Corpse Came to Life.

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 17.—Supposed by his family to be dead, Robert Smith, a 70-year-old resident of the hominy section, was prepared for burial by them in the best room of the farm house Tuesday and covered with a sheet. News of the death being circulated in the neighborhood, many friends called to express sympathy and these were invited in to view the corpse. They were massed in the room when the sheet was removed and Smith's face was made visible, but none remained when he opened his eyes and asked, "It's raining, ain't it?" Some went out through the door, but others preferred windows, whose sash they took with them. For some time no one returned. Smith died again next day, and after a physician had pronounced him dead, he was buried.

1,156,622 Cattle Killed In 3 Years by Company.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—In an effort to refute the charges made by the government, the defense in the packers' trial today submitted figures from the books of Morris and Company, showing that in 1907, 1908, 1909 and 1910, 1,156,622 cattle were killed at the company's Chicago plant on which total net profits realized by the sale of fresh meats and by-products was $1,008,215.76 or 87 cents a head.

The next profit on fresh meat in this period was one-eighth of a cent a pound, according to the books of the company.

This information was brought out in the cross-examination of Witness Harry A. Timmins, chief accountant for Morris and Company. He explained the accounting system in use by Morris and Company and assumed personal responsibility for the various changes made in the amount of the allowances for by-products in figuring the test cost of beef.

The witness said he ordered the changes without consulting with the defendants, Edward Merris and Louis H. Heyman, and denied ever conferring with representatives of Armour and Company, Swift and Company and the National Packing Company in figuring the test cost of beef.
