A wind and hail storm did much damage to fruit and growing crops in Wake County Monday afternoon. So far as the reporter has learned the worst damage was done around Wyatt, and also in the southern part of the county, twelve or fifteen miles south of Raleigh. Fruit was beaten off the trees by the hail and wind, and in many places the corn and cotton were beaten to the ground. Luckily, the storm did not cover a very large area.

Monday Dr. Buchanan, superintendent of health, went far down the river to inspect the camps along the Southbound because of reports which had reached the state board of health that there was smallpox there. He found none, but did find another case at Miller's camp near Cotton Grove, the same camp near Cotton Grove, the same camp where he found a case some weeks since.

Cicero Young, of Conrad Hill, reports a startling little incident he observed Saturday while cutting his wheat. His dogs were running a rabbit in the wheat, and as they bounded up and over the top of the grain, as dogs do when chasing a cottontail in such cover, one of them bounded up and came down on his head on a stump; and never wiggled thereafter. He "killed himself dead."

During a severe electric storm in this city, Sunday evening lightning struck a chimney ran down into a house and struck William Graham, colored on the spot, tearing his shoe to pieces, but strange to say he was not hurt beyond a slight shock and a fearful scare. The Supreme Court.

Charleston News and Courier.
The Supreme Court of the United States is again getting behind with its cases. In 1890, when the Circuit Court of Appeals was created there were 1,800 cases on the docket. Since that time about 422 cases on average have been decided each year. Two of the seats on the Supreme Bench have been vacant during the last year, however, one, that of Justice Moody, for the entire year, and the other, owing to the death of two of the justices, for a part of the time. The result has been that only 391 cases have been disposed of at the term which has just ended and there are on the docket today 586 cases, or 108 more than were there a year ago. Some of these cases are of great importance, not to individual litigants alone, but to the business interests of the country generally, and the delay in passing upon them has been a matter of regret.

Some of the members of the Supreme Court are now advanced in years. It is not to be expected that they should turn out as much work as younger men would be able to do. There are plenty of able and upright lawyers in the country. It ought to be a comparatively easy matter to keep all the seats on the Supreme Bench occupied, and that by men of vigorous health and judicial attainments. To this end provision has been made for the retirement on full pay of justices who have reached an age at which most men are no longer capable of sustaining for long periods the heavier burdens of life.

Ends Winter's Troubles.

But such troubles fly before Bucklen's Arnica Salve. A trial convinces. Geatest healer of Burns, Boils, Piles, Cuts, Sores, Eczema and Sprains. Only 25c at Freeman Drug Co.

Why does Great Britain buy its oatmeal of us?

Certainly it seems like carrying coals to Newcastle to speak of exporting oatmeal to Scotland and yet, every year the Quaker Oats Company sends hundreds of thousands of cases of Quaker Oats to Great Britain and Europe.

The reason is simple; while the English and Scotch have for centuries eaten oatmeal in quantities and with a regularity that has made them the most rugged physically, and active mentally of all people, the American has been eating oatmeal and trying all the time to improve the methods of manufacture so that he might get that desirable foreign trade.

How well he has succeeded would be seen at a glance at the export reports on Quaker Oats. This brand is without a rival; is packed in regular packages, and in hermetically sealed tins for hot climates.

John and the Farmer.

John:--Farmer I am going to try a new plan this year on my farm. I am going to sow grass, German Clover, Alfalfa, Vetch and Cow Peas. I am going to gather one crop from all this sowing then later in the season I am going to turn it all under the soil for manure. My land is getting so poor that I can hardly grow corn any more. It seems to be turned and lost all vitality.

Farmer:--John, that will be a lot of trouble and take so much your time. I am going to have some fun myself; going to town, on the excursion, hunt some, and various other amusements, and in the spring I will take all my teams to town and get fertilizers and plant my crop, and if the Lord, land and fertilizer don't make me anything--let it go. That's the way we farm in my section.
