the sea side boys seemed to relax. A walk and three errors filled the bases. At this point a timely bunching of hits brought in five men, and only a tightening by the locals, topped by the masterly hurling of Longest, prevented New Bern from snatching victory, as the game ended with the last two stations occupied. New Bern used three pitchers while Longest held the mound expertly throughout the game for Atlantic. Each team secured a total of six hits. Claude Brown featured for the locals with three hits and a great day of fielding at third. Paul of the visiting team garnered two hits, while throughout the game Rose at first picked the pill out of the air with the board of a magician. The Pollockville club will meet Atlantic here next Sunday, June 20, at 3 P. M.
