REV. L. D. HAYMAN WILL BE PASTOR OF CHURCH HERE

Rev. C. T. Rogers Is Transferred To Rosemary

REV. MR. DIXON OF NEWPORT RETIRED

Rev. L. D. Hayman, who has been pastor of the Methodist church in Nashville succeeds the Rev. C. T. Rogers who has occupied Ann Street Methodist pulpit for the past three years. Rev. Mr. Rogers has been transferred to a larger church in the town of Rosemary, which is a manufacturing center and a "twin-city" to Roanoke Rapids. The announcements of pulpit changes in the New Bern District were made at the Methodist Conference in Raleigh a few days ago.

The only other change made in Carteret county ministers is at Newport where the Rev. J. C. Whedbee will succeed the Rev. Mr. Dixon there who is being superannuated. The Rev. O. W. Mathewson will remain in Atlantic. There will be no change in the Straits-Harlowe circuit, where the Rev. J. L. Joyce is now serving as pastor. Morehead City Methodists were pleased to learn that their Rev. B. H. Houston will continue to occupy the pulpit there. Down at Ocracoke the Rev. W. A. Crow was reappointed to his post which also includes a charge at Portsmouth in this county.

There will be many people in Beaufort who will hate to see their Rev. Mr. Rogers leave. Since his local pastorate began Ann Street Methodist has made progress. Local Methodists are looking forward to the arrival of the Rev. L. D. Hayman, who

RUNNING LIGHTS

 NEWSPAPER columnists customarily reminisce; sometimes embarrassingly so, always personally. Without encouraging the notion that I think the custom is important, or even interesting, I would like to make note here, in my second attempt at columning under the banner of Messrs. Hattell and Brown that I was living in Beaufort at the time the World War was declared. That was back in 1914. My Dad, who was the Ann Street Methodist minister then, brought the family drinking water to the house from the artesian well down on the corner of what is now Joe House's drug store. I may be wrong about the exact location.

TIDE TABLE

Information as to the tide at Beaufort is given in this column. The figures are approximately correct and based on tables furnished by the U. S. Geodetic Survey. Some allowances must be made for variations in the wind and also with respect to the locality, that is whether near the inlet or at the heads of the estuaries.

Hauling For Mullet They Landed A Giant Mola

"The Rarest Of All Maritime Fish"
 Pictured above is the giant Sunfish or Mola, which was landed in a mullet net by Capt. Brown's Inlet recently by Capt. Whitford Gillikin of Beaufort and his crew. It weighed several hundred pounds and measured 73 inches long and 83 inches from tip to tip of its vertical fins. Director Harry Davis of the State Museum will reproduce a model of the fish. At right is the net which caught the Mola. (News and Observer Photo.)

A Jeweler For The Past 50 Years

B. A. BELL
 Pictured above is B. A. Bell, who has been a jeweler for the past 50 years, 27 of which have been spent in Beaufort. In addition to the foregoing distinctions, Mr. Bell is also the oldest active merchant in Carteret county. He is assisted in the management of his business by his very efficient wife, Mrs. Mattie Bell. They have one son, Ben Bell Jr., who is outstanding in student activities at the Beaufort school and a wizard at several hobbies. The photo of Mr. Bell is the first in a series of local merchants who will make Front Page in this newspaper from week to week.

Mystery Surrounding Man's Disappearance In Newport Section

One day, late in October about five weeks ago, R. S. Simmons of the Newport section was returning from New Bern in his Model A Ford. In James City it was necessary for him to have certain repairs done on the car. He did not have the sum necessary to pay the repair bill in his pockets at the time and two men, probably employees at the Service station accompanied him to Newport to get the money needed.

The three of them returned to the Service station, near New Bern, where it was said he paid the repair bill and got into the car and started for home. But Simmons never reached home. The car in which he was riding was found abandoned on the New Bern road near that town. Since that time his whereabouts have been unknown. A relative of Simmons told The Beaufort News that several persons in the Newport section were of the opinion that probably he had been the victim of foul play... that is they think he might have been murdered. But no good reason was advanced for that thought. Simmons is said to have been addicted to a certain 'headache remedy' which he took due to his poor health and nervous condition.

Christmas Seal Drive Begins As Red Cross Roll Call Ends

Seals You Buy Will Help Undernourished

Mrs. J. G. Allen has been appointed chairman of the annual Christmas Seal sale in Carteret county, it was announced early this week by Dr. R. L. Carlton of Winston-Salem, managing director of the N. C. Tuberculosis Association. As a result of the sale in Beaufort this year undernourished children at the local school will be fed, it was stated.

Mrs. Allen announced that the seals will go on sale in Beaufort, tomorrow, November 26. The sale of the seals in this town is sponsored by the Parent Teacher's Association, and this organization is responsible for having the funds derived from same to be used in the lunchroom of the local school for purchasing food for the undernourished youngsters.

A meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Allen next Monday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock to map out plans for the sale campaign. Mrs. Merrill, president of the PTA and the members of the welfare and finance committee of the organization are urged to be in attendance at this meeting.

Carteret's Citizens Stood By Red Cross

An excellent response has been shown by citizens of Beaufort and the communities of East Carteret county during the annual Red Cross Roll Call for 1938, which officially ends today, according to Mrs. M. E. Bloodgood, chairman of the Roll Call Committee of the Beaufort Chapter. The Beaufort Chapter includes not only this town but all communities between here and Cedar Island.

Cedar Island sent in their report on Wednesday and 19 new members have joined there this year with $7.20 additional contributions which according to Mrs. Bloodgood, is exceptionally good for the communities of Lola and Roe on that Island. Harkers Island another eastern community has shown excellent response with 41 new members added there.

At the last report Mrs. Bloodgood received, (and it is not complete) the workers in Beaufort had secured 81 members up until early this week. The above represents only a partial list of the 24 workers whose names follows:

Over Seven Million Pounds Of Seafood

Over seven million pounds of seafood has been or will be shipped in boxes made by Scarboro-Safrit Lumber Company this year, it was estimated when Mr. Safrit stated on Wednesday that approximately 75,000 boxes had been turned out by the local firm this year. The estimate was figured on a basis that each box would eventually contain approximately 100 pounds of sea-

Writer Errs About Carteret Peanuts

A couple of Sundays ago in a full page article appearing in the News and Observer a writer stated that "Carteret County would produce 1,000,000 pounds of peanuts this year and that Carteret was a new peanut territory. Quick as a flash, when he read the article, County Farm Agent J. O. Anthony wrote the editor of The News and Observer, asking that he would like for

Marianne Making Good

Miss Marianne Taylor, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Taylor is spending the Thanksgiving holidays here with her parents. Since she left Beaufort during the late summer to make her home in Providence, R. I., she has been making good as a singer. She had already made good as a singer in Beaufort years before she left this town. Here she was a member of a famous trio which would have really gone places if the right talent scout had heard them. This trio included, besides Marianne, Miss Ruth Lewis and Miss Mildred Johnson. Since she was very young Marianne had filled an important place in St. Paul's choir. In Providence she lives with her relatives Mr. and Mrs. Ted Downes. Mr. Downes operates the Crown hotel. Soon after her arrival in the Rhode Island city, Marianne became a featured singer in the Crown's Cocktail Lounge, where she entertains each night. She is also a featured singer with Karl Tatz and his Rhode Islanders, an orchestra which has a reputation for being one of the best in the New England states. There are many people in Beaufort who will be glad to learn that Marianne is making good—because she has many friends here in her home town who are wishing her the best of luck. We will be hearing more fine things about the career of talented, attractive, Marianne, as time goes by... Mark those words. P. S. Incidentally she is an ex-columnist (A Sea Gull Told Me) of The Beaufort News—A.B.

Newport Boy Faces Patricide Charges

THREE VIOLENT DEATHS

Two Negroes And One White Man Killed During Week

Three violent deaths have occurred in Carteret county since last Saturday. Two were Negroes, one a white man. About 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening Sir Walter Godette, 27-year-old Negro of the Harlowe section driving a model A Ford died almost instantly when the car he was driving collided head-on with a truck driven by W. G. Willis, of Smyrna. Neither Mr. Willis or Vernon Simpson, the other occupant of the truck were seriously hurt... On Sunday 40-year old Romie Mann of near Newport was killed by his 16-year old son, LaRose Mann. A story about this killing appears elsewhere in this edition.

The car-truck crash on Saturday occurred on Atlantic road, adjacent to Avery's Flower farm. John Wesley Godette, father of the driver of the car, was taken to Potters Emergency hospital immediately, but he died

Killed His Father Who Was Beating His Mother

CORONER'S JURY SAID SHOOTING JUSTIFIABLE

LaRose Mann, 16-year old youth of the Newport section came to Beaufort early Monday morning to be arrested and placed under bond of $500 on charges of manslaughter. He freely admitted to a Coroner's Jury which exonerated him of all blame by saying the 'shooting was justifiable,' of killing his father about noon last Sunday. LaRose told a straightforward story about the whole affair, never once showing any signs of emotion.

The editor of The Beaufort News accompanied Sheriff Chadwick and acting Coroner King to the scene of the shooting Sunday afternoon. The editor served as one of the six-man jury. Upon his return to Beaufort he wrote a detailed story, which under the caption, "Coroner's Jury" follows:

Coroner's Jury

By Aycock Brown
 Six of us who had been sworn in as his jury, by acting-Coroner King of Carteret, expressed our opinion that it was justifiable patricide. As we expressed this opinion to the coroner and Sheriff Chadwick we could gaze through the open door of the ramshackle tenement house and see the crumpled body of a man who had gone deer hunting on this Sabbath morning instead of to Sunday school or church with his wife Eva and their three children, LaRose, age 16, Preston, age 9, and Clarissa age eight. The body of Romie Mann lay in a pool of oozing, crimson blood which was already getting black in spots.

The face of the dead man was white, very white except for several blue spots, perhaps the shot marks which had almost passed through his head from the hole back of the left ear where the full load of shot had entered leaving a nasty cloggy look

Skipper of Fisheries Patrol Boat Hatteras

Capt. Guy Gaskill

Capt. Guy Gaskill, native of Harkers Island, who holds first mate licenses for any vessel on any sea and an expert practical fisherman who knows North Carolina waters like a book is skipper of the State's new patrol boat Hatteras which is now basing at Manteo and operating out of Oregon Inlet in search of violators of fishing laws. Under a Manteo date line a few days ago it was revealed that since the vessel started its operation a number of non-resident menhaden factory-boats and trawlers had been apprehended by the crew of the Hatteras. It was stated that approximately $1,500 in fines or licenses had been collected from the violators of North Carolina's fishing laws, and that indicates that the vessel is paying its way.—(Dare County Times Photo.)

Quail Season Opened Last Week; Wildfowl Season Opens Nov. 27

The quail season opened in Carteret county last Saturday and although no one has brought in a brace of these feathered delicacies for the editor's table to date, reports are that here on the coast the crop of these fast flying morsels is exceptionally good.

On Saturday of this week (November 27) the migratory wildfowl season opens in North Carolina and will remain open until December 26. Reports from all sections indicate that there are more ducks and wild geese along the coast this year than anytime since 1930, this year the eel grass started disappearing.

Capt. Gus Styron of Cedar Island says that ducks and geese arrived there several weeks ago and the weather of late has been such that they are using the shoaly waters near the shore. Guides down in the Davis area report that ducks are numerous in that section of Core Sound. David Gaskill of the Pamlico Inn at Ocracoke telephoned on Wednesday to say that not only were there more ducks and geese in the Pamlico Sound region this year than in several years but that brandt too are numerous. There will be no open season on brandt this year...however.

Covering The WATER FRONT

By AYCOCK BROWN

NORFOLK newspapers a few days ago quoted James Kelly and Joseph Lamb, British seamen who left the late S. S. Tzenny Chandris before she sailed for 'Davy Jones' locker' from the port of Morehead City, as saying the vessel was top-heavy, because the smaller scrap was loaded at Norfolk and the heavier pieces placed on the top at Morehead City. The newspapers quoted these seamen as saying that they refused to sail aboard the Aycock Brown vessel on the proposed cruise to Rotterdam, because she was in such bad condition, and because her engines were not operating satisfactorily. But there is always two sides to a story. I AM OF THE opinion, since I talked with John Memakis, part owner of the restaurant which makes the best coffee of any in Carteret

Pound and Half Lemon Is Grown In Carteret

A lemon, three times the size of any ever offered for sale in local stores which probably came from Florida or California, was brought to The Beaufort News office on Wednesday by Miss Madie Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dickinson of Core Creek. Her lemon weighed one pound and a quarter pounds and it was grown on a bush at their country home. Four other lemons are still on the bush and are now ripening at the Dickinsons. A lemon of a similar size harvested by Miss Dickinson last year furnished juice enough to make three huge lemon pies.
