The cowboys call him Teddy, the Tornado.

A record breaker for stump speeches has already been made.

Make war on the fly or the fly will make war on you.

About seventy were present last Wednesday night to hear Hon. E. J. Justice. Judging from the number, don't look like they are struck on Wilson.

That which has been expected for sometime is being realized, when some genius for making trouble would invent solidified spirits. It is now declared that the beer tablet has come and its sale is duly advertised especially in prohibition territory. All that the wishful lusher has to do according to the claims of the inventor is to buy him a box of pills and proceed to become his own brewery. The only question is, will the government allow the sale of these tablets by mail without a tax? It looks but reasonable that the same law which governs the beer should also govern the tablet. However this may be the invention has made it possible for the individual to carry his beer bottle in his vest pocket in a pill box.

Mosquitoes.

The mosquito season of the year is now upon us, and a good season this is for the breeding of these much dreaded pests, because of the much rain this spring. An old pond, swamp, puddle, rain barrel, old tin can, bottle, dish, roof spouting, furnish ideal mosquito conditions. Add to this from one to two weeks of warm days and the result will come in swarms. Marvelous, wonderful how they breed. Occasionally one of these little pests will bite you while thousands of them will worry you by buzzing around when you should be asleep. One of these little pests with one bite may insert malarial enough into your body to cause you to suffer for months. Do you know that approximately 550 North Carolinians died last year of malaria, and many times this number died from other diseases because their bodies were in a bad condition due to malarial, caused by the bite of a mosquito that they contracted other diseases to which they were at all times liable. Swat the beastly insect; put him out of business, clean up the premises and rid him of his home. We are told this pest never travels more than from one to five hundred miles from his breeding place, unless tossed by a breeze.

Clean us the old rubbish, do not leave the back yard full of old cans and bottles half full of water, but put everything that looks like a mosquito's home out of business and thereby save many lives who are annually going to their graves because of this pest and its verminous sting.

Large Crowd Expected at Baltimore

In an editorial on the Democratic National Convention the Baltimore American has the following to say:

And Baltimore is going to take care of the convention crowd, no matter how multitudinous it may be. The expectation is that there will be fifty 100,000 visitors during convention week and some of the estimates run much higher, to 150,000, or possibly even to 200,000. More than one member of the Democratic National Committee has informally expressed the opinion that more people outside the state will gather at the Baltimore convention than ever attended any previous political convention. The main reason for this belief rests, of course, upon the fact that Democrats all over the country have it in their heads that the candidate named at Baltimore is going to be the next President of the United States. About this they may very likely be mistaken, but the promise certainly has enough dazzle about it to bring the Andrew Jacksonites and the Thomas Jeffersonites trooping here from the four corners of the center.

Up from the South they are coming at least forty thousand strong, and from across the Rocky Slopes, from along the Northern wheat zone, from the corn and pork valleys of the Central West, from the pumpkin fields and spindle mills of New England, the mighty Democratic host will soon be making the welkin ring with "Oh, put us off at Baltimore." The crop of campaign songs—the 1912 crop—will, there is reason to expect, be fully up to the highest past record and may break the record. We have already grown familiar with that entrancing symphony—the houn' dawg song—but there will be other charming lyrics, a score of them probably. No bunch of boomers would think of attending a Democratic convention without bringing along a soul-inspiring ragtime song. Oh, yes, there will be music in the air when the Baltimore convention gets tuned up.

A question which is just now worrying a good many cut a large figure in national politics is: Will Congress wind up and get away before the first of the big national convention comes along? It is a question that seems as yet to be involved in doubt. A tentative proposition that is afloat in congressional halls and corridors is that adjournment of both branches be brought about on June 15. But the proposition has not an unobstructed way. Before the end of this week, however, the indications as to getting away or keeping right on at it, will be more clearly defined.

The Red Men in Meeting.

Greensboro, May 26—The 12th meeting of The Red Men of the sixth opened yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the meeting being called to order by E. H. Blackwell, of Tocomo Tribe number 61, the meeting being held in the Revolution school building. About 300 representatives from the various lodges were present: by far the largest attendance at any of these meetings that are held twice-yearly. The lodges comprising the sixth district are located at Spencer, Coolmec, Thomasville, High Point, Greensboro 2, Spray, Reidsville, Althamahaw, Burlington, Ramseur, Ore Hill, Hickory, and Winsto-Salem.

The address of welcome was delivered by B. A. Simpson of Enoc Tribe who are the hosts of the meeting, and was responded to by A. Cheek, of Burlington in the absence of Heenan Hughes of Graham, who was unable to attend. Following the response the roll call of officers was read, committees appointed, resolutions adopted, and the officers of the district elected. Following are the officers:

Sachem, W. E. Herndon, of High Point; Senior Sachemore, R. R. Wyrick, of Greensboro; junior sachemore, W. J. Davis of Spray; prophet, E. H. Blackwell, of Altamahaw; first sannah, A. Cheek, of Burlington; second sannah, J. S. Leonard of Greensboro; guard of wigwam, J. M. Blackmon, of Haw River; guard of forest, George C. White, of Ore Hill.

The Althamahaw tribe was well represented and upon their earnest invitation, they are to entertain the members of the district at the next meeting to be held in September. It was the unanimous request of the district meeting that Memorial day, the third Sunday in May as set apart by the council of the United States and the council of North Carolina, be observed hereafter.

The sixth district had as members a past great sachem, W. L. Stanley and great junior sachemore, W. E. Herndon, of High Point. N. B. Martin of Enoc Tribe is present great guard of the forest for the state organization. The members of the Enoc Tribe tendered the visiting members a delightful banquet in the basement of the school building immediately after the business meeting, immediately after which a photograph of the delegates was taken. Great Chief of records, W. Ben Goodwin, of Elizabeth city was present.

The evening meeting of the Red Men of the sixth district was held in the White Oak assembly hall last night, the meeting being called to order by the district sachem, after a few preliminary remarks by B. A. Simpson. The singing of America and other songs by the White Oak Choir, under the leadership of C. W. Baliff, was good and heartily applauded.

Chief of records Stamey acting for Sachem-elect Herndon, announced the following appointments: Warriors, C. W. Alexander, Vernon Helper, J. Dotkins and A. T. Hudson. Braves: W. P. Calligan, C. B. Smith, J. M. Hawn and D. E. Mitchell.

The address by the Hon. D. M. Weatherly, of Franklinville, a well known educator was a fine effort, the subject being on the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. He gave a very interesting talk and told many interesting facts about the secret order, the members of which he was addressing. The order was organized in 1765, prior to the Declaration of Independence. George Washington was the father of the order, one of the very first members. He stated that the order has 6,000 members in this state and 550,000 in the United States.

Following the address by Mr. Weatherly, were a number of talks by members of the Enoc tribe and the visiting delegates. The White Oak hall was well filled, about 1,000 having gathered to enjoy the evening's program. The resolution committee reported, extending thanks to the members of the Enoc tribe and all those who contributed directly or indirectly to the success of the meeting; and to the press of Greensboro and state for publishing good accounts of the meetings.

Nothing but the infinite Pity is sufficient for the infinite pathos of life.—Joseph Shorthouse.

Be ye angry and sin not; let not the sun go down upon your wrath.—Ephesians, 4; 26.

Childhood often holds a truth with its feeble fingers which the grasp of manhood can not retain—which it is the pride of utmost age to recover.—Ruskin.

Moving Pictures Now in Catholic Churches

Rome, May 26—Moving picture shows on religion may now be given in Roman Catholic churches in America. The Vatican has just given its consent to this distinct innovation at the request of several bishops. The conditions under which the pictures may be shown are that the sacred host be removed from the Church during the performance, and that the women be separated from the men. It is also ordered that the Church be sufficiently lighted. Magic lantern shows may also be given under these conditions.

Colonel Roosevelt Is in Fighting mood

Elizabeth N. J. May 25—With all the emphasis at his command Colonel Roosevelt declared that he would not permit "discredited politicians and bosses", to take control of the national convention. He asserted that professional politicians in the past had been accustomed to try "strong arm tactics". "I won't stand for it a moment," he cried. Colonel Roosevelt made these statements in what he called a "fighting speech," at Plainfield toward the most spectacular of his day's campaigning in this state. He shot about from place to place by train or automobile, firing off speeches in rapid succession to throngs of people who cheered enthusiastically. Leaving Trantown early this morning, he cut across the state to a number of coast resorts and then worked his way toward New York, making his last address in Elizabeth this evening. After speaking here he started for Oyster Bay to remain over Sunday.

Lorimer Will Not Give Up Seat Without A Struggle

Chicago, May 25.—William Lorimer, Jr., son of United States Senator Lorimer, today said that his father would not give up his seat in the senate without a struggle.

Denial of a rumor that Senator Lorimer's resignation had been taken back to Washington by Vice President Sherman also was made by Lorimer Jr. "My father has not resigned so far as I know, and I do not believe that it is likely he will resign," he said. "The rumor is improbable on the face of it. It is not my father's nature to give up. If he goes down, he will go down fighting."

Senator Lorimer today personally announced that he would go to Washington within two or three days if his physical condition becomes no worse. The Senator is suffering from bronchitis.
