So The Farmers Failed To Co-operate

Farmers of Carteret county, big and small, spoke of price conditions. They sought relief from these conditions. And Beaufort Business Association came to their relief by establishing the Auction Market. Exceptionally good prices prevailed at first. This seemed to interest only the few who patronized the market and received the prices. Some of the big growers of the county who advocated the market and donated towards the establishment of same have not been willing to send one load of produce through it. Many farmers came to the market with a load of produce, established a price and then sold the remainder through private sale thus depriving the Market of its just dues. Farmers have continued to sell to truck drivers and buyers in the field at prices below that being offered at the auction market. The farmers' attitude towards the market changed the buyers' attitude towards the market. Due to the decrease in produce passing through the market it has been necessary to dispense with the services of an inspector, in order that the Market might not receive a black eye, so to speak, with the inspection organization in Raleigh and Washington, and so that in the future the Market will have the full co-operation of these offices. Unless a different attitude is shown, and unless you farmers wish for the Auction Market to continue, the Business Association feels that it will be forced to close the market after Saturday of this week. And Mr. Farmer before you pick all of your tomatoes you will be receiving as low as 50 cents per bushel for same—and judging from your attitude towards the Auction Market which was established for you—you don't even deserve that low price.

Orchids To Miss Georgia Neal

As W. W. would say: "Orchids to Miss Georgia Neal." And that is the sentiment of a small town weekly newspaper editor who has read from cover to cover her booklet, "The Old Topsail Inlet, A Story of Old and New Beaufort," which rolled from the presses this week. The booklet is not only illustrated with photographs of many ancient and modern local scenes, but also several pen and ink sketches by Miss Neal. An historical story of Beaufort and her noted citizens who helped weave the history of this town, the state and the nation written by the brilliant historian and attorney, M. Leslie Davis, is also a feature of the booklet. It is a story as only M. Leslie Davis, the best informed person about the early days of this area could write. The back cover is illustrated with the photograph of an oil painting of a full-rigged ship under sail by D. G. Bell, the Morehead City artist and gift shop operator. The inside back cover shows Beaufort and its environs, from Gulf Stream to Neuse river—from Edgewater Club to Cedar Island. To get up such a booklet is a hard long job. Miss Neal was assisted in the work by F. B. Mace. And so the small town editor not only says: "Orchids to Miss Neal," but to each person who helped create and publish this interesting booklet about Beaufort.

There Goes My Girl At Beaufort Theatre

Gene Raymond one of the most popular moving picture stars of 1937 and Miss Ann Sothern, outstanding beauty of the talking celluloids co-star to make "There Goes My Girl," a roaring romance of a girl reporter and a sob sister. They loved and lost and loved again. There Goes My Girl comes to The Beaufort Theatre on next Thursday and Friday. It is a clever picture with a murder mystery background.

A NEW FARM AGENT

To The Editor:
Thru a variety of circumstances Carteret County has lost Mr. Hugh Overstreet, its farm agent. Many have expressed their regret at his leaving. However, our attention must now center on the selection of a new agent.

In looking over the field of those, who probably are most suited to fill the position left vacant by Mr. Overstreet's departure, we find that Mr. C. S. Long, who has served as agricultural teacher at the Newport School for several years, is the man our Commissioners should appoint.

Mr. Long's work in the field in which he has been engaged has been most outstanding. In a recent visit Congressman Barden expressed high praise of Mr. Long's work. Mr. Overstreet, likewise, has on various occasions spoke highly of Mr. Long.

The farmers of the Eastern section of the county may not be acquainted with Mr. Long and his work and therefore can not express themselves, but there is no doubt but that if the commissioners should take a poll of the farmers of the Western section of the county and especially in Newport and its vicinity they would find that these farmers would back Mr. Long one hundred percent.

Our Commissioners could render the farmers of this county no better service than by selecting Mr. Long as Carteret's next Farm Agent.

Yours very truly,
J. W. STEWART,
Beaufort, N. C.

Onslow Gets Him After All

Hugh Overstreet, Carteret county farm agent for many years announced last week on Friday, after it had been stated in The Beaufort News that "Overstreet would stick to Carteret," Onslow County would not relieve him from his agreement given on June 21 that he would go there as County agent on July 1, for the $250 per year raise in salary offered. On July 23, the slow moving Commissioners realizing that they were about to lose a man who had through the years meant much for the agricultural development of the county, equalled the Onslow offer by a raise for Overstreet. But their offer came too late so today, Hugh Overstreet becomes the official county agent of Onslow with headquarters in Jacksonville. J. O. Anthony, of Lillington formerly county agent of Harnett is in Carteret temporarily filling the post occupied by Overstreet. He was sent here by Dean Schaub of the N. C. Extension Service in Raleigh.
