Since no performance of "The Lost Colony" will be given on this night, playing as it does nightly except Mondays and Tuesdays, the directors made arrangements with D. Bradford Fearing, president of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, to prepare a special program of song, skits, and dances. It promises to be one of the most unusual events in this section.

A special program by the Lost Colony Choir, under the direction of Theos Cronk, musical director of the drama, is being prepared from the repertoire which the celebrated group is now rehearsing for its 1941-1942 transcontinental tour as the Westminster Choir. Noted soloists of the group will sing a group of favorites along with spirituals and classics.

The program will also include specialty acts by Donald Somers, most popular of all Old Toms, who will introduce his marionette creation Elmer Puddle to the audience. Proceeds will be turned over to Bundles for Britain as the contribution of "The Lost Colony" to the valiant struggle being waged today for democratic civilization, according to President Fearing.
