News Over the State

Hon. Kope Elias, one of the most prominent figures in western North Carolina Democracy died at his home at Governor's Island, in Swain county Monday of last week, following an illness of several months.

The Winston-Salem board of trade has called a mass meeting of citizens for August 1 for the purpose of discussing the advisability of calling an election for the issuance of $500,000 of bonds for civic improvement purposes.

A Norfolk-Southern train ran over and instantly killed a white man named Corbett, between Stantonsburg and Walstonburg, below Wilson one day last week. The man was asleep on the track, presumably drunk, for a whiskey bottle was found at his side.

In a decomposed state, the body of Robert Wood, an aged colored man, of Raleigh, who left home about three weeks ago was located in a skirt of woods, about half a mile from the Experiment Station of the A. & M. College last week. Lying near the body of the deceased were his clothes.

The mangled remains of a white man supposed to have been those of W. M. George, of Charlotte, were found on the Southern railway last Wednesday morning by a section foreman a mile and a quarter south of Lexington. It is thought that the man was beating his way on No. 38 and fell.

Henry Frazier, a worthy employe of the Sterling cotton mills fell under a moving train last week at or near the Mason street crossing in Franklinton and had his hand so badly mashed that it had to be taken off all except the thumb. It was his left hand. Drs. Harris and Henderson amputated it.

At a meeting of the directors of the Asheville board of trade held last week, it was decided to invite Col. Theodore Roosevelt in Asheville to deliver an address while on his southern trip next September. The invitation will be presented through Judge J. C. Pitchard, of the United States Circuit court.

Columbus Sheppard, a prominent young man of Washington, D. C., who has been visiting relatives in Salisbury and Rowan county for some time, was set upon by two negro highwaymen one mile east of Spencer one night last week and beaten into insensibility with rocks and robbed of $200.

The Aberdeen sash and blind factory at Aberdeen was burned Tuesday of last week, together with a large quantity of material and finished work. The loss will be about $50,000; insurance, $10,000. The factory was well equipped with modern machinery, and was one of the leading industries of that section.

Joe Chambers, colored, who lived on Mr. Charles Stanback's plantation near Mt. Gelead, Stanley county, stuck a splinter in his foot recently. It was taken out, and putting on a new pair of shoes, he went to a game of baseball. He played until his foot pained him so that he had to be moved to his home. On Sunday he took lockjaw, and on Monday night died.

The election held in Roxboro last week shows a vote of 130 for bonds and 13 against bonds. The issue is for $25,000 and will be used toward street, sidewalks and water system improvements. These bonds will be issued and placed on the market as early as possible. Roxboro has never had trouble in disposing of bonds, local banks having bought all previous issues.

B. F. Self, of Belews Creek, R. F. D., while digging a well near his home a few days ago came across a rock which required blasting and after the explosion he noticed particles of shining metal, which upon washing easily separated from the sand. Samples were sent to the State Assayist, at Chapel Hill who pronounces the shining particles gold and silver.

Senator Overman has received his commission from President Taft as envoy extraordinary as a representative of the United States government to Mexico upon the occasion of the latter country's celebration of the hundredth anniversary of its existence as a republic. The ceremony will be in progress from the 7th to the 21st of September and Senator Overman will leave for Mexico City with the five other representatives of this government early in the month.

Nothing to Do.

"Why there is nothing to do" was the reply a healthy, well grown boy gave to the question: "Why don't you get you a job some where and go to work?" "I have tried to get work in every store in the town and everywhere they say there are no vacancies. I will just have to wait for something to turn up."

Now that boy would not hold a position long if he had one. Waiting for something to turn up! Instead why didn't he go to work and turn up something? Are stores all the places that a strong, healthy boy or girl can work? No matter if they cannot get the kind of work they wish now go at something and do that well, and by and by the right kind will come into view. The greatest trouble in this old world is that there are not as many of the right sort of people to do the work as there is work to do. The opportunities for employment must be made; they seldom come our way and nestle at our feet; not once in a thousand times.

This reminds me of the legend of the student and Socrates. A student once approached Socrates and said: "Master I have learned all my lessons; I have correctly solved all the problems thou hast set me to do. I know the location of the planets and their names; I am acquainted with all the forms of government and the characters of the different tribes; I know the names of all the rulers and those high in authority; I have read the writings of wise men, analyzed them and ascertained their meaning—in short, there is nothing more to do."

"Nothing to do!" shrieked the man of science, as his eyes flashed and he held out his arm in a menacing attitude, "Nothing to do," he repeated. "Why man, don't you know that America has not yet been discovered; don't you know that Carlye's French Revolution, Dicken's David Copperfield Hugo's Les Miserable, Emerson's Essays, and Darwins Origin of Species have not yet been written? That Newton has not yet found out that wonderful law called gravitation, which attracts things in space to earth; that Watts has not yet captured and confined that terrible yet docile power called steam, which is destined to revolutionize the world that Morse has not yet invented the telegraph which will enable residents of distant countries to converse as readily as you do today across the back fence with your neighbor; don't you also know that—"

"There! there!" said the student rolling up his sleeves; "I see master, there is much yet to do and I will try to put in as many hours today as I can, I fear however I will not have time to do it all." That's the idea; so much to do and life is so short. We of cannot all be great inventors and writers but we can get at some employment and however humble it may be we can do that well. "Whatsoever thy hands findeth to do, do it with thy might."

RUBY EVRON.

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge N. Y., when his life wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition" he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken, tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 lbs, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine Electric Bitters-cured me. I regained the 40 lbs lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at Freeman Drug Company.

Big Shipper Talks Rates.

Roanoke, Va. July 16th.—T. A. Griffin of Chicago one of the largest manufacturers and shippers in the middle West, has come out with a circular letter showing the harm done to railroads and then the shippers by the clamor of some sections of the country for lower freight rates. Mr. Griffin in his letter shows there has been an enormous increase in taxation of railroad property everywhere and a big increase in wages through the demand of Labor Unions.

Speaking of this matter Mr. Griffin says that the railroads of middle West had an increase in gross earnings amounting to about $50,000,000 last year and, notwithstanding this apparent increase in gross earnings, the net earnings showed a decrease of 3,500,000, and for the month of March, on the same comparison, these roads showed an increase of $7,000,000. in gross earnings and a decrease of $965,000 in net earnings.

Mr. Griffin says that it is most important to the shippers that railroads at all times are fully equipped to take care of an increase of business. In order to do so it is necessary, since railroad supplies, taxes and labor have all been advanced for the railroads to make some advances in order to give the shipper adequate facilities.
